RICHESON CONFESSES

ADMITS HIS GUILT

REV. C. V. T. RICHESON

MISS AVIS LINNELL

Accused Pastor Says He Poisoned Avis Linnell

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, formerly pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, today made a written confession to the effect that he poisoned his former sweetheart, Miss Avis Linnell. The statement was given into the hands of his counsel, who made the confession public at 1 p. m. The written confession says:

"I hereby confess that I am guilty of the crime for which I stand indicted."

It gives no details.

RICHESON'S CONFESSION

The confession of Rev. Mr. Richeson follows:

"Boston, Jan. 3, 1912.

"John L. Lee, Esq.
"William A. Morse, Esq.
"Phillip R. Dunbar, Esq.

Gentlemen:—Deeply penitent before my sins and earnestly desiring as far as in my power lies to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted.

"I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit or leniency. Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however depraved and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial her whose pure young life I have destroyed.

"Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mental anguish I recognize there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the divine spark of goodness still lingering with me. I could wish to live only because within some prison walls I might, in some small measure, redeem my sinful past, help some despairing soul and at last find favor with my God. You are instructed to deliver this to the district attorney or to the judge of the court.

"Sincerely yours,
"Clarence V. T. Richeson."

Rumors that Richeson would never face a jury in a trial for his life have been rife about the city for several weeks but they all failed when they reached counsel or the district attorney. Just before noon today the judges of the superior court and the district attorney went into conference at the courthouse and about an hour later representatives of the local papers were called to the office of William A. Morse, the leading counsel for the accused clergyman. In the office were nearly a dozen newspapermen, while in a private office were Mr. Morse, John L. Lee, the Virginia lawyer engaged by the father of the young clergyman, and Phillip Dunbar.

After all the papers had been found to be represented, Mr. Morse said: "Gentlemen, I now give you Mr. Richeson's confession." Typewritten sheets containing the confession were then handed to the newspapermen and those who paused to ask for some further explanation were told that there was nothing more to be said at the present time.

The fact that the confession was dated three days ago was also pointed out to the counsel but they refused to comment upon it at this time.

Within a few minutes the news that Richeson had acknowledged his guilt and had practically thrown himself upon the mercy of the court was being flashed about the city and was rapidly carried to the courthouse.

District Attorney Pelletier had just come from his conference with the judges when he was informed of the new turn in the case. He refused to comment on it until he had learned it from an official source. This came a few minutes later from another newspaperman, who brought to the courthouse the typewritten copy from Mr. Morse.

District Attorney Pelletier read the confession very carefully and then he said:

"The trial will go on just the same, no matter what may be the statement of Richeson."

The chief prosecuting attorney for the county refused to make any other comment upon the confession, although it was intimated that he might have something to say later.

In the meantime the conference of judges had broken up and Chief Justice Aiken, when told of the confession, refused to make any statement regarding it or say what effect it might have on the trial.

As Richeson stands today before the law, he is indicted for the murder in the first degree of Avis Linnell by giving her a quantity of cyanide of potassium. The penalty for such a crime in Massachusetts is death in the electric chair. If Richeson stands in court on Jan. 15th, the date set for his trial and acknowledges his guilt in accordance with the statement made today, the court would have no other alternative than to sentence him to death.

DEATHS IN CHICAGO

Are Attributed to the Cold Weather

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Zero weather continued today to hold Chicago in its grasp and no relief for the present is promised. The word given out from the government weather office early today was that the mercury, which stood at eight degrees below zero at 6 a. m., might drop to 16 below before nightfall.

Suffering was intense. Four deaths were attributed directly to the weather. Scores of families were routed from their homes by fires. Yesterday firemen responded to 157 alarms and the calls continued to sound with regularity during last night.

FUNERALS

QUEEN—The funeral of Mrs. Mary A. Queen took place at her home in Tyngsboro, yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. It was conducted by the Rev. C. E. Fisher, pastor of the First Universalist church, Lowell. There were many beautiful floral tributes, which attested to the esteem in which she was held by her neighbors and friends. The bearers were: Messrs. Fred A. Vinal, Myron A. Queen, Elmer E. Queen and Harold D. Collins. The funeral arrangements were in charge of George M. Eastman & Co., undertakers.

Zero Weather Prevailed in This City This Morning

Today is the coldest day of the winter thus far. It is really unnecessary to make that statement, for almost everyone realizes the fact. Despite the fact that the cold was penetrating, on account of the wind, the mercury did not drop to as low a point as some persons would think.

The upper boulevard pumping station is considered one of the coldest points in the city, yet the thermometer did not show a reading below zero at any time today. It was zero at six o'clock and remained at about the same point until ten o'clock when the mercury started to rise and at noon the reading showed it to be six above zero.

Probably one of the coldest sections of the city today was Christian Hill where the thermometer showed five below zero. At six o'clock this morning the thermometer at the reservoir in Beacon street was 2 above zero, while at Merrimack square at eight o'clock it was three above zero.

Late yesterday afternoon the weather started to grow cold and when people were going home from work there was a strong wind blowing, the snow was drifting and it was biting cold. Those who were wise stayed at home last night, for it was no night to venture out unless it was really necessary.

The cold increased during the night and early hours of the morning and when people left their homes to go to work today it was cold enough to suit almost any one even the wood and coal dealers and those who are benefited by cold snaps.

About ten o'clock today the wind which accompanied the cold died down and the cold was more tolerable.

Snow Drifted

In the early evening the snow was blown in all directions by the wind and the street railway company had a force of plows out keeping the tracks clear. Towards morning the snow artillery was sent to the car barn on Middlesex street. Some of the lines were unable to keep on schedule time, but those well sheltered by houses did not have much trouble.

Eight plows were kept in operation late yesterday afternoon, last night and early this morning keeping the rails clear. In the open districts the wind blew the snow which packed down hard over the rails but the plows kept traversing the lines so rapidly that everything was in readiness for the cars this morning and comparatively little trouble was encountered.

The local division of the Bay State Street Railway Co. is well equipped with plows, having 22 on this division. Eleven are known as nose plows, there are 10 shear plows, and one rotary plow. The rotary plow cannot be used in the city owing to the manner in which it is operated. It is very effective in the suburban districts, however.

MORE MEN DROPPED

Employes of Lands and Buildings Dept. Lost Their Jobs

Today's developments at city hall included the placing of the carpenters in the lands and buildings department on half-time and the discharging of three painters in that department. It was stated that there was no work for the painters and no money with which to pay the carpenters if they worked full time. Because of the snow a few more men were employed by the street department and it was said that most of them were men discharged from the water works a few days ago.

The scene of greatest activity today centered about the office of the street department. It was rumored that Commissioner Brown, who has charge of that department, was putting extra men to work, cleaning crossings, gutters and removing snow in different sections of the city. More than 100 men called during the forenoon but the extra men had been engaged earlier in the day.

Lands and Buildings.

Commissioner Cummings, who has charge of the lands and buildings department, arrived at the hall about 9.30 o'clock and had a long conference with James Dow, inspector of buildings. After the conference Mr. Cummings, in conversation with a reporter of The Sun, said that as the result of recommendations made by the inspector of lands and buildings it had been decided to put the carpenters employed in the department on half-time and to discharge three painters. There are fourteen carpenters in all and the work will be divided into weeks, seven of them working one week and the other seven the next week. The men who will work next week are: Mitchell Bordon, David Connnan, William Egan, Daniel Emerson, Sienna Matte, William C. Piper and Benjamin Smith.

The men who will work the following week are: George H. Berard, Edward Cimpnars, Horace Dexter, William Dadley, Joseph Lavigne, Bennett McMahon and James Smith.

WRITE TO THIS WOMAN

If You Want to Stop a Man From Drink.

She cured her husband, her brother and several of her neighbors, and now she generously offers to tell you of the simple, inexpensive remedy that she so successfully used. The remedy can be given to the patient unnoticed so there is no publicity of your private affairs. She is anxious to help others so we earnestly advise every one of our readers who has a dear one who drinks to drop her a line today. She makes no charge for this help, she has nothing to sell (she asks for no money and accepts none) so there is no reason why you should not write her at once. Of course, she expects that you are yourself personally interested in curing one who drinks, and are not writing out of mere curiosity. Send your letter in confidence to her home. Simply write your name and full address plainly in the coupon below and send it to her.

MRS. MARGARET ANDERSON,
225 Home Avenue, Hillburn, N. Y.

Please tell me about the remedy you used to cure your husband, as I am personally interested in one who drinks.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Charles Klein's "The Gamblers," which remained at Maxine Elliott's theatre, New York, for over 200 consecutive performances and was conceded the greatest success among serious dramas produced last season, comes to the Opera House, Jan. 12 and 13 under the management of The Authors' Producing company, of which Charles Klein is president.

CHARLES KLEIN
Author of "The Gamblers."

In this play the defaulter's act is not condoned in spite of the fact that he is made lovable. The methods of bank looters are bared and the folly of crime in this case is distinctly shown in the personal atonement that comes to each participant. The great point of interest is the coming together of the defaulter and the wife of the attorney for the prosecution, who formerly had been lovers and had been thrown apart through circumstances. Thus, it is not primarily a drama of moral purposes, although that purpose is not absent, but one of sentiment. In other words, the sentimental situation is not unfamiliar, but the circumstances and the treatment are.

An associate in the criminal action had weakened and had turned over notes and a statement to the attorney for the prosecution that would convict. In a scene of tense interest the situation is discussed by the men involved. A game of cards has been arranged for, and it is finally agreed among them that the turn of a card should designate the one who is to assume the responsibility and become the victim of the inevitable indictment. The lot falls to Wilbur Emerson. He enters the house of the attorney at night to abstract the documents from the desk of his personal and official enemy. Mrs. Darwin, the wife, discovers him in his search, secures possession of the papers herself, and will not listen to his pleading that she give them to him. Darwin has had Emerson shadowed by detectives and confronts him there. He believes that he has come by appointment with his wife, but promises to listen to his explanation. He then sends him out of the room and calls his wife to have her confirm it. His questioning is of such a nature that she, in her indignation, declines to finish her story, and assents to his charges. She will leave him. Thus we have a drama of situation and sentiment. The incidents and detail are so cumulative that the action is instinct with life and character and emotion and comedy as well. As a production it is said to reach the high water mark.

JOHN DREW

The play in which John Drew is to be seen here at the Opera House soon is entitled, "A Single Man," a comedy in four acts by Mr. Hubert Henry Davies, already well known in this country for his "Cousin Kate" and "The Mollusc." Although Mr. Davies for the last ten years has lived in London, where he has done his best work, he first received a hearing in this country. Not so many years ago he was a reporter for newspapers in some of the western cities. He has directed the final rehearsals of his play.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

The Old Timers are going and with them go the best wishes of all Lowell, and now by way of contrast Manager Stevens has arranged a program for next week that includes some of the very newest things in vaudeville. A brand new act on the American stage is that of the Six Abdallies, a combination of Arabian and German acrobats who evolve a series of stunts that created a furore in Europe and South America, where they appeared before bringing their wonderful act to the states. Keith got them for their first American tour and wherever they have been in this country they have excited the wonderment and the highest praise of the critics. As tests of agility, daring and endurance their act is a marvel. Prof. Andrews and his "Magic Kettle" gets the Angora of even the most profound scientists for by means of his little kettle the professor can give you anything you desire, hot or cold. He can cook a steak in the kettle one minute and make ice cream the next without any change of paraphernalia. He can melt ice or freeze water and cook eggs to suit the most exacting egotist. The Old Soldier Fiddlers go Old King Cole two better for they are Fiddlers five, with Col. Pattie in command and they tear off all of the old time songs, reels and jigs in fine style. Three are vets of the blue while two wore the gray in '61. DuCallion has surely a high class act, that is to say his act is classy and is done on high for he mounts a ladder and balancing it unassisted goes through a monolog and plays musical instruments balancing the ladder perpendicularly in the air all the time. Balancing the ladder is an act in itself but DuCallion makes that only a feature of his work. Belle Onra, fair of face, symmetrical of form, is an athlete and aerialist with an act that is way beyond the ordinary female athletic offering. Harry Fields, the Kid comedian, will make you roar, White Cole and West have a first class pianolog act. DeWitt Young and sister are jugglers and equilibrists without a peer. A particularly strong program will be offered tomorrow at the concerts.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

At the conclusion of the matinee performance of "Where the Trail Divides" this afternoon, Miss Marie Horton will hold a reception to the ladies of Lowell on the stage of the Hathaway in honor of her 25th birthday. She will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. George H. Hibbard and the other women of the company. Tomorrow at the Hathaway theatre two grand concerts will be given and the management assures the patrons of the theatre one of the strongest Sunday bills ever offered in Lowell, consisting of new motion pictures, high class vaudeville acts, illustrated songs and a full orchestra. The prices will be 5, 10 and 15 cents.

Next week will be one of unusual interest to the patrons of the Hathaway for the Brown-Horton stock company will present another new and high royalty play, "The Boys of Company B," one of the funniest military comedies ever written, the play in which Jack Barrymore, brother of Ethel Barrymore, became famous. Miss Marie Horton and Mrs. Wm. Jeffery will appear in the leading roles, while Mrs. George H. Hibbard, widow of the late Ex-Mayor Hibbard of Boston and one of Boston's best known society women will make her first appearance with the company. Then everyone will be pleased to learn that Charlie Crymble, the popular young comedian and a Lowell boy, will make his reappearance before the footlights for the first time since his romantic marriage a few weeks ago. Another new member of the company specially engaged is Mr. Frank Harrington, the famous tenor singer, formerly with Denman Thompson's Old Homestead company quartet, but now an advanced student of the New England Conservatory of Music. Mr. Harrington will sing at each performance. The company has in preparation "The Daughters of Men" by Charles Klein, author of "The Music Master" and the "Third Degree."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Wyoming Days," Gus Hornbrook's sensational western production, featuring several celebrities of the plains, will be the stellar attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre for the coming week. The act is one in which eight people and five wild and woolly bronchos are engaged in depicting the true life and pastimes enjoyed by those who live in the west. A special car is used in transporting the outfit from city to city, and special scenery enhances the western atmosphere which surrounds the piece. There are exhibitions of roping, fancy lariat spinning, riding plunging, bucking horses, the saddling and riding of two untamed outlaw mustangs and other equally interesting feats. The following western celebrities appear: Miss Florence La Due, acknowledged premier lady fancy roper of the west, who performs several wonderful stunts with the lariat; Glenn Up Dyke, the cowboy from Golden, Col., who rode the outlaw horse, "Silver City," in Wyoming last August in a contest for the world's championship, and who was personally complimented by Former President Roosevelt. Guy Weadick, Wyoming's noted fancy roper will demonstrate the he can derive from an ordinary piece of rope during his leisure moments. Jay Miller, the 16 year old bucking broncho rider will provide amusement and others will be present to add to the general enjoyment which the piece offers. Singing that's good, and an intermingling of comedy adds to the acceptance of the piece.

Others who are to appear on the bill are Billy Quirk, the imitator whose work is always pleasing, Casey and Smith, high-class comedians in their funny sketch, "The Jew and the Salesman," and last but not least the old time favorites, Nelson and Milledge in their popular offering, "Glass Put In." The photo plays for the first three days include "The Professor's Daughter," "A Noble Enemy," "The Mate of The Alden Besse," and several others equally as interesting. The views provided by the American Press association are becoming more popular every week. On Friday night the Merrimack Square theatre concert orchestra will play selections from the opera, "Amorita."

For the sacred concerts Sunday afternoon and evening the following artists will appear in refined vaudeville: The Four Musical Baldwins, Lamber Brothers, Delmore Larose, Metz and Metz, quartet selections, and others. Photo-plays that are new and novel will also be shown. Box office telephone 2053.

THEATRE VOYONS

Tonight is the last of the showing of the Brockton Fair pictures at the Theatre Voyons and everyone who went to the fair should try and see these pictures, for they will recall many pleasant features of the event. Tomorrow an unusually good Sunday program will be offered and on Monday "A Red Cross Martyr" a picture founded on actual events in the Turkish Italian campaign in Tripoli will be shown. This picture tells in dramatic form the reason for the severity of the Italians and depicts the cowardly deeds of the Turks as well. The vengeance wreaked on them as shown on the screen is up-to-date as well as effective. Next Thursday "In the Wilderness," a biograph sensation will occupy the headline position.

SUDDEN DEATH

OF MRS. EMILY M. FLETCHER OF WESTFORD

A sudden death occurred in Westford yesterday when Mrs. Emily M. Fletcher, aged 77 years, and one of the best known residents of the town, passed away. Mrs. Fletcher had been ill for some time but for the past few weeks she seemed to improve in health. Her death was very unexpected and will be a keen blow to her many acquaintances.

Deceased was born in Westford, Nov. 25, 1833, and in 1869 she married the late John E. Fletcher, postmaster and grocer of Westford. She is survived by one sister, Miss Caroline Miller of Middlesex, and one brother, Charles Chandler of Nevada; one niece, Miss Jennie Chandler, a teacher in the Boston schools, and two step-sons, J. M. Fletcher and Frank L. Fletcher of Somerville. Deceased was a member of the Union Congregational church and very highly respected.

CLUB LICENSE BILL

To Permit Liquor Sale in the "No-License" Towns

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The house and senate held brief sessions yesterday. Two messages came from the governor, one to the house relative to immediate appropriations and the other to the senate indicating the number of pardons His Excellency granted last year.

Both branches adjourned to meet Monday at 2.

In his message to the house the governor recommended appropriations for the expenses of both branches. The message was referred to the committee on ways and means, which after considering it reported a bill amounting to $457,520, and the house put it through its several readings under suspension of the rules.

Representative J. H. Brennan of Boston presented his resolutions protesting against the removal of the Navy Yard at Charlestown, and at the request of Representative Bothfeld of Newton they were laid over until Monday.

Among the petitions received yesterday were the following:

Of Representative Lomasney of Boston for ward representation in the city council in Boston, and that candidates be prohibited from using any designation or statement on the ballot.

Of Representative William J. Sullivan of Boston, that all steam railroads of standard gage be required to electrify their lines within the metropolitan park district before July 1, 1922.

Of Representative Crocker of Boston, to authorize the general court to elect annually in January a commissioner of finance to have general supervision of the finances of the commonwealth and of all departments, institutions, boards and undertakings of the commonwealth.

Of Representative O'Hearn of North Adams, that seats be provided for all women and children employed in manufacturing or mercantile establishments, except for those whose employment cannot be performed in a sitting posture.

Of the same petitioner, that juries be authorized in each case to determine whether the penalty for murder in the first degree shall be death or life imprisonment.

Of Martin J. Hart, for a close season on foxes, from March 31 to Oct. 15.

Of Representative William H. Sullivan of Boston, that decrees of divorce shall become absolute in one year, instead of six months.

Of the same petitioner, for a constitutional amendment to provide that judges shall be appointed for a term of seven years, rather than for life.

In the senate a message was received from Gov. Foss, announcing the number of pardons for the year 1911, of which there were 76 issued with the advice of the council, as against 41 in 1910.

Senator Vinson filed a bill to permit the granting of club licenses to sell liquor to bona fide members of clubs within the discretion of the mayor and aldermen of no-license cities, and the selectmen of no-license towns.

Senator Barlow of Lowell filed bills to tax life insurance companies ¼ of 1 per cent. on the net value of all policies in force on Dec. 31, next previous; also to tax incomes above $2000; also to tax stock transfers 2 cents on each $100 of the face value.

GRANGE OFFICERS

Installed at Meeting in Billerica Yesterday

Yesterday was a big day for Billerica grangers and there were two events that filled in the afternoon and evening. The first was the installation of officers of the North Middlesex Pomona grange, and then came the induction into office of the newly elected officers of the Billerica grange and the observance of the 12th anniversary of that grange. James A. Ruth of Billerica was installed as master of both the local and Pomona granges. The ceremonies attracted grangers from Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Dracut, Tyngsboro, North Reading, Westford, Wilmington, Carlisle and other places. The exercises of installation were conducted at both events by State Master Charles M. Gardner, assisted by Mrs. Lester E. Hayward of North Reading. The induction of the Pomona officers was open to the public and quite a few non-members were in attendance.

The Pomona officers installed were: Master, James A. Ruth, Billerica; overseer, Lester E. Hayward, North Reading; lecturer, Mrs. Helen Brinbird, Wilmington; steward, Alonzo Sutherland, Westford; assistant steward, Sylvester Carter, Wilmington; chaplain, James Danforth, Tyngsboro; treasurer, Norman L. Peavey, Dracut; secretary, Lulu M. Hutchins, Billerica; gatekeeper, Fred L. Robbins, Carlisle; ceres, Miss Blanche King, Tewksbury; pomona, Mrs. Ella Ruth, Billerica; flora, Mrs. Hattie Vickery, Chelmsford; lady assistant steward, Miss J. Eve Smith, Billerica; executive committee, three years, James S. Anthony.

After the ceremonies, which were carried on most impressively, there were brief addresses by State Master Gardner, Deputy Walter E. Morris, of Medford, a past master of the Middlesex North Pomona; and songs were given by Percy Yarnold of Chelmsford. Mrs. Charles A. Wright served as a very efficient accompanist.

The officers of the local who were installed are: Master, James A. Ruth; overseer, Harry White; lecturer, Mrs. Lucy E. Collier; chaplain, Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge; treasurer, Clarence A. Bowman; secretary, Josiah Folsom; ceres, Mrs. Julia Brainard; flora, Mrs. Plaistridge; pomona, Mrs. Chester Wright; steward, Charles Wright; assistant steward, C. D. Lenfest; gatekeeper, Charles Burton; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Ellen Sheltz; executive committee member, Hampden Spiller.

THE PANSY CLUB

The Pansy club held a special meeting at the home of Miss Alice O'Neil, 43 Worthen street, last Thursday evening for the election of officers for the year 1912. The officers are: President, Nellie Dias; vice-president, Louise Poole; treasurer, Sadie Sullivan; recording secretary, Flora Craven. They also made plans for their annual dance, which is to be held at Prescott hall, Friday evening, Jan. 12. Refreshments were served and the rest of the evening was spent in piano solos by Nellie Burnside, also singing by Helen Frame.

THE BUTLER VETS

Comrade Lawn Installed Officers Last Night

At the meeting of the Gen. Butler Veteran Firemen's association the principal business was the installation of the recently elected officers. During the early part of the meeting considerable routine business was transacted. The reports of Treasurer P. A. McKenzie and Financial Secretary J. J. Magee showed the association to be in a prosperous condition. Recording Secretary H. E. Clay also gave an interesting report. During the evening remarks were made by President James H. Walker, Secretary Clay and J. C. Cook.

At the conclusion of the meeting a card tournament was held. On Tuesday, Jan. 16, the new officers will tender a supper to the bona fide members of the association. The following officers for 1912 were installed by Comrade James P. Lawn: President, James H. Walker; first vice president, Martin J. Kennedy; second vice-president, Smith J. Adams; treasurer, Peter A. McKenzie; financial secretary, William W. Murphy; recording secretary, Harry E. Clay; foreman, Asa Stirk; first assistant, John C. Cook; second assistant, Richard Jersey; steward, Daniel D. Hickey; league delegate, John C. Cook; board of directors, James O'Brien, chairman; Fred A. Tucker, secretary; Edward Fallon, John Sutherland and Kenneth M. Carney.

Choral Society at Associate, Jan 23rd.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Alexander lodge, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, met Thursday night and installed officers for the ensuing year. Considerable routine business was transacted. The officers installed are:

Past president, Minnie Cook; president, Mrs. Nellie Goodwin; vice president, Mrs. Aurora Hall; secretary, Mrs. Miriam Stevenson; treasurer, Mrs. Annie Hardy; chaplain, Mrs. Lillian Lancelot; conductor, Mrs. Louisa Cook, and warden, Mrs. Mary Walsh.

Visitors from the Boston lodge were also present and made some very interesting remarks on the good of the order.

Odd Ladies

The regular meeting of Loyal Victoria lodge of Odd Ladies was held in Odd Fellows hall Thursday night. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted during the course of the meeting. The following officers were installed by P. N. G. Sister Swallow: N. G., Sister Howard; V. G., Sister N. Fowler; permanent secretary, Sister Seddle; treasurer, Sister Liddell; elected secretary, Crowther; chaplain, Sister Saxon; I. G., Sister M. Fowler; R. S. to N. G., Sister Fletcher; L. S. to N. G., Sister J. Muir; R. S. to V. G., Sister A. Neil; L. S. to V. G., Sister N. Nolte.

On the good of the order, songs were given by Sister Saxon, after which ice cream and cake were served.

The Red Men

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night in Odd Fellows temple, Sachem Edward Crompton presiding. The auditors submitted a report which showed that the tribe is in a good financial condition. The chiefs elect will be raised to their respective stumps by the deputy great sachem, Joseph H. McNabo, and suite of Haverhill, at the next meeting.

Remarks on the welfare of the order by visiting brothers, from the hunting grounds of Pittsfield, Brothers Hibbart and Forrow. On the tribal affairs by K. of W. E. T. Goward, J. H. Hickey, A. W. Garland and the sachem.

Knights of Pythias

Wannesit lodge, K. of P., 25, met in regular session last evening with Chancellor Commander A. H. Abbott in the chair.

The report of the auditing committee was read and accepted. The relief committee reported Brother MacKenzie off the sick list, Brother Phillips was reported sick, and Brother Taylor was reported in about the same condition.

It was voted to hold a public installation of the newly elected officers and the uniform rank was invited to act as ushers. The entertainment committee will hold a ladies' night next Friday when whist will be in order.

PRESIDENT WARD

Names Kling Manager of Boston Nationals

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—John Kling of Kansas City will manage the Boston Nationals next season. Never for a moment has Fred Tenney been in the running since John M. Ward and Jas. E. Gaffney came into control of the club's affairs.

Kling met President Ward at the annual meeting of the National league last month in New York, and talked the matter over. Kling was willing to take the responsibility, and everything was left to Ward to work out in the most peaceful way possible.

Knowing that Tenney had a year's contract with the club, President Ward has never spoken one word to the veteran manager on the subject. From his first visit to Boston, Ward made it pretty clear, however, that Tenney would not lead his Braves next season, so that Fred was not surprised yesterday when the reporters came out of President Ward's private office and gave him the news of Kling's appointment.

President Ward displayed considerable feeling when he gave his reasons for the change in management. "I have been giving the matter serious consideration," said he, "especially as I didn't want the public to think that Fred Tenney was being disciplined. I knew Tenney to be a decent fellow, and did not care to have my actions criticised. My whole thought was to do the very best I could for the club.

"I didn't rely wholly on my own judgment, but felt out every baseball man I knew in New York and Boston, both public and players, even officers of clubs, as I wanted to get the consensus of opinions.

"After weighing the matter for several days I decided that I would prefer a playing manager, and I consider the catcher of a team the best man to look after the players on the field. When a club is in hard luck the public is likely to get after the manager; but if this manager is a good, steady player the fans are inclined to let up on him.

"I had a long talk with Mr. Kling and found him temperamentally the man I wanted. He has been trained in the up-to-date school, and I believe he can get good results out of the men we have under restive.

"Tenney didn't have a chance to show his best work last season, as the team failed to show until the close, and he might have made a much better showing next season. However, I found that the players whom I talked with were impressed with Kling; in fact Kling seemed to be the universal choice with those I talked with.

"I deeply regret having to turn down a good fellow. Tenney has a contract with the Boston club, and we will not ask him to compromise. When I return from New York next week we may talk the matter over. Tenney may have other offers to manage ball clubs, and certainly we will not stand in his way."

President Ward left for New York on the 5 o'clock train, and said that he would not be back until late next week.

Kling sent a telegram to Ward yesterday afternoon saying that he accepted his new position and will leave for Boston any time that he is called for.

BASKETBALL NOTES

Grant and Cote of the Y. M. C. A. are said to be two of the fastest forwards in this part of the state.

Clark of the Cadets has been signed by the Mysteries.

O'Brien and Flynn of last season's Sodality Five will also be seen with the Mysteries and the manager made a wise move when he secured their services.

A league will soon be started at the Boys' club.

Some fast games are being played at the Armory.

The Cambridge A. A. of Worcester would like to meet any 115 pound team in the city. William Barker, Mgr., 259 Cambridge street, Worcester, Mass.

WANT STATE AID

For the Lawrence Industrial School

LAWRENCE, Jan. 6.—Mayor Scanlon and the trustees of the local industrial school held a conference last evening with C. A. Prosser, deputy commissioner of the state board of education, relative to bringing about a restoration of the state assistance, which had been discontinued last July.

The situation involves a loss of about $5000 annually to the city from the state, as well as about $1000 due from out-of-town pupils which is not collectable unless the schools are under state supervision. The criticism offered was that the local schools had been at the mercy of politics and the state board had finally decided to withdraw its assistance.

Financial assistance was refused until this condition was remedied. Agent Prosser agreed that further investigation would be carried out and after receiving assurances of improvement in the buildings as well as the conditions under which they were conducted he said assistance might be renewed.

MONSIGNOR BYRNE

WELL KNOWN PASTOR IS CRITICALLY ILL

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Mgr. William Byrne, rector of St. Cecilia's church, is seriously ill at the parochial residence of the church. Three years ago he had a stomach trouble, which has returned lately, accompanied by a general breakdown. The last rites of the church have been administered.

He celebrated mass on Christmas day, but since has been unable to perform that duty and took to his bed last Saturday.

Coming to this city in 1882, Mgr. Byrne has performed noteworthy work as a churchman, holding the high office of vicar-general of the Boston archdiocese and laboring as pastor of St. Joseph's church in the West End and lately in St. Cecilia's church. Before he came to Boston he was president of St. Mary's college. He was born in County Meath, Ireland, in 1833, and ordained in 1864.

LOWELL MAN

INSTALLED OFFICERS OF LAWRENCE ENCAMPMENT, I. O. O. F.

Officers of Lawrence encampment, 21, I. O. O. F., were installed last evening in Odd Fellows hall, Lawrence, by Charles A. Clough, D. D. G. P., and suite of Lowell. A banquet was held. The event was largely attended by members of the lodge and a fair delegation was present from Lowell.

DIED SUDDENLY

FREDERICK EVANS, WELL KNOWN RESIDENT, PASSED AWAY

Frederick Evans, aged 59 years, a well known resident of this city, died suddenly yesterday while shoveling the snow off the sidewalk opposite his home, 9 Gleason street.

Mr. Evans had been ill for some time, but yesterday he seemed very well. Late in the afternoon he went out with a shovel in his hands to clean off the sidewalk. He had not been at work more than five minutes when he dropped to the sidewalk. Mrs. Evans who had been watching him from a window went to his relief and found him moaning and breathing heavily. He was carried into the house and placed on a couch where he breathed his last.

Mr. Evans was a native of England, but had lived in Lowell nearly all his life, being 59 years of age. He was an expert marble cutter. He learned his trade of William Andrews, by whom he was for a long time employed. Then he worked for Andrews & Wheeler, and later for O. M. Wentworth, in Boston. His health had not been good for a few years past, but he was feeling much better of late and seemed especially well yesterday forenoon. He was an honest, quiet, industrious man, a member of the order of Pilgrim Fathers, and also of the Immanuel Baptist church, of which he was treasurer. He leaves a wife, one brother, Mr. James Evans of Methuen street, and two sisters, Mrs. George Stott of Merrill avenue, and Mrs. Elizabeth Keating of Providence, R. I.

CONFERENCE

OF BOARD OF GOVERNMENT OF THE C. T. A. U. TOMORROW

Tomorrow, in Cheverus hall, 18 Harvard street, Boston, at 3 p. m., will be held the annual conference of the board of government, the advisory council and the officers of the various societies affiliated with the C. T. A. U. of the archdiocese of Boston.

This convention should be the most important one of the year. Committees on the evening party will report progress. The legislative committee will give an encouraging report. The licensing board of the city of Boston has taken recognition of the union's stand upon liquor being served to women and since the union first took action upon this evil, the number of places with women privileges have been already reduced and the last report of the board sent to Governor Foss, devotes more attention to this evil.

This bill, endorsed by our union and later approved by the Scranton convention to have saloons closed on Good Friday, is meeting with public favor. At the annual convention of the Middlesex County Branch of the American Federation of Catholic Societies of the Archdiocese of Boston held in Boston, Sunday, Dec. 31, the delegates unanimously voted that the executive officers write to each representative and senator in the county asking not only for his vote in favor of this measure but his assistance to secure its immediate passage.

At this conference the delegates will consider the division of the archdiocese into counties. A county committee will be appointed to establish societies in parishes where none exist.

THE TEXTILE SCHOOL

Geo. Tupper to Speak on Industrial Education

Mr. George Tupper, the well known lecturer on industrial matters, will address the students of the school Monday afternoon in the assembly hall. The subject of the lecture will be "Industrial Education." Mr. Tupper, who is considered an authority on the subject and who is the author of many industrial works, spent four months abroad during the past summer studying the conditions of the working class in England, France and Germany. He is now touring the country lecturing before the various colleges and schools to arouse the interest of the students in their less fortunate brother-men who work long hours for small salaries in factories and workshops.

Mr. Tupper is industrial secretary of the Young Men's Christian association and it is through the courtesy of the local Y. M. C. A. that he has been secured for Monday afternoon.

The semi-annual examinations of the school will be held during the two weeks following January 15th. The second term will start Monday, January 29th.

Capt. Arthur Daw '12, captain of the baseball team for the coming season, will call out candidates for the nine in a few days. Frank Brady, coach of last season's football eleven, has been secured to coach the baseball team.

Brady played first base for Dartmouth college three years ago and is well versed in the national game. Manager Crane '12 will soon have his schedule completed, which includes contests with the representative scholastic and collegiate nines in the state.

The students are rehearsing faithfully their various parts in the Textile show which is to be held in Colonial hall the 21th of March. The show this year promises to outdo any production of past years and Managers Hartshorn '12 and Goodale '12 are working hard for its success with this end in view.

CHORAL SOCIETY

FINE CONCERT TO BE GIVEN IN ASSOCIATE HALL

Much could be said of the coming concert by the Choral society, which is to take place Tuesday evening, Jan. 23d at Associate hall. The chorus has put in a great deal of solid, painstaking work into its rehearsals of the two compositions by Coleridge-Taylor which it will present under the leadership of Mr. E. G. Hood. Both "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," and "Death of Minnehaha," are remarkable dramatic musical settings of portions of Longfellow's poem. They are full of color and change in both vocal and instrumental parts, and are considered among the strongest and finest compositions before the public. With the Boston Festival orchestra to assist, the presentation of these works promises to be one of the most enjoyable events of the winter. But this is not all that the Choral society has to offer at this concert. In the solo talent which takes part in the program there is a rare treat in store. Miss Josephine Knight needs no introduction to a Lowell audience. Her voice is well suited to dramatic expression, and she sings with a spontaneity and authority that comes only from thorough mastery of text and music. Mr. Paul Althouse is the possessor of an unusually robust tenor voice. His work in the presentation of "The Messiah" at Lawrence on Wednesday evening was a revelation to those who listened. He handles his voice with superior musical intelligence, and is fast swinging toward the very front rank among American singers.

Mr. Stephen Townsend is a name familiar in Lowell, and his voice will be heard with pleasure. He took part in the first performance of "Hiawatha" by the Cecilia society in Symphony hall, Boston. In the beautiful Hiawatha's Farewell he was very effective, and made this the crowning triumph of his singing. The sale of tickets has been very encouraging and a large audience is already assured.

ENGINE STRUCK CAR

Snow Blinded Sight of the Conductor

ROCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 6.—A fatal accident was narrowly averted last evening, near the Gonic station, on the Boston & Maine railroad, when electric car No. 21 of the Dover, Somersworth and Rochester division of the New Hampshire Transit company, in charge of Conductor Norris Willey of Dover and Motorman Martin J. Donahue of Rochester was struck by train 815 due in this city from Dover at 6.40 p. m., and in charge of Conductor Moses Morrill and Engineer Walker.

About 20 passengers were in the electric car, en route to Dover and Somersworth, among them being workmen on their way home. On arriving at the railroad crossing the car stopped and Conductor Willey being unable to see the approaching train on account of blinding snow signalled the motorman to proceed. The train was not seen by either the motorman or conductor until the car was on the railroad track and the locomotive only a few feet away.

The locomotive struck the rear vestibule of the car, removing it, but the passengers, seeing the danger rushed to the forward part of the car, panic-stricken and saved their lives. Had the conductor and passengers been in the rear vestibule, as is usually the case, they would have been killed. No one was injured in the least.

The electric car was put out of commission and passengers were transferred the rest of the evening. Word was immediately sent to headquarters and a wrecker dispatched to the scene of the accident. The passengers in the steam cars were shaken up by the sudden application of the air brakes.

RUSSIA'S DESIRE

To Increase Yearly Exportation of Sugar

PARIS, Jan. 6.—The [illegible] sugar conference, which was held at Brussels, adjournment being taken to January 17, is having difficulty trying to meet the request of Russia to be permitted to increase her yearly exportation of sugar.

Russia wishes to increase her exportation by [illegible] yearly, the International Sugar [illegible] September 1, 1912, but it is likely that the union will be renewed for another term; that is to say, until 1918.

Aviation Salon

European aviation interest is now centred in the third annual international aviation salon, which has just been inaugurated by President Fallieres. The huge space of the salon building with its glare of light and beautiful decoration, setting off the 200 or more aeroplanes, offers an attractive and picturesque spectacle.

The exhibition indicates that progress and improvement in aeroplane construction have been remarkably rapid as regards both monoplanes and biplanes, but it is generally believed that there will be no great changes in the general appearance of the aeroplane in the near future.

The races of the past year caused constructors to turn their attention to securing increased speed. This is evident by the number of speedy machines in the exhibition. There is, however, a strong tendency to build machines which afford a maximum of safety. It is also [illegible] that aeroplane purchasers [illegible] insisting upon more comfort in the aeroplane. Military contracts now contain a paragraph dealing with comfortable seats, cases in which to carry tools and sometimes even the installation of a wireless telegraphic apparatus.

The general lesson of the salon is that the aeroplane has definitely arrived as a military instrument, but that much is to be done before aviation will be hailed as a popular sport.

Brilliant Dinner

The American Ambassador and Mrs. Bacon gave a brilliant dinner this week in honor of Premier Caillaux and Mme. Caillaux. Among the others present were the Italian Ambassador and Mme. Tittoni, the Spanish Ambassador and Mme. Caballero, the Minister of War and Mme. Messimy, M. Lepine, the prefect of police, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlemagne Tower.

Mme. Rejane

The most startling innovation in the Paris theatrical world this season is the review "Sans Gene," which has been inaugurated at the Rejane theatre by Mme. Rejane. It is now an accepted notion that vaudeville houses should include short one-act plays in their programs, but that vaudeville should completely monopolize one of the largest temples of "legitimate" art is a distinct departure for the Parisian theatrical world.

The French review is a sort of vaudeville [illegible] of current French [illegible] of interest or gossip. Mme. Rejane [illegible]

CHICAGO WOMAN ACCUSED OF SHOOTING HER HUSBAND

MRS. RENA MORROW

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Rena B. Morrow, held on a charge of murdering her husband, says that he killed himself, and she has obtained a court order for the exhumation of the body so a second autopsy may be held. Morrow was found dead a week ago on the back porch of his home at 1545 South Michigan avenue. At first it was supposed that he had committed suicide, but the coroner's physician found that one bullet had penetrated the brain and the other passed through the heart. He said that either wound would have been instantly fatal and that they could not have been self-inflicted.

YEOMAN MOORE

LOWELL BOY WRITES FROM NEW ORLEANS

Yeoman R. G. F. Moore, a Lowell boy, who is on the U. S. S. Petrel, has written an interesting letter to The Sun relative to his stay in New Orleans, Louisiana.

According to the letter the members of the fleet have had a very enjoyable time and they have been treated in a manner which they will long remember. Although Yeoman Moore claims to have had a good time he is anxiously awaiting the time when he can come back to Lowell. He expects to reach this city either in May or June and then he will not return to the navy.

The itinerary for the Petrel covering the period from January 2 to March 19th is as follows:

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2; Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, Jan. 6 to Jan. 11; Livingston, Guatemala, Jan 11 to Jan. 19; Puerto Cortez, Honduras, Jan. 19 to Jan. 29; Bluefields, Nicaragua, Feb. 1 to Feb. 12; Cristobal, Canal Zone, Feb. 13 to Feb. 26; Port Limon, Costa Rica, Feb. 27 to March 4; Greytown, Nicaragua, March 4 to March 11; Kingston, Jamaica, March 14 to March 19; Guantanamo, Cuba, March 19.

FUNERALS

BURRELL With very impressive service yesterday, the remains of the late Alvin J. Burrell, better known as Ralph J. Burns, who died last week in Rock Island, Ill., were laid in their last resting place in St. Joseph's cemetery. The funeral took place from the home of the father of the deceased, Edouard E. Burrell, 479 Moody street, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The cortege wended its way to St. Joseph's church, where at 9 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated for the repose of his soul, the celebrant being Rev. Fr. Brullard, O. M. I., D. D., assisted by Rev. Frs. Audibert and Racette, O. M. I. The choir under the direction of Mr. Frank Goudreau rendered Perrault's harmonized mass; Miss Elodie Chapdelaine presiding at the organ. At the offertory Miss Eva Lussier sang Leybach's Pie Jesu, and at the elevation "O Salutaris" was sung by E. J. Larochelle. The bearers were: Geo. Ducharme, Stanislaus Landry, Alphonse Boisvert, Emeril Frappier, Ernest Ducharme and Wilfrid Cognac. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where the committal prayers at the grave were read by Rev. Fr. Amyot, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Amedee Archambault.

Several members of the 46th regiment, 8th regiment and 26th regiment, U. S. A., the latter of which deceased was a member, called at the house of mourning last night and offered prayers for their deceased member. A delegation was also present at the funeral.

THE GENOA CLUB

OFFICERS CHOSEN AT MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

The first meeting of the year of the Genoa club was held at the Knights of Columbus rooms Thursday night, and they elected officers for the ensuing year with the following result: Henry J. Heaps, president; Joseph S. Rourke, vice president; Phillip J. Breen, clerk; James J. Brown, treasurer; James T. O'Hearn, attorney. The above officers with the following were chosen as directors: Hon. Jas. E. O'Donnell, Michael F. O'Brien, John F. Welch, James J. Danahy and Albert E. O'Hear.

Vice President Joseph S. Rourke presided.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Edouard E. Burrell and Undertaker Amedee Archambault wish to extend their most sincere thanks to Messrs. A. H. Hawley, treasurer general of the B. L. F. and E. of Peoria, Ill., and J. M. Metzgald, general chairman of the B. of L. F. and E. of Rock Island, Ill., for the efforts they made to locate the parents of Mr. Burrell's beloved son, Alvin J., who died recently in Rock Island, Ill., and also for the kind treatment they gave these men while in Illinois.

There was a month's mind [illegible] mass sung at the Sacred Heart church yesterday morning by Rev. Fr. Wood, O. M. I., for the repose of the soul of Ira Depocher.

LONDON GOSSIP

Novel Test Made at the Recruiting Depots

LONDON, Jan. 6.—To ascertain how much boys educated in the elementary schools of England remember after leaving school, several officers in charge of recruiting depots have put a series of fifteen questions to the newest recruits. The replies in many cases were amazing, particularly as the recruits generally come from the large cities having the best elementary schools.

At one depot thirty-five recruits were examined. Fourteen, fifteen, fourteen and eleven respectively could not give a reply to the questions to the identity of Alfred the Great, Nelson, Wellington and Shakespeare, and many of the others had only vague ideas as to who these heroes of their country were.

To the question "What is the United States?" sixteen replied correctly, four knew something, fifteen were entirely ignorant, and one man, who had been eight years at school, answered "An English colony."

Strangely enough even fewer knew anything of France. When it came to England, however, every recruit answered correctly, although only fifteen could say what the Empire was.

Trans-Australian Railway

All the necessary legislation has been enacted in connection with the proposed construction of the trans-Australian railway and work on the project, which is to be carried out by the Federal government itself, will commence very shortly and its completion is looked for within three years. The line starts from Algoorlie, 380 miles from Perth, one of the Eastern limits of the Western Australian system, whence it connects with other railways through South Australia, Victoria, New South Wales and Queensland. The new line is 1,060 miles in length and its cost is estimated at nearly twenty million dollars. While the railway will be of great commercial advantage, the necessities of defence have chiefly influenced Australia in making the expenditure. The country, faced with the danger of a possible Asiatic invasion, one reason for the desire that Britain and America should control the Pacific, has been putting her defensive resources in order ever since confederation. Modified conscription has been adopted as the military system of the country and liberal contributions of ships and men have been made to increase the British naval forces in the South Pacific. Lord Kitchener too went out to advise the government on the measures to be taken to defend the country and one of his first recommendations was the construction of this railway to bring Western Australia nearer to the other states of the confederation, at present the Western province being entirely dependent upon assistance from sea.

Made Bad Money

The police have just succeeded in getting rid, for five years at least, of a man who carried on the triple occupations of manager for a large West End firm, anarchist and coiner. He was caught while engaged in the latter occupation and sentenced to five years with hard labor. Alexander Estegny was his name and his description can be found in the Rogues' galleries throughout the world. He has held numerous positions of responsibility and just before his arrest was engaged as manager at a salary of fifty dollars a week. In the evenings the police found Estegny engaged in a large workshop at Hampstead, fitted up with a complete coiners' outfit. He had also been watched as an anarchist and he was known to be a member of an important anarchists' club in London. For that, however, the English police do not disturb men. They may talk all the anarchism they like and for this privilege they refrain from putting their practices into theory in England, immunity thus being obtained for Royalties in this country.

Sold for $47,500

At an auction here the Clydesdale stallion, Baron of Buchlyvie, was sold for $47,500, the largest price ever received for a draft horse, and, for a horse in his 12th year, the sum has few precedents even among thoroughbreds. The best previous price ever received for a Clydesdale was $15,000, paid some twenty years ago for the two-year-old colt Prince of Albion.

Capt. Cook Overlooked

Although most of England's heroes are represented in the capital of the empire by memorials of various sorts, the famous explorer, Captain James Cook, who lost his life in the Hawaiian Islands, is not numbered among them, but this oversight will soon be corrected by a society which plans to erect a life-size statue on the Mall to the great circumnavigator.

The plan originated with Sir James Carruthers, a former prime minister of New South Wales. On a recent visit to London he was surprised that there was no statue here to the man who was responsible in a large measure for the addition of the antipodean territories to the British empire. He directed public attention to the oversight and the agitation resulted in the appointment of a committee with Postmaster General Samuel at its head to provide a suitable memorial. King George V, at that time Prince of Wales, accepted the presidency of the society for the erection of the statue and although his elevation to the throne has caused him to withdraw from office in it, he continues to give the movement his heartiest support.

The government offered its aid through the medium of the board of works, which provided an admirable site for the statue on the Mall side of the new Admiralty arch. The design and execution of the statue, which will be unveiled some time next year, has been entrusted to Sir Thomas Brock.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS

At the City Institution for Savings

The great increase in business at the City Institution for Savings has forced the management of this savings bank to make considerable alterations in the spacious quarters at the corner of Hurd and Central streets, and the banking rooms as they appear today are second to none in the city and the floor space is both spacious and convenient.

The City Institution for Savings was opened for business in 1848 and has since done business on a very large scale. The president and treasurer, Messrs. F. A. Buttrick and F. W. Hurd, have been in office since 1871 and 1875 respectively, and their fair deals as well as earnest work have made the institution what it is, one of the most progressive banks of Lowell.

The institution enlarged its quarters once before and at that time it was the general belief that the floor space then would be sufficient for all time, but despite the fact that the work room or office space was quite large it was not sufficient for the increasing business, and likewise the space for the public. Therefore last July it was decided to enlarge the place and operations were at once begun.

The position of the counter in the business office was changed and the president's former room was turned into a storage safe. This room is square and spacious and is also fire proof. An addition was made to the business room, making a total floor space of 1800 square feet, the addition being built on the roof of the first story in the rear of the building. This room is daintily arranged, having a carbolith floor bordered with an 18 inch dark slate and a four inch slate base board. A large arch of pretty design has its position in the centre of the room. The walls have been repainted and the room has a very neat appearance.

The first room on the left side of the business room as one enters, is a ladies' room. This cosy corner is very attractive. The floor, as white as snow, is of the mosaic style, while the mahogany sheathing about seven feet high is of an artistic design and very pretty. This apartment is divided into lavatory and toilet. In the latter the floor and walls are of carbolith and very sanitary. The furniture is new and handsome.

Then comes the trustees' room equipped with oak furniture. The floor and walls are also of oak and the room has a fine appearance. The president's room is large, finely furnished and very attractive. The floor is of oak and has a pretty border. From this room is an exit to the business office by means of a former closet which was converted into a passageway, thus making it handy for the officials of the institution to enter the office.

The safe is still in the same place. Another place for new accounts was installed at the end of the business counter, this being done to accommodate the depositors.

Other important alterations were made in the two stairways. These were turned into one large stairway with tile steps, and in the corridor to the entrance to the banking rooms is a large skylight which affords a good steady light and the appointments are excellent.

The banking rooms are large and conveniently located and the patrons who are always treated with the utmost courtesy will undoubtedly appreciate the generous and very excellent improvements and alterations.

The quarter days of this institution come on the second Saturday of January, April, July and October.

The appended statement, an exact duplicate of the one sent the bank commissioners of the state at the close of business, October 31, 1911, gives an idea of the stability of the institution and the soundness of its investments:

BILLIARD TABLE

PRESENTED TO THE CENTRALVILLE SOCIAL CLUB

At the last meeting of the Centralville Social club the recently elected officers were installed, and the gift of a billiard table from Mrs. J. L. Chalifoux was accepted and a rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Chalifoux. The table, which is a pretty design, was given to the club through the efforts of Ex-Representative George E. Marchand, a member of the club.

The officers were installed by Severin Hebert, aided by Napoleon Larose. Those installed are as follows: Isidore Trudel, president; Edmond Traversy, vice-president; Omer Ducharme, recording secretary; Fred Lussier, financial secretary; Ludger David, treasurer; P. T. Gagnon, sentinel; Severin St. George, E. Pelletier, A. Camelle and H. Ducharme, directors.

The meeting was presided over by President Arsene Trudel.

Saturday, January 6, 1912, is "Quarter Day" at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Plans for Annual Meeting—Civil Service Examinations

The services of Mr. Albert Edmund Brown, music instructor at the State Normal school, have been secured by the board of trade for their annual January meeting, which will be held at Mathew hall, Dutton street, on the 18th instant. Mr. Brown, who is a great bass soloist, is worth hearing and no doubt his name will be a good drawing card on that night.

A feature of the evening, however, will be the lecture by Frederick Winslow Taylor of Philadelphia, who will deliver an important address on "Efficiency of Scientific Management."

Luncheon will be served to the members of the organization at 6.30 and at 7.30 the gallery will be thrown open for the accommodation of those interested in the topic of the discussion. Invitations are to be sent to overseers of the local manufacturing plants as well as to representatives of the labor unions, and it is expected a large attendance will be on hand.

The meetings of the different committees of the board scheduled for next week are as follows: Monday, Highway and Good Citizenship committees, 4.30 and 5 p. m. respectively; Tuesday, Educational and Executive committees, 4.30 and 6 p. m. respectively, and Wednesday the directors will meet at 4.30.

FUNERAL SERVICES

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—The Episcopal burial service was read today over the body of Alfred Tennyson Dickens in Trinity church, where 50 years ago Charles Dickens, his father, attended services. Several miles through the streets of New York, in biting cold and under a cloudless sky, the body was then taken to Trinity cemetery, where it was placed in a receiving vault to await its final disposition. A lot in the cemetery, donated by Trinity church, has been offered to his daughters as his burial place. Services at the church were conducted by the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity. The honorary pall bearers included Andrew Carnegie, Henry Clews, A. Barton Hepburn, former Senator Clark, Dr. John H. Finley and Courtney Bennett, the British consul general.

NAVAL DOCUMENTS STOLEN

KIEL, Germany, Jan. 6.—A safe containing secret naval regulations and documents was broken open and robbed in the cabin of the first officer of the protected cruiser Stettin today. A reward has been issued for the discovery of the thief. Naval officers declare that the stolen documents did not comprise any official military information.

ANOTHER DARING HOLD-UP

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Four men walked into the Central hotel early today, poked their revolvers in the faces of Henry Douglas, night clerk, and his assistant, looted the safe of $75, tied Douglas and his fellow clerk back to back with stout ropes and then fled. One of the hold-up men made off with a quantity of solid silver. This is the second hold-up within a week south of Fulton street, the "dead line" below which crooks are warned not to go across on peril of arrest.

STOCK MARKET

WAS FIRM AT THE CLOSING HOUR TODAY

Better Tone Infused Into the Prominent Stocks—Prices Hung Around Yesterday's Final Figures—Central Leather Stocks Depressed

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Price changes were few and relatively unimportant at the opening of the market which soon developed an irregular tone. Fractional gains were made by Lehigh Valley, American Can, pfd, Consolidated Gas and a few minor issues. The market leaders scarcely moved either way. Slight recessions were recorded in Third avenue, New York Central, Amn. Smelting and Erie first pfd. Trading was extremely light.

The movement in the first hour was still irregular and the range limited. There were no aggressive operations for either account. Realizing in Lehigh Valley, American Can pfd and Rock Island pfd, was offset by bidding up of other specialties. Interborough-Met. pfd gained over a point and there was a brisk rally in Third Avenue. Western Union was unusually active and gained 1¾. By 11 o'clock the trend of the active stocks had become defined downward.

The market closed firm covering by the short interest infused a better tone into the prominent stocks during the closing hour. Prices, however, hung around yesterday's final figures and the demand was light. Central Leather stocks and bonds were depressed on reports of poor earnings. American Beet Sugar fell a large fraction and South Porto Rico Sugar 7 points.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Refuses to Discuss Political Situation

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt spent the morning in cutting down trees in the woods surrounding Sagamore Hill. When Col. Roosevelt was not wielding an axe he was giving directions. The biting cold apparently made no impression on him. To all inquirers the colonel sent word that he would say nothing. After more than a year of comparative obscurity, Oyster Bay is again achieving prominence. As a result of recent political developments, Sagamore Hill is once more in a state of seige. Despite the colonel's refusal to talk politics a squad of correspondents has camped in the village.

U. S. CARTRIDGE CO.

HELD DANCING PARTY LAST EVENING

The second annual dancing party of the employes of the U. S. Cartridge Co. was held in Lincoln hall last evening and the affair proved a grand success. An order of 20 numbers was enjoyed by the dancers, music being furnished by Miner's orchestra. The officers of the affair were: General manager, Wm. McLenney; floor director, J. Joseph McOsker; treasurer, J. Eugene Mullin.

SALEM FIREMEN

Used Milk Cans to Carry Water

SALEM, Jan. 6.—Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed three barns on Danvers street owned by Thomas C. Bryson, entailing a loss estimated at $2600. In one of the barns a horse valued at $275 was burned to death. The fire is said to have originated from an overheated stove in a harness room and there was no insurance on the property burned.

The fire department worked under great difficulty. In response to a call from box 317 Steamers 2 and 4, Hose company 2, the hook and ladder truck and a chemical arrived at the scene, which is at the extreme southern west section of Salem. The firemen suffered intensely from the cold, as the wind blew relentlessly over the wide stretch of pastures. The only way to reach the blaze was by Swampscott or Highland avenues and the distance from the city hall, owing to a long detour, is about four miles.

As soon as the apparatus arrived, Steamer 4 was put in commission by drawing water from a well. In six minutes the supply was exhausted.

At the same time the chemical engine which arrived with two large tanks of fluid exhausted its supply and the firemen were obliged to secure milk cans and draw water from Acorn brook. Finally enough water had been brought to refill the tanks and then a geyser of chemicals was poured upon the Bryson cottage and it was saved.

So far as known the department was never before summoned into this section of the city.

THE WORST IN YEARS

Policemen, Firemen and Life-Savers Suffered Last Night

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The first product this season of the northwestern cold wave factory reached Boston early today on the wings of a 30 knot gale, making the iceman's heart glad, the thinly clad sad and the householder with the frozen water pipe mad. A continuation of polar conditions for the next few days was the assurance given today by the weather forecaster. Temperatures in New England were not excessively low at sunrise today but the strength of the gale made the absence of heat more noticeable and those whose duties called for out of door work like policemen, firemen and the life-saving patrol on the coast said that the night was the stiffest in many years.

The temperature in Boston at 6 a. m., was four above zero, with lower readings farther north in New England and slightly higher to the south.

Something below the cipher mark is anticipated tonight throughout New England.

24 DEGREES BELOW

PITTSFIELD, Jan. 6.—Cities and towns in the Berkshire hills experienced one of the coldest days today in years. In this city at daylight, unofficial thermometers registered from 16 to 24 degrees below zero. In more exposed points even lower temperatures were reported. There was very little wind stirring.

DETECTIVE BURNS RELEASED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 6.—Federal Judge Anderson today issued a writ of habeas corpus releasing Detective William J. Burns from the custody of the county authorities. His bondsmen had surrendered him to the county criminal court, where he stands indicted on the charge of kidnapping J. J. McNamara.

NEW MEXICO A STATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—New Mexico, the forty-seventh state to enter the union, ceased to be a territory at 1.35 p. m. today when President Taft signed the proclamation of statehood.

GOOD SKATING

IS PROMISED AT SHEDD PARK TOMORROW

Charles A. Whittet, superintendent of parks, stated this forenoon that there would be good skating at the Shedd park skating rink tomorrow. He put two gangs of men at work scraping and shoveling the snow from the ice and if there are any rough places they will be flooded and made smooth. Scraping the snow from the rink was a pretty cold job and the men had to work for all they were worth in order to keep warm.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1911 was 15,442

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1912. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

The advocates of a public bath system look forward with confidence to having something done in the matter during the present year.

One of the most pressing demands upon our city at the present time is that for a contagious hospital. The law requires every city to have one. The need of a tuberculosis hospital is equally great and both must be provided as soon as possible.

In regard to temporary loans in anticipation of taxes the municipal board now on the job continuously can provide the money as it is needed so that there will probably be no need of borrowing any large amount pending the collection of taxes.

The government seems to be bringing out considerable evidence against the Chicago Packing company on the charge of criminal violation of the anti-trust law, but it remains to be seen whether any of the ten men indicted will be convicted and sent to jail.

The Atlantic fleet is to engage in another war game near the coast of Cuba, possibly to fight all over again the battle of Santiago harbor. This time two new battleships, the Florida and the Utah, will engage in the manoeuvres for the first time. The men of the navy do like to have something of this kind going on all the time.

The board of pharmacy in its annual report recommends that the law be made more specific and restrictive in regard to the sale of poisons. The board recommends that the law forbid any store to sell poisons without a special license. There has been a law to restrict the sale of firearms, and it is just as necessary that the law relative to the sale of poisons impose greater restrictions.

That was a bungling execution in which Elroy Kent was hanged. The hangman in that case should be held accountable for cruelty in using a rope that broke and necessitated the gruesome task of finishing the job in a manner similar to that in which the lynching mobs hang negroes in the south. This incident should induce the Vermont authorities to get an electric chair before they execute any more murderers.

The citizens of Lowell should show a little patience with the new government while the work of setting the machinery in motion is in progress. It is impossible to please everybody and the new commission should be allowed some latitude and some leniency during the transition period. Once all the offices shall have been filled the business of the city can be conducted without the pressure incident to the election of officials at the beginning of the year.

Governor Foss has renewed his demand for a state finance commission, and the subject will probably come up for discussion in the legislature. It is not clearly defined what the precise functions of such a commission would be, but at least one of its duties would be to prevent any municipality from getting into the straits in which the city of Lawrence finds itself at the present time. The new government, however, should be able to restore the finances of the city to a normal condition.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

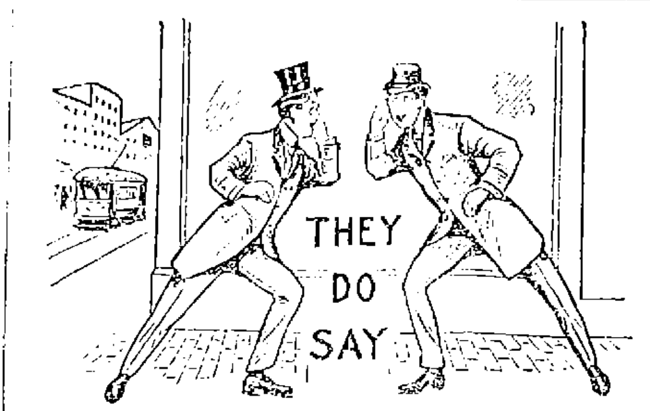
Deputy Commissioner Prosser of the state board of education at the conference with the advisory board of the industrial school and the school board, Thursday night, gave a very comprehensive statement of the state's policy in promoting industrial education. The work is merely well begun in this city and if conducted on the lines laid down by Mr. Prosser and Principal Dooley at this conference it cannot fail to prove highly beneficial to our city. The movement is one that should be encouraged without, however, encroaching upon the important work of education in the common schools. It is gratifying to find the public schools, the industrial and the textile schools all working so harmoniously for the educational and industrial advancement of the community. It augurs well for the future of our city as affording opportunities for acquiring technical training never before available in this or any other city of the state.

ROOSEVELT ON THE JUDICIARY

Col. Roosevelt's editorial on the alleged danger arising from the "usurpation of power" by the courts in declaring unconstitutional laws which the people want and should have, is characteristic of the man. He holds that we surrender our liberties when we place such plenary powers of interpretation in the hands of men who are not responsible to us.

So far as we can judge from Col. Roosevelt's long editorial, he would either deny the judiciary the right of interpreting the constitution or else constitute the people the final judges in the matter or otherwise give the people some power by which they can overrule the judges who thus decide against the wishes of the people.

The Outlook editor does not state precisely in what way he would make the judges responsible to the people or to what extent he would limit their power of interpreting the constitution. So far as we can fathom his meaning, he would not allow a case in which the court is almost equally divided to be decided against the people. It would probably meet his approval if the court were required to give a unanimous opinion in all cases in which a statute demanded by the people is declared unconstitutional. That would certainly give the people the benefit of the doubt; but it might soon make some very big rents in the constitution. Col. Roosevelt does seem to have a very pronounced antipathy to the courts and that is one reason why it is not safe to place such a man at the head of the government. When in office as president he prejudged cases before the court and denounced the courts for certain decisions. Neither the interpretation of the constitution nor the administration of justice could be secure with such a man as president of the United States.



That the mayor's private secretary is big enough for the job in every sense of the word.

That very few sleighs are in evidence though the sleighing is fairly good.

That certain members of last year's city council are constant attendants at the meetings of the municipal council.

That a vote when roll is called is worth ten promises.

That the jump of the fish warden's salary from $10 to $100 a year has rendered the office attractive.

That call firemen may hear from Ald. Barrett in a way that will cause surprise.

That there are many candidates for city hall jobs whose names have not yet been voted upon.

That the new law governing the issuance of marriage licenses by the city clerk has frustrated the well laid plans of many a bachelor.

That the American Hide & Leather company's new beam house in Perry street will not be finished in February.

That business is on the increase at the Shaw hosiery.

That twelve men were engaged in shoveling out the gutters on a very short street in Belvidere yesterday morning.

That there will be some good ice races before the winter is over.

That Harry Gonzales is in line for the position of fish warden with Joe Flynn a good second.

That these are very busy days at city hall.

That Robert Van Tassel is still in Lowell and will not leave for the south where he has accepted a new position, for a week or so.

That those holes have not been fixed in Pawtucket street near the French-American orphanage and that the light so badly needed has not yet been installed.

That the patrons of the street railway would like to see signs on the sides of the cars. At present, in many instances, the signs appear only on the front and rear ends.

That Alderman James E. Donnelly made a big hit at Keith's theatre Thursday night.

That [illegible] thinks it is about time that the municipal council would take up the question of public baths.

That the new city council should not indulge in any delay in the installation of a sanitary station near Merrimack square.

That Lowell has more pretty girls than any city in Massachusetts, not excepting Boston.

That a little boy or girl in furs looks just too sweet for anything when equipped with skates at Shedd park.

That the city is a little bit shy on cash but that all will be well in the near future.

That Judge Hadley wishes Gov. Foss would hurry up and appoint his successor.

That "Dan" Leary has withdrawn from the fight for the position of poundkeeper and that Orville Peabody has ceased to worry.

That the members of the Centralville Social club greatly appreciate the gift of Mrs. J. L. Chalifoux, who presented them a handsome billiard table.

That many people have not as yet dropped the habit of writing 1911.

That a local plumber is candidate for the position of inspector of buildings.

That the fellow who sleeps with the windows down from the top should wear a nightcap.

That eggs will keep just as well in the pantry as they will in the safe.

SEEN AND HEARD

A local business man had a rather novel experience the other night while attending a wedding celebration. Having received an invitation for the festivities he called at the house in the evening and of course was well received. After putting away his hat and overcoat, he proceeded to the reception hall where a dance was in full swing. While he was looking on, an acquaintance in passing caught a lock of his hair and pulled rather hard. The man wore a toupee which was pulled from his head to his great discomfiture in the presence of the assembly.

The following from the Mechanicsburg, Pa., Journal, simply goes to show that the woman is bound to have the last word.

My wife, Mrs. Edna Rahn, having left my bed and board without cause, I hereby give notice that I will not be responsible for any debts which she may contract.

William Rahn.

My husband, William Rahn, tells an untruth when he says his wife left his bed and board, I still hold the fort. I expect him to support me, else he will know why. And as far as the making any debts for him is considered, he is not able to pay for his own debts that he makes for himself, let alone for anyone else.

Mrs. Edna Rahn.

Theatrical folks love to tell of a western manager, now prominent in the business, who made fame and fortune as proprietor of a small variety house in San Francisco.

The thrifty German had accumulated considerable money, and was about to open a new theatre. Several hours before the first performance the entrance was packed, and the manager in trying to reach the front door became hopelessly imprisoned in the crush.

"Here, here!" he yelled, "peoples, peoples, it's me—it's Mr. Warner!"

As no one appeared to take any notice of him he again yelled at the top of his voice:

"Vait a minute, peoples. Vat's de use of pooshing like dis? Take your time—de first two acts is rotten."

A New York epicure who prides himself on his knowledge of things epicurean was much interested in an item he discovered in the menu laid before him on the occasion of his visit to a town of the middle west. The item was "green bluefish."

"Waiter," demanded the New Yorker, "what sort of bluefish are green bluefish?"

"Fresh, sir," quickly responded the servitor. "Right from the water."

"How dare you try to impose upon me?" continued the epicure. "You know well enough, that bluefish are not taken at this season."

Whereupon the waiter picked up the menu and gave it a careful scrutiny, as if by that action he would solve the mystery. Then, with an air of one suddenly enlightened, he added.

"Oh, that sir? That's hothouse bluefish."

VERSES WRITTEN ON MY BIRTHDAY

Ho, little Breezes, come play me a tune,
A tune of this Winter weather,
For my soul it is bubbling over with joy
And my heart is as light as a feather,
Play me a tune that is happy and free
Of raindrops and whirling snow,
And let us frolic and merrily trip
On the light, fantastic toe.

Ho, ye little Birdlets, come dance with me,
Upon this happy day.
Come, join the revels that make for sport,
And chant me your festive lay,
Sing me a song of joyful caprice,
Of fun in the fields far away,
And let me be happy, and shout and sing,
For I'm just Twenty-one today.

Oh, you old Father Time! You work full well,
The years seem almost to fly,
It seems a scant step from the Day of Birth
To the one on which we must die.
But, away with such thoughts on this festival gay,
And let me be light-heart and free,
For it's only once in a Life you can say,—
"I'm just Twenty-one today."

Then, ho, ye soft breezes, come, strum on your strings,
And play me a song of joy,
And let this occasion be full of mirth,
Of pleasure without alloy,
And haste ye snow Birdlets, and frolic with me,
Come, chant me your sweetest lay,
For my soul is at peace with God and men
For I'm just Twenty-one today.

—Antonio.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Boston Herald: Seldom has a public man shown so much intellectual and moral growth in a single twelve-month as the present governor of this commonwealth. A comparison of his two inaugural messages suggests that the "General Improvement Prize" which Dartmouth college regularly awards each commencement day might well have its counterpart in Massachusetts. A year ago Mr. Foss' state paper was redolent with vindictiveness toward Senator Lodge, to whom by implication several of its passages pointed. It was throughout further tinctured with an agreeable dash of self-satisfaction. Both these elements are happily less in evidence now.

THE MISSOURI ASPIRANTS

Manchester Union: So, it appears, a state democratic convention in Missouri is deemed necessary to settle the differences between the adherents of Champ Clark and those of Joseph W. Folk for the Missouri delegation to the National convention. Perhaps, when the National convention is over, the democrats of Missouri will wonder why they put themselves to so much trouble.

TEACH THEM, NOT JAIL THEM

Boston Globe: All statistics of crime in the larger American cities show a certain percentage of offenses are committed by foreigners who have not been long in this country. A large proportion of the sins attributed to them, the district attorney of New York city says, "are due, not to malice or depravity, but to ignorance of our laws." The trouble is that most of the newcomers are absolutely unacquainted with our laws and ordinances, and in many instances they cannot speak or read the English language.

AGAINST THE HOLDING COMPANY

Boston Journal: If there is any possible kind of state regulation of activities—industrial, political or correctional—which is omitted from Governor Foss' second message, it must be because the suggestion has not been made to him.

Regulation with a crowbar is his most radical proposition, and he applies it to the Boston Holding company, which, he says, should be ripped apart in order to get the New Haven and Maine to connect the freight and passenger service through the city.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

William C. Preston, one of Belfast's stable proprietors, observed Christmas by giving his horses a holiday. The day before Christmas he told his men that under no circumstances were the horses to be let out on Christmas Day. The day was his Christmas present to the animals. Although opportunity to let them occurred many times during the day, the horses were left alone to enjoy their Christmas dinners, and it is safe to say that they appreciated their master's gift.

COULD NOT PUT HANDS IN WATER

Itching and Burning, Scratching Made Sores, Unable to Do Any Work for about 4 weeks, Tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment, Within 2 Months Perfectly Well.

Fort Fairfield, Me.—"About a year ago I was troubled with an itching and burning on my hands, and especially between the fingers. In a few days pimples arose, filled with water, and would pain me so as to make me miserable. The itching caused me to scratch and make sores with a crust on them, and I was unable to do any work for about four weeks. I could not put my hands in water, and they swelled, especially the backs of the hands. After suffering with it for a month and getting no relief, I was asked to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment by a friend, and must say I found almost instant relief, and within two months my hands were perfectly well.

"My little nephew when in infancy was troubled with tender burning skin especially on the lower part of the body, and would fret most all the time, his skin would blister and be so red and sore looking. We tried Cuticura Ointment after his bath, which was always taken with Cuticura Soap night and morning, and then he would rest comfortably. I cannot praise Cuticura Soap and Ointment enough for what it has done for myself and nephew." (Signed) Mrs. Blanche Dargle, Nov. 21, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have been the favorites for the treatment of eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations and other torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

THE OLYMPICS WON

Took Three Points From the Alpines

The Olympics won three points from the Alpines in a game in the City league series last night. The Alpines started off by winning the first string but the pace was too fast and they lost the remaining strings and the total. The bowling of Letrain of the winning team was the feature of the game. In the second string he put up 148 and his total for the three strings was 359.

The Calvary bowling team and a team made up of picked men met on the alleys last night and the former team won by a wide margin. Kennedy of the winning team was high man.

In the game between Teams One and Two of the U. S. B. & S. Co. league the former team won all four points.

RAICEVICH WON

He Defeated Romanoff in Straight Falls

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Raicevich, the Italian heavyweight wrestler, although handicapped in height, weight and reach by Romanoff, won his match with the Cossack in Mechanics building last night in two straight falls. The men are two of the biggest wrestlers in the country, Romanoff weighing 280 pounds, while the Italian is 30 pounds lighter, but has a better knowledge of the game than has Romanoff.

Despite his handicap, Raicevich was the aggressor most of the time. As neither of them can speak English, and Referee Tuckey cannot speak their languages, he had to do a lot of his refereeing with the aid of a whistle.

It was very evident before the first session had gone far that Romanoff relied more on his strength than on what little he knew about the style, which was catch-as-catch-can. Several times when Raicevich was on his hands and knees, the Cossack did not appear to know how to get a hold.

A number of times the Italian had good holds, and it looked as if he would get a fall, but Romanoff would break the hold by his strength. After wrestling half an hour, Raicevich, who was quick, despite his weight, got a front nelson on the Cossack, and in quick time had the Cossack on the floor. The latter used all his strength to break the hold, but the Italian had him too firmly in his grip and gradually the shoulders of the Cossack were forced to the mat, Raicevich winning the first in 31 minutes 10 seconds.

In the second session Raicevich did a stunt that brought the large crowd of spectators to their feet yelling like mad. The Italian laid prone on the floor, taking a rest, and twice the Cossack threw all his weight on top of him. The third time he tried it the Italian wriggled away, and the Cossack came down with a bang on the floor.

They were wrestling for a hold when, like a flash, the Italian seized the Cossack's left arm and threw him over his shoulder onto his back on the floor. The Italian fell on him at the same time, securing a front nelson. Amid great excitement Raicevich forced Romanoff's shoulders to the mat, winning the second fall in 7m. 5s. Raicevich was declared the winner, and the hundreds of Italians who were present gave him a great reception.

TICKET SCALPING

Both Clubs Exonerated by Commission

CINCINNATI, Jan. 6.—The final official action was taken here yesterday on the celebrated ticket-scalping scandal that ruffled the baseball world directly after the world's championship series in New York and Philadelphia last October. While the national commission gathered enough evidence to assure it that wholesale ticket scalping took place in both cities, yet this evidence indicated that neither the New York National nor the Philadelphia American League club owners, managers, players or employes were in collusion with the scalpers.

The commission holds that the charges by the press at the time were justified, but gently criticises a number of persons who at the time of the episode offered to produce proof as to the alleged collusion, but failed to furnish any evidence of value.

Besides exonerating both clubs the commission praises them for the extra precautions which were taken against scalping. State and municipal legislation against scalping is urged.

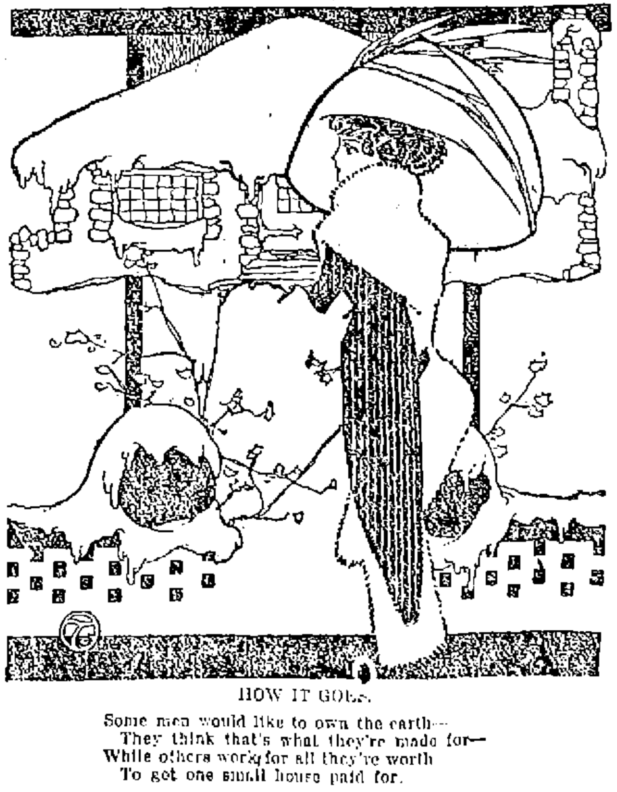
THE SUN'S DAILY PICTURE PUZZLE



HOW IT GOES.

Some men would like to own the earth—
They think that's what they're made for—
While others work for all they're worth
To get one small house paid for.

Find the householder.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE.

[illegible] down, near at man's knee.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

HOW IT WAS.

"How did yo' all get yo' nose busted?"

"I done slipped down an' plumb lit on my back."

"But, name o' goodness, sah!—yo' nose isn't located on yo' back!"

"No, sah; an' needer was Brudder Jones."

INEVITABLE.

Mr. Flatiron—Dey ain' no use talkin' to a woman.

Mr. Charcoal—How so?

Mr. Flatiron—She done bound to git yo' wid weepin' er hammer yo' wid a flatiron, bul-leve me. Han' me do hoss liniment, Mistah Charcoal.

HIS WIFE.

"What do you do for a living, Sambo?"

"I'se de manager ob a laundry."

"What's the name of the laundry?"

"Eliza Ann."

BIGGEST RACE PROBLEM.

"Br'er Jones, does you think de devil is a black man or a white man?"

"I dunno; an' all I does know is—de biggest race problem is now ter keep ten yards ahead of him!"

LUCKY.

"Did you have any good luck at the crap game last night?"

"Well, I should say so! My wife found me and took me home before I had a chance to lose anything."

HER ONE WISH.

"Mammy, let me show you some self-raising umbrellas."

"No use, man, no use."

"How about self-raising window shades?"

"No good to me; but, mister, if you'll tell me how to turn dese heah fohteen bad chillun into self-raising pickaninnies ah'll be yo' friend foh life."

Paul Delaronde were the painters who were discharged because of no work.

"It would not be policy for us to go ahead and spend money in anticipation of our appropriation," said Mr. Cummings, "and that is why it was deemed advisable to put the carpenters on half-time. We will have to go slow until we find out what our appropriation will be." There is considerable work in the lands and buildings that might be done at the present time but Mr. Cummings says he doesn't believe in going ahead until there is something to go ahead with.

The Water Department

Commissioner Barrett did not put in an appearance at his headquarters in the water department at city hall this forenoon, but it was said that he had visited the pumping stations. Chief Hosmer of the fire department was looking for Mr. Barrett. He understood, he said, that Mr. Barrett would make the rounds of the fire department today but he didn't show up. The chief had a talk with Alderman Barrett yesterday afternoon and the alderman told him that he was going to transfer the chief's stenographer, Miss Marrow, to his office at city hall where he has established headquarters.

The Mayor's Office

When it comes to letters Mayor O'Donnell is in a class by himself. He has received more letters during the few days that he has been in office than some chief executives in past years received in six months. One of the letters received today was from Mayor O'Connell of Worcester, so it was a case of O'Connell to O'Donnell and here's the letter:

Worcester, Jan. 5, 1912.
To His Honor the Mayor,
Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir: I was informed a week or two ago that the city of Lowell was having some legal difficulty with the Bassano Paving Co. of Worcester. I hardly understand the nature of the trouble or misunderstanding between your city and the company and would be very much pleased if you would give me some information concerning the same. The information may be of considerable assistance to me as we are having considerable work done here by the company.

Will you kindly give me the information as early as convenient and greatly oblige.

Yours very truly,
David F. O'Connell,
Mayor.

The School Board

When asked by a reporter of The Sun as to when the school board would get down to real business, Chairman Farrington of the board today replied: "As soon as the board has adopted permanent rules we will start upon the transaction of business. I believe that we should have rules at the outset and Mr. John J. Rogers is at present drafting them. I feel confident that the rules as suggested by Mr. Rogers will meet with the immediate approval of the members and as soon as he is ready I will call a meeting of the board as a committee of the whole to discuss them. When they have been adopted a business meeting will be called without delay."

Chairman Farrington, meanwhile, has instructed Superintendent Whitcomb to prepare a list of the expenditures for 1911 and an estimate of the appropriation needed for the ensuing year. Mr. Farrington will confer with Commissioner Cummings at the latter's convenience relative to the matter of school repairs. Heretofore all school repairs were made exclusively by the department of the inspector of buildings, but section 54 of the new charter gives the school board certain power relative to repairs, the section reading as follows:

4. The school committee in addition to the powers and duties pertaining by law to school committees, shall have power to provide when they are necessary, temporary accommodations for school purposes, and shall have the control of all school buildings and of the grounds connected therewith, and the power to make all repairs, the expenditures for which are made from the regular appropriation for the school department, except as is otherwise provided herein.

"In the past it would appear," said Mr. Farrington, "that the school department has always had some difficulty in having repairs made on school furniture. Fortunately Commissioner Cummings was formerly a member of the school board and understands the needs and requirements of the school department."

Takes Optimistic View

The inspector of lands and buildings in closing his report for the year 1911 takes a very optimistic view of things and allows that Lowell is due for the greatest building boom in her history. List to his words of encouragement:

For years Lowell has shown a healthy growth, both in population and in general business, and although the past year has developed a slight depression in business as regards work of some of our larger corporations, preparations have been made by many of these to further increase their capacity for business. The outlook is therefore bright, for the reason that there is great prospect that business will increase within a short time and that the plants will again be taxed to their utmost, turning out manufactured products. When this time arrives and in my opinion it will be within a very short while, we may expect a building boom, the like of which Lowell has never known.

Notwithstanding the slight depression in business of these corporations, there has been general activity in the building line and although this year's building operations, as regards the report of the estimated cost of buildings for which permits were issued, falls off over a quarter of a million dollars from last year's figures, I feel that there has been more work for building tradesmen during the past year than for a score of years previous, for in addition to the work started during the year, it must be remembered that a great many buildings were started the year previous and were only completed recently, while there are a few more that may not be finished until the middle of 1912.

For the total number of permits issued in 1911 was 564 as against 562 for 1910, showing an increase of only 2, while the estimated cost of the work for 1911 was $1,500,269 as against $1,777,654 for the previous year, showing that the value of work in 1911 was $277,385 less than in 1910.

The following table of estimated values as they appear on building permits tells the story from 1904 to 1911 inclusive:

1905	578,090
1906	901,745
1907	1,225,517
1908	1,049,051
1909	1,378,853
1910	1,777,654
1911	1,500,269

State Aid Inspector

State Aid Inspector Stone will come to Lowell about January 15 to inspect pension certificates and records, circumstances and general conditions. The inspector will remain three days and the different ones receiving state aid will be informed by card at what hour to appear at the state aid office at city hall. These examinations take place only once in two years.

Has Extra Clerk

Commissioner Brown has an extra clerk in his office but it was stated this morning that the new clerk, Albert Forsythe, was employed only temporarily and for the purpose of taking count of the personal property and appraising the department. Mr. Forsythe was one of Mr. Brown's campaign managers. Mr. Brown called at the city messenger's office this forenoon and said he would like to have the big desk formerly used by Frank M. Dowling, clerk of committees, transferred to his office. The city messenger said he would have to consult Commissioner Cummings before making the transfer as he was the custodian of the building and its contents.

The Health Department

The year just passed was a pretty busy one for the health department and the expenses of the department were considerably more than the expenses of the previous year. In 1911 the department spent $73,125.97 as against $65,211.31 in 1910.

The cost of contagious diseases for the year 1911 was $6,097.16. This was considerably larger than in 1910 because there were more cases to attend to. The department collected 4,579½ loads of swill as against 4,816½ loads in 1910. The swill sold at $1.25 a load and the money was paid into the city treasury. The number of loads of ashes dumped in 1911 was 25,272 as against 23,351 in 1910. The haul of ashes is longer now than it used to be because of the fact that the nearby dumps are filled in and some of the dumps used today are quite a distance away, which requires the employment of more horses and more men.

His First Opinion

City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy issued his first official opinion today. He has given oral opinions but the following, the opinion submitted today, is his first written opinion since he took office as city solicitor:

Office of City Solicitor,
Lowell, Mass., Jan. 5, 1912.
To the Municipal Council of the City of Lowell:

Gentlemen: In response to your request for an opinion relative to the query, "To what department petitions of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Lowell Electric Light Corporation for pole locations, etc., should be referred."

I am of opinion that such petitions may be referred to any department by the municipal council for the purpose of obtaining recommendations.

All petitions for pole locations as above mentioned shall be controlled, governed and disposed of by the municipal council, exercising its legislative function.

Therefore, I conclude that when such petitions are addressed to the municipal council there should be no reference to any department, except for the purpose of obtaining information.

The municipal council, when acting upon such petitions, is exercising a legislative function which cannot be delegated or referred to any department for action.

The granting of pole locations is the creation of a privilege, and comes under the legislative functions of the municipal council.

In case the municipal council should at any time deem it necessary and advisable to obtain information concerning the proper location of poles or wires, it seems to me that reference of such petitions may be made to the department of public property and licenses and the department of streets and highways, and the administrative heads of such departments then in turn shall hold themselves in readiness to report to the municipal council.

Respectfully,
J. Joseph Hennessy,
City Solicitor.

Always the best at Associate.

JOSEPH FLANAGAN PROVED HIS HONESTY

Joseph Flanagan, of 181 East Merrimack street, is an honest man and is worthy of being commended for his honesty. As he was hurrying through Merrimack square this noon he picked up a lady's mesh bag, and without stopping to ascertain the contents, turned it over to Sergt. Ryan, and started for Belvidere without stating who he was, but the sergeant knew his name. Upon opening the bag it was found that there were several bills of large denominations and other articles of value. The bag was taken to the police station where it awaits an owner.

STOLE SLOT MACHINES

Three Young Men Answer to Charge in Court Today

Edward Paradis, Joseph Donohoe and Emile Rousseau were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging them with the larceny of three peanut vending machines, the property of Louis A. Weller. Rousseau entered a plea of guilty but the other two pleaded not guilty. The court after considering the evidence in the case found all three guilty and sentenced Donohoe and Rousseau to the Massachusetts reformatory inasmuch as they had records. Paradis was given a suspended sentence to the reformatory.

According to the testimony offered Mr. Weller has peanut vending machines attached to the outside of stores in different parts of the city. Of late he has found that several had either been removed or broken. On different occasions he has reported the loss to the police, but he knew nothing of the three in question having been stolen until informed by the police.

Joseph Vashue who resides in Adams street while in his cellar last Sunday suddenly came across the three young men. Inasmuch as Paradis resides in the same building Vashue thought nothing of it, but when he saw them working on the slot machines he became suspicious.

Later the matter was reported to the police and after Paradis had been questioned he implicated Donohoe and Rousseau but denied that he had anything to do with the stealing of the machines.

Sergt. Ryan told of visiting Paradis' house in Adams street and finding one slot machine and the glasses of two others and Sergt. Giroux told of the arrest of Donohoe and Rousseau who were sleeping in an attic in Lilley avenue. Sergt. Giroux stated that in searching Rousseau he found a pair of pliers, wrench and screw driver.

Donohoe is just after returning from the reformatory and Rousseau is on probation, but there is no previous record of Paradis.

Sent to Jail

Dennis A. Bloom appeared in police court several weeks ago on a complaint charging him with neglecting to provide for his wife and children. He promised to do better in the future and after agreeing to pay $5 a week to his wife he was placed on probation but he did not carry out his good resolutions and as a result was brought into court this morning and sentenced to jail for four months. Under a law which was recently enacted by the legislature Bloom will have to work every day in jail and for his labor the county will pay to his wife 50 cents per day for each day he works.

Had Registered Milk Bottle

John Robertson pleaded guilty to having a registered milk bottle, not owned by him, in his possession. A fine of $5 was imposed.

Charge of Larceny

Samuel E. Carry was charged with breaking and entering the room in Paige street occupied by Manuel Santos and the larceny therefrom of two coats, both of the value of $18. Inasmuch as the government was not ready for trial the case was continued till Wednesday.

Fine of $12 Imposed

Joseph Dufresne pleaded guilty to the larceny of $2 in money, the property of the Connors Bros.' Construction Co., and he was ordered to pay a fine of $12. It is alleged that on the 21st of November Dufresne was in the employ of the company and was given some canvas to take to a store for which he was to receive $2. He went to the store, delivered the canvas and received the money and then left the city. He was arrested in Woburn and brought to this city.

Serious Charge

Peter Brusko and Mary Fours entered pleas of not guilty to complaints charging them with a statutory offense. At the request of the government the cases were continued till Monday.

Drunken Offenders

Simon Bue was fined $3 and several first offenders were fined $2 each.

Italian Identified Three Men Under Arrest in Worcester

WORCESTER, Jan. 6.—Three Italians, believed to be part of a gang of highway robbers, were taken into custody last night on the complaint of Joseph Mazzamorro, an Italian laborer on the Worcester water works, who claims he was held up yesterday and robbed of $25 as he was coming home from work at the new city reservoir in Holden.

The men arrested are Paul Savastino, aged 19, Dominico Marsello, aged 22, and Michael Notrangelo, aged 34. Mazzamorro identified the three men positively as those who held him up.

A fourth man held a gun to his head, he says, while the others took his money. The name of the fourth man he gives as Matteo Renaldo, and the police know this latter man well.

Last July Notrangelo was brought to the police station with an ugly bullet wound across his head, which he charged Renaldo with inflicting.

He was held for disturbing the peace and Renaldo charged with assault and battery. Both were fined, but appealed their cases.

Complaints of holdups among Italian residents have been frequent of late, and when Mazzamorro came to headquarters yesterday with his story he was held up and a squad of officers took him out late last night and landed the three men.

In the room supposed to be occupied by Renaldo the police found a canvas suit case with 10 recently killed chickens in it, most of which were blood warm when found, but Renaldo was missing and has not been apprehended.

Renaldo is said to be the man whom the New York police long sought on a charge of murder in killing a fellow countryman in that city. The police believe he is the leader of the alleged gang.

The fact that the others fell into the trap set for them while Renaldo disappeared, leaving the warm chickens in his room, is held to indicate that he was on the lookout for trouble and was perfectly willing to let the rest of the gang take their chances while he made his escape.

Highway robbery is the charge against the three men in custody.

HORSFALL INDICTED

Lowell Man is Held on Charge of Manslaughter

The Middlesex grand jury reported at East Cambridge yesterday afternoon before Judge McLaughlin. Frank E. Ryan of Somerville was indicted for murder in causing the death of his wife, Georgianna M. L. Ryan, at Somerville, Dec. 26, last, by shooting. Ryan pleaded guilty to the charge in Somerville court.

Domenico Benincato of Waltham was indicted on a charge of murdering Giovannina Natoli, his sweetheart, by shooting, at Waltham, Nov. 21 last.

Paul F. Taylor, the Worcester automobilist who was indicted in November on charge of manslaughter, in causing the death of Patrick Sullivan and Frank E. Downs of Boston in Marlboro, Sept. 23, 1911, was indicted on a charge of recklessly operating an automobile and for going away without stopping after injuring persons and property.

CAUGHT IN GALE

Schooner Driven Ashore on Deer Island

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—In a heavy northwest gale early today the fishing schooner Hattie F. Knowlton, outward bound for the fishing grounds, was driven ashore on Deer Island near the pumping station. Her crew of five men took to the dory and succeeded in reaching shore safely. They were drenched by the water and suffered considerably from the cold.

Although the schooner lies hard and fast it is believed that she will be floated at high tide this afternoon. The tug Confidence is standing by. When the crew left the Knowlton she was not leaking.

LOWELL OFFENDERS

To Appear in Superior Court in East Cambridge, Monday

Samuel Campbell and Thomas Cooney will be tried at the criminal session of the superior court in East Cambridge, Monday morning on two counts of breaking and entering the store of Isaac Pennell in Bridge street in the night time and the larceny therefrom of various articles.

Edward F. Belanger and Gideon Roy, also of this city, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and larceny from the store of James J. Corbett in Broadway will come up for sentence. These two young men smashed a pane of glass in Corbett's pawnshop in Broadway near the corner of Dutton street and stole a tray of jewels, but subsequently were arrested and upon being arraigned in police court pleaded guilty and were held for the superior court.

MAZDAZNAN LEADER

Resumed His Testimony in the Lindsay Case Today

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Otteman Zar Adusht Hanish, leader of the Mazdaznan cult and bearer of the titles of "prince" and "little master" among his followers, resumed the witness stand today before Judge Pinckney in the juvenile court, where inquiry is being made as to the whereabouts of little William Lindsay, heir to a Philadelphia fortune.

The leader of the cult denied that he knew the whereabouts of the boy and his mother and said he had not recently sent any money to Mrs. Lindsay.

He was closely questioned regarding the minutes of the temple of Mazdaznan. Counsel for Charles Lindsay, complainant and uncle of the missing boy, declared he wished the information in order to summon everyone connected with the cult to court in the effort to find the boy.

THE LAJOIE CASE

To be Taken to the Supreme Court

In the civil case of Charles Lajoie, coal dealer of this city, vs. the City of Lowell and the New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R. for land damages resulting in the abolishing of the Lincoln street grade crossing, in which a verdict was rendered in favor of the plaintiff, the railroad company has decided to take both cases before the supreme court.

This case was brought by Mr. Lajoie to recover the titles of a tract of land which the railroad claimed as its property. It was tried in superior court before Judge Morton who ruled that Mr. Lajoie owned the said land. A verdict was also awarded Mr. Lajoie against the city of Lowell in the sum of $108, and against the railroad company in the sum of $560.

TRANSFER PRIVILEGE

On the Lowell-Tewksbury Line

The officials of the local division of the Bay State Street Railway Co. have voluntarily granted two of the six concessions asked by the patrons of the Lowell-Tewksbury line.

Several weeks ago the patrons of the line asked for extra privileges which included an extension of the fare limit and also the transfer privilege.

A hearing was held before the railroad commissioners in Boston and two of the members who were present said that they would confer with representatives of the Street Railway company and Melvin M. Rogers, counsel for the petitioners.

Today Mr. Rogers received a communication from Supt. Lees to the effect that the five cent fare privilege would be extended from Foster's corner to the turnout as per request and also that the transfer privilege would be extended from Tewksbury Centre to Chandler street during certain hours of the day.

WM. H. SULLIVAN

William H. Sullivan, an employe of the composing room of The Sun, was this afternoon delightfully surprised by his shopmates, who on the occasion of his leaving the composing room to join the reportorial staff of this paper, presented him several handy gifts including a handsome fountain pen. The presentation was made by the foreman of the department, Albert G. McCurdy, who in a brief address expressed the sorrow of the composing room "boys" on the departure of their shopmate and also congratulated him on his new position. Mr. Sullivan, although taken unawares, responded in a brief address of thanks. He will begin his new duties Monday morning.

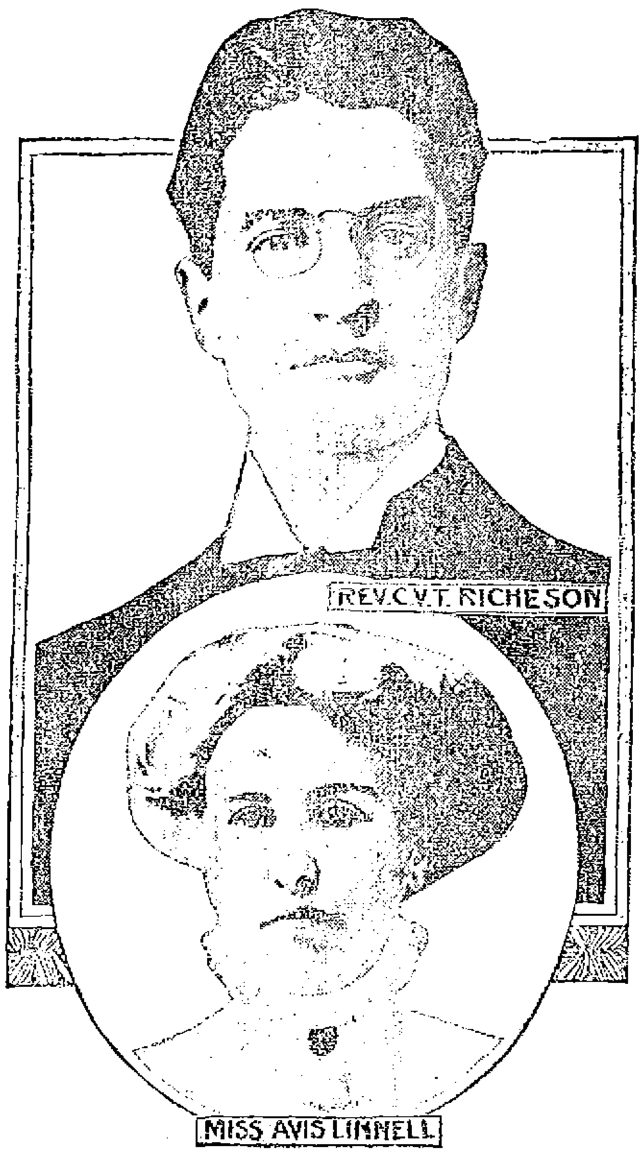
ADMITS HIS GUILT



REV. C. V. T. RICHESON

MISS AVIS LINNELL

Accused Pastor Says He Poisoned Avis Linnell

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, formerly pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, today made a written confession to the effect that he poisoned his former sweetheart, Miss Avis Linnell. The statement was given into the hands of his counsel, who made the confession public at 1 p. m. The written confession says:

"I hereby confess that I am guilty of the crime for which I stand indicted."

It gives no details.

RICHESON'S CONFESSION

The confession of Rev. Mr. Richeson follows:

"Boston, Jan. 3, 1912.

"John L. Lee, Esq.,
"William A. Morse, Esq.,
"Philip R. Dunbar, Esq.

Gentlemen:—Deeply penitent before my sins and earnestly desiring as far as in my power lies to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted.

"I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit or leniency. Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however depraved and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial her whose pure young life I have destroyed.

"Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mental anguish I recognize there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the divine spark of goodness still lingering with me. I could wish to live only because within some prison walls I might, in some small measure, redeem my sinful past, help some despairing soul and at last find favor with my God. You are instructed to deliver this to the district attorney or to the judge of the court.

"Sincerely yours,
"Clarence V. T. Richeson."

Rumors that Richeson would never face a jury in a trial for his life have been rife about the city for several weeks but they all failed when they reached counsel or the district attorney. Just before noon today the judges of the superior court and the district attorney went into conference at the courthouse and about an hour later representatives of the local papers were called to the office of William A. Morse, the leading counsel for the accused clergyman. In the office were nearly a dozen newspapermen while in a private office were Mr. Morse, John L. Lee, the Virginia lawyer engaged by the father of the young clergyman, and Philip Dunbar.

After all the papers had been found to be represented, Mr. Morse said: "Gentlemen, I now give you Mr. Richeson's confession." Typewritten sheets containing the confession were then handed to the newspapermen and those who paused to ask for some further explanation were told that there was nothing more to be said at the present time.

The fact that the confession was dated three days ago was also pointed out to the counsel but they refused to comment upon it at this time.

Within a few minutes the news that Richeson had acknowledged his guilt and had practically thrown himself upon the mercy of the court was being flashed about the city and was rapidly carried to the courthouse.

District Attorney Pelletier had just come from his conference with the judges when he was informed of the new turn in the case. He refused to comment on it until he had learned it from an official source. This came a few minutes later from another newspaperman, who brought to the courthouse the typewritten copy from Mr. Morse.

District Attorney Pelletier read the confession very carefully and then he said:

"The trial will go on just the same, no matter what may be the statement of Richeson."

The chief prosecuting attorney for the county refused to make any other comment upon the confession, although it was intimated that he might have something to say later.

In the meantime the conference of judges had broken up and Chief Justice Aiken, when told of the confession, refused to make any statement regarding it or say what effect it might have on the trial.

As Richeson stands today before the law, he is indicted for the murder in the first degree of Avis Linnell by giving her a quantity of cyanide of potassium. The penalty for such a crime in Massachusetts is death in the electric chair. If Richeson stands in court on Jan. 15th, the date set for his trial and acknowledges his guilt in accordance with the statement made today the court would have no other alternative than to sentence him to death.

In a subsequent statement District Attorney Pelletier said:

"I have no discretion in this matter except to accept a first degree plea of guilty. I shall not accept a second degree plea or a manslaughter plea.

"I knew of the date when Richeson made his confession, but I preferred to have the fact come out through Mr. Morse."

When asked under what circumstances Richeson had been induced to confess, Mr. Pelletier said:

"I shall have to refer you to Mr. Morse for an answer to that question. Poisoning is a first degree offense and you cannot make anything else out of it."

This latter statement of the district

IMPORTANT MEETING

Celtic Associates and Meagher Guards

Sunday, Jan. 7, 1912, at their hall, 32 Middle street at 11 o'clock a. m., to take action on the death of Mrs. James Reilly. Signed, The Secretary.

THOS. H. DUCKWORTH

Said to be Slated for Superintendent of Cemeteries

Thomas H. Duckworth, a former police commissioner, is slated for Robert J. Gilmore's job as superintendent of cemeteries. It was stated this afternoon that three members of the municipal council would vote for Mr. Duckworth and that his election is assured. Mr. Duckworth served for a short time on the police board, having been appointed by Commissioner Brown, who was then mayor.

The trustees of public burial grounds at their last meeting and before going out of commission appended to their annual report a letter recommending the continuance of Mr. Gilmore in office and petitions bearing the names of many lot owners have also been submitted to the mayor and aldermen requesting the re-election of Mr. Gilmore.

BATTLED WITH GALE

British Schooner Hoisted Signals of Distress

CHATHAM, Jan. 6.—A badly iced lumber-laden British schooner whose identity had not been discovered up to noon had a fierce battle with a northwest gale and cold snap off Cape Cod today, but while flying signals of distress she declined aid from a northbound steamer and a steam trawler, so that her condition was not regarded as serious.

The two revenue cutters that usually patrol this part of the coast were miles away, the Gresham being in Gloucester and the Acushnet in New Bedford, and although both started for the cape, a wrecking tug from Woods Hole had a lead of many miles over them in the race for the schooner this afternoon. The schooner, a three master, evidently from St. John, N. B., was discovered at dawn off the Nauset lifesaving station more than two miles off shore. She was covered with ice forward and was driving southward under a forestay sail, the other sails being down and apparently frozen to the booms.

The lifesavers at both the Nauset and Orleans stations realized that they could not overhaul her, so despatches were sent to the revenue cutters and to the wrecking tug at Woods Hole. During the forenoon the schooner managed to hoist the peak of her mainsail and with the stay sail her crew began working her to an anchorage under the lee of the bluffs of this part of the cape. The schooner was almost to Pollock Rip Shoal lightship before the mainsail was hoisted but her crew worked pluckily and avoiding the shoals to leeward they brought her fairly well on the wind. At noon she was only a couple of miles from smooth water. She still had signals flying, evidently with the hope that a cutter might arrive and tow her to a safe anchorage at Hyannis.

CLIMAX REACHED

In Trial of the Meat Packers

CHICAGO, Jan. 6. A climax was reached today in the trial of ten Chicago packers charged with criminal violation of the Sherman act when counsel for the defendants moved to have stricken from the record the evidence of Jerome Pratt identifying the handwriting of J. Ogden Armour, Arthur Meeker and T. J. Connors on certain letters previously introduced in evidence by the government to show the existence of a combination among the defendants in the period between 1896 and 1906.

M. W. Borders, representing the Morris interests, made the point that the testimony of Witness Pratt on this point was incompetent, for the reason that it was based upon an opinion obtained in the ordinary course of business and not on personal knowledge.

The jury was excused for the day while the attorneys continued their argument.

ESCAPING STEAM

CAUSE OF A TELEPHONE ALARM THIS AFTERNOON

A telephone alarm at 1.46 o'clock this afternoon summoned a portion of the fire department to the residence of Michael Cahill in High street but when the firemen arrived it was found that there was no fire. Steam which was escaping from the house led a passer-by to think that there was a fire in progress and word was sent to the central fire station and the firemen were given a needless run.

NORMAN E. MACK

Called on President Taft at White House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the democratic national committee, paid his respects to President Taft today. Mr. Mack said that the White House looked attractive enough today to be occupied by a democrat.

Among the members of the national committee now in the city the belief is growing that the fight for the democratic convention soon will narrow down to Baltimore and St. Louis. New York and Denver, however, will continue in the fight to the end. All four of these cities, it is said, will make an offer of $100,000 to cover the expenses of the convention and to be put to such further use as the committee desires. Urey Woodson, secretary of the national committee, expressed the belief today that no action would be taken looking to presidential primaries.

"The expense would be enormous and far beyond our means," he said.

DEATHS

MONETTE—Michel Monette, one of the oldest residents of this city, died this afternoon at his late home, 693 Middlesex street.

SUM OF MONEY FOUND

Patrolman Kenney found a lady's beaded bag containing a sum of money last night and sent it to the police station where it can be claimed by the owner.

MORE MEN DROPPED

Employes of Lands and Buildings Dept. Lost Their Jobs

Today's developments at city hall included the placing of the carpenters in the lands and buildings department on half-time and the discharging of three painters in that department. It was stated that there was no work for the painters and no money with which to pay the carpenters if they worked full time. Because of the snow a few more men were employed by the street department and it was said that most of them were men discharged from the water works a few days ago.

The scene of greatest activity today centered about the office of the street department. It was rumored that Commissioner Brown, who has charge of that department, was putting extra men to work, cleaning crossings, gutters and removing snow in different sections of the city. More than 100 men called during the forenoon but the extra men had been engaged earlier in the day.

Lands and Buildings

Commissioner Cummings, who has charge of the lands and buildings department, arrived at the hall about 9.30 o'clock and had a long conference with James Dow, inspector of buildings. After the conference Mr. Cummings, in conversation with a reporter of The Sun, said that as the result of recommendations made by the inspector of lands and buildings it had been decided to put the carpenters employed in the department on half-time and to discharge three painters. There are fourteen carpenters in all and the work will be divided into weeks, seven of them working one week and the other seven the next week. The men who will work next week are: Mitchell Borden, David Common, William Egan, Daniel Emerson, Sienna Matte, William C. Piper and Benjamin Smith.

The men who will work the following week are: George H. Berard, Edward Chaquars, Horace Dexter, William Dudley, Joseph Lavigne, Bennett McMahon and James Smith.

AUTOMOBILE LEAGUE

Formally Organized and Fred Horne Was Elected President

The Lowell Automobile league, composed of automobile owners and licensed chauffeurs of this city and vicinity, was formally organized last night at a meeting held in the board of trade rooms in the Central block. Fred Horne was elected president of the league and during the course of the meeting remarks were made by different members.

President Horne in accepting the office tendered him outlined what he believed to be the ideas and intentions of the organization. The plans include an effort to suppress reckless and illegal driving of automobiles, an attempt to secure proper signboards of the city in order to assist strangers who have occasion to pass through the city, the watching of legislation proposed at the state house in Boston which might affect automobilists, to oppose unfair legislation, to propose certain new legislation and the improvement of roads in this vicinity.

Among the other officers elected were the following: Vice presidents, Frank Hanchett and Patrick O'Hearn; secretary, George E. King; treasurer, Edward B. Carney; auditing committee, J. Harry Boardman, Austin K. Chadwick and Charles H. Goulding; executive committee, Messrs. Horne, Hanchett, O'Hearn, King, [illegible] W. Roberts, Frank P. Cheney and Robert F. Marden.

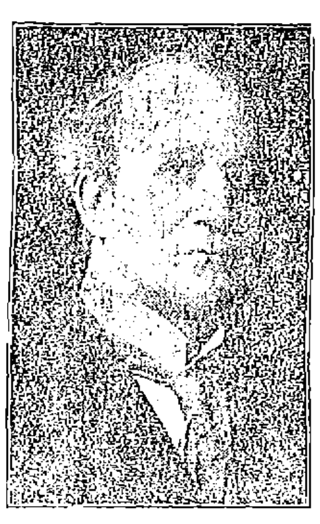
LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Charles Klein's "The Gamblers," which remained at Maxine Elliott's theatre, New York, for over 200 consecutive performances and was conceded the greatest success among serious dramas produced last season, comes to the Opera House, Jan. 12 and 13, under the management of The Authors' Producing company, of which John Cort is president.



CHARLES KLEIN
Author of "The Gamblers."

In this play the defaulter's act is not condoned in spite of the fact that he is made lovable. The methods of bank looters are bared and the folly of crime in business is distinctly shown in the personal abasement that comes to each participant. The great point of interest is the coming together of the defaulter and the wife of the attorney for the prosecution, who formerly had been lovers and had been thrown apart through circumstances. Thus, it is not primarily a drama of moral purposes, although that purpose is not absent, but one of sentiment. In other words, the sentimental situation is not unfamiliar, but the circumstances and the treatment are.

An associate in the criminal action had weakened and had turned over notes and a statement to the attorney for the prosecution that would convict. In a scene of tense interest the situation is discussed by the men involved. A game of cards has been arranged for, and it is finally agreed among them that the turn of a card should designate the one who is to assume the responsibility and become the victim of the inevitable indictment. The lot falls to Wilbur Emerson. He enters the house of the attorney at night to abstract the documents from the desk of his personal and official enemy. Mrs. Darwin, the wife, discovers him in his search, secures possession of the papers herself, and will not listen to his pleading that she give them to him. Darwin has had Emerson shadowed by detectives and confronts him there. He believes that he has come by appointment with his wife, but promises to listen to his explanation. He then sends him out of the room and calls his wife to have her confirm it. His questioning is of such a nature that she, in her indignation, declines to finish her story, and assents to his charges. She will leave him. Thus we have a drama of situation and sentiment. The incidents and detail are so cumulative that the action is instinct with life and character and emotion and comedy as well. As a production it is said to reach the high water mark.

JOHN DREW

The play in which John Drew is to be seen here at the Opera House soon is entitled, "A Single Man," a comedy in four acts by Mr. Hubert Henry Davies, already well known in this country for his "Cousin Kate" and "The Mollusc." Although Mr. Davies for the last ten years has lived in London, where he has done his best work, he first received a hearing in this country. Not so many years ago he was a reporter for newspapers in some of the western cities. He has directed the final rehearsals of his play.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

The Old Timers are going and with them go the best wishes of all Lowell and now by way of contrast Manager Stevens has arranged a program for next week that includes some of the very newest things in vaudeville. A brand new act on the American stage is that of the Six Abdallies, a combination of Arabian and German acrobats who evolve a series of stunts that created a furore in Europe and South America, where they appeared before bringing their wonderful act to the states. Keith got them for their first American tour and wherever they have been in this country they have excited the wonderment and the highest praise of the critics. As tests of agility, daring and endurance their act is a marvel. Prof. Andrews and his "Magic Kettle" gets the Angora of even the most profound scientists for by means of his little kettle the professor can give you anything you desire, hot or cold. He can cook a steak in the kettle one minute and make ice cream the next without any change of paraphernalia. He can melt ice or freeze water and cook eggs to suit the most exacting eggotist. The Old Soldier Fiddler go Old King Cole two better for they are Fiddlers five, with Col. Pattie in command and they tear off all of the old time songs, reels and jigs in fine style. Three are vets of the blue while two wore the gray in '61. DuCallion has surely a high class act, that is to say his act is classy and is done on high for he mounts a ladder and balancing it unassisted goes through a monolog and plays musical instruments balancing the ladder perpendicularly in the air all the time. Balancing the ladder is an act in itself but DuCallion makes that only a feature of his work. Belle Oura, fair of face, symmetrical of form, is an athlete and aerialist with an act that is way beyond the ordinary female athletic offering. Harry Fields, the kid comedian, will make you roar, while Clair and West have a first class pianolog act. DeWitt Young and sister are jugglers and equilibrists without a peer. A particularly strong program will be offered tomorrow at the concerts.

Mail Carriers Will Fly

This is an age of great discoveries. Progress rides on the air. Soon we may see Uncle Sam's mail carriers flying in all directions, transporting mail. People take a wonderful interest in a discovery that benefits them. That's why Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs, Colds and other throat and lung diseases is the most popular medicine in America. "It cured me of a dreadful cough," writes Mrs. J. F. Davis, Stickney Corner, Me., "after doctor's treatment and all other remedies had failed." For Coughs, colds or any bronchial affection it's unequaled. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at A. W. Dows & Co.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

At the conclusion of the matinee performance of "Where the Trail Divides" this afternoon, Miss Marie Horton will hold a reception to the ladies of Lowell on the stage of the Hathaway in honor of her 25th birthday. She will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. George H. Hibbard and the other women of the company. Tomorrow at the Hathaway theatre two grand concerts will be given and the management assures the patrons of the theatre one of the strongest Sunday bills ever offered in Lowell, consisting of new motion pictures, high class vaudeville acts, illustrated songs and a full orchestra. The prices will be 5, 10 and 15 cents.

Next week will be one of unusual interest to the patrons of the Hathaway for the Brown-Horton stock company will present another new and high royalty play, "The Boys of Company B," one of the funniest military comedies ever written: the play in which Jack Barrymore, brother of Ethel Barrymore, became famous. Miss Marie Horton and Mrs. Wm. Jeffery, will appear in the leading roles, while Mrs. George H. Hibbard, widow of the late Ex-Mayor Hibbard of Boston and one of Boston's best known society women will make her first appearance with the company. Then everyone will be pleased to learn that Charlie Crymble, the popular young comedian and a Lowell boy, will make his reappearance before the footlights for the first time since his romantic marriage a few weeks ago. Another new member of the company specially engaged is Mr. Frank Harrington, the famous tenor singer, formerly with Denman Thompson's Old Homestead company quartet, but now an advanced student of the New England Conservatory of Music. Mr. Harrington will sing at each performance. The company has in preparation "The Daughters of Men" by Charles Klein, author of "The Music Master" and the "Third Degree."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Wyoming Days," Gus Hornbrook's sensational western production, featuring several celebrities of the plains, will be the stellar attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre for the coming week. The act is one in which eight people and five wild and woolly bronchos are engaged in depicting the true life and pastimes enjoyed by those who live in the west. A special car is used in transporting the outfit from city to city, and special scenery enhances the western atmosphere which surrounds the piece. There are exhibitions of roping, fancy lariat spinning, riding plunging, rearing horses, the saddling and riding of two untamed outlaw mustangs and other equally interesting feats. The following western celebrities appear: Miss Florence La Due, acknowledged premier lady fancy roper of the west, who performs several wonderful stunts with the lariat. Glenn Up Dyke, the cowboy from Golden, Col., who rode the outlaw horse, "Silver City" in Wyoming last August in a contest for the world's championship, and who was personally complimented by Former President Roosevelt. Guy Weadick, Wyoming's noted fancy roper will demonstrate the he can derive from an ordinary piece of rope during his leisure moments. Jay Miller, the 16 year old bucking broncho rider will provide amusement and others will be present to add to the general enjoyment which the piece offers. Singing that's good, and an intermingling of comedy adds to the acceptance of the piece.

Others who are to appear on the bill are Billy Quirk, the imitator whose work is always pleasing. Casey and Smith, high-class comedians in their funny sketch, "The Jew and the Salesman," and last but not least the old time favorites, Nelson and Milledge in their popular offering, "Glass Put In." The photo plays for the first three days include "The Professor's Daughter," "A Noble Enemy," "The Mate of The Alden Besse," and several others equally as interesting. The views provided by the American Press association are becoming more popular every week. On Friday night the Merrimack Square theatre concert orchestra will play selections from the opera, "Amorita."

For the sacred concerts Sunday afternoon and evening the following artists will appear in refined vaudeville: The Four Musical Baldwins, Lamber Brothers, Delmore Larose, Metz and Metz, quartet selections, and others. Photo-plays that are new and novel will also be shown. Box office telephone 2953.

THEATRE VOYONS

Tonight is the last of the showing of the Brockton Fair pictures at the Theatre Voyons and everyone who went to the fair should try and see these pictures, for they will recall many pleasant features of the event. Tomorrow an unusually good Sunday program will be offered and on Monday "A Red Cross Martyr" a picture founded on actual events in the Turkish Italian campaign in Tripoli will be shown. This picture tells in dramatic form the reason for the severity of the Italians and depicts the cowardly deeds of the Turks as well. The vengeance wreaked on them as shown on the screen is up-to-date as well as effective. Next Thursday "In the Wilderness," a biograph sensation will occupy the headline position.

SUDDEN DEATH

OF MRS. EMILY M. FLETCHER OF WESTFORD

A sudden death occurred in Westford yesterday when Mrs. Emily M. Fletcher, aged 77 years, and one of the best known residents of the town, passed away. Mrs. Fletcher had been ill for some time but for the past few weeks she seemed to improve in health. Her death was very unexpected and will be a keen blow to her many acquaintances.

Deceased was born in Westford, Nov. 29, 1833, and in 1869 she married the late John B. Fletcher, postmaster and grocer of Westford. She is survived by one sister, Miss Caroline Miller of Middlesex, and one brother, Charles Chandler of Nevada; one niece, Miss Jennie Chandler, a teacher in the Boston schools, and two step-sons, J. M. Fletcher and Frank L. Fletcher of Somerville. Deceased was a member of the Union Congregational church and very highly respected.

CLUB LICENSE BILL

To Permit Liquor Sale in the "No-License" Towns

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The house and senate held brief sessions yesterday. Two messages came from the governor, one to the house relative to immediate appropriations and the other to the senate indicating the number of pardons His Excellency granted last year.

Both branches adjourned to meet Monday at 2.

In his message to the house the governor recommended appropriations for the expenses of both branches. The message was referred to the committee on ways and means, which after considering it reported a bill amounting to $137,520, and the house put it through its several readings under suspension of the rules.

Representative J. H. Brennan of Boston presented his resolutions protesting against the removal of the Navy Yard at Charlestown, and at the request of Representative Bothfeld of Newton they were laid over until Monday.

Among the petitions received yesterday were the following:

Of Representative Lomasney of Boston for ward representation in the city council in Boston, and that candidates be prohibited from using any designation or statement on the ballot.

Of Representative William J. Sullivan of Boston, that all steam railroads of standard gage be required to electrify their lines within the metropolitan park district before July 1, 1922.

Of Representative Crocker of Boston, to authorize the general court to elect annually in January a commissioner of finance to have general supervision of the finances of the commonwealth and of all departments, institutions, boards and undertakings of the commonwealth.

Of Representative O'Hearn of North Adams, that seats be provided for all women and children employed in manufacturing or mercantile establishments, except for those whose employment cannot be performed in a sitting posture.

Of the same petitioner, that juries be authorized in each case to determine whether the penalty for murder in the first degree shall be death or life imprisonment.

Of Martin J. Hart, for a close season on foxes, from March 31 to Oct. 15.

Of Representative William H. Sullivan of Boston, that decrees of divorce shall become absolute in one year, instead of six months.

Of the same petitioner, for a constitutional amendment to provide that judges shall be appointed for a term of seven years, rather than for life.

In the senate a message was received from Gov. Foss, announcing the number of pardons for the year 1911, of which there were 76 issued with the advice of the council, as against 41 in 1910.

Senator Vinson filed a bill to permit the granting of club licenses to sell liquor to bona fide members of clubs within the discretion of the mayor and aldermen of no-license cities and the selectmen of no-license towns.

Senator Barlow of Lowell filed bills to tax life insurance companies ½ of 1 per cent. on the net value of all policies in force on Dec. 31, next previous; also to tax incomes above $2000; also to tax stock transfers 2 cents on each $100 of the face value.

GRANGE OFFICERS

Installed at Meeting in Billerica Yesterday

Yesterday was a big day for Billerica grangers and there were two events that filled in the afternoon and evening. The first was the installation of officers of the North Middlesex Pomona grange, and then came the induction into office of the newly elected officers of the Billerica grange and the observance of the 12th anniversary of that grange. James A. Ruth of Billerica was installed as master of both the local and Pomona granges. The ceremonies attracted grangers from Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Dracut, Tyngsboro, North Reading, Westford, Wilmington, Carlisle and other places.

The exercises of installation were conducted at both events by State Master Charles M. Gardner, assisted by Mrs. Lester R. Hayward of North Reading. The induction of the Pomona officers was open to the public and quite a few non-members were in attendance.

The Pomona officers installed were: Master, James A. Ruth, Billerica; overseer, Lester R. Hayward, North Reading; lecturer, Mrs. Helen Reinhard, Wilmington; steward, Alonzo Sutherland, Westford; assistant steward, Sylvester Carter, Wilmington; chaplain, James Danforth, Tyngsboro; treasurer, Norman L. Peavey, Dracut; secretary, Lulu M. Hutchins, Billerica; gatekeeper, Fred L. Robbins, Carlisle; ceres, Miss Blanche King, Tewksbury; pomona, Mrs. Ella Ruth, Billerica; flora, Mrs. Hattie Vickery, Chelmsford; lady assistant steward, Miss J. Eva Smith, Billerica; executive committee, three years, James S. Anthony.

After the ceremonies, which were carried on most impressively, there were brief addresses by State Master Gardner, Deputy Walter E. Morris, of Medford, a past master of the Middlesex North Pomona; and songs were given by Percy Yarnold of Chelmsford. Mrs. Charles A. Wright served as a very efficient accompanist.

The officers of the local, who were installed are: Master, James A. Ruth; overseer, Harry Waite; lecturer, Mrs. Lucy P. Collier; chaplain, Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge; treasurer, Clarence A. Bowman; secretary, Josiah Folsom; ceres, Mrs. Julia Brainard; flora, Mrs. Plaistridge; pomona, Mrs. Chester Wright; steward, Charles Wright; assistant steward, C. P. Lalien; gatekeeper, Charles Barton; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Ellen Shultz; executive committee member, Hampden Spiller.

THE PANSY CLUB

The Pansy club held a special meeting at the home of Miss Alice O'Neil, 425 Worthen street, last Thursday evening for the election of officers for the year 1912. The officers are: President, Nellie Dias; vice-president, Louise Poole; treasurer, Sadie Sullivan; recording secretary, Flora Craven. They also made plans for their annual dance, which is to be held at Prescott hall, Friday evening, Jan. 12. Refreshments were served and the rest of the evening was spent in piano solos by Nellie Burnside, also singing by Helen Frame.

THE BUTLER VETS

Comrade Lawn Installed Officers Last Night

At the meeting of the Gen. Butler Veteran Firemen's association the principal business was the installation of the recently elected officers. During the early part of the meeting considerable routine business was transacted. The reports of Treasurer P. A. McKenzie and Financial Secretary J. J. Magee showed the association to be in a prosperous condition. Recording Secretary H. E. Clay also gave an interesting report. During the evening remarks were made by President James H. Walker, Secretary Clay and J. C. Cook.

At the conclusion of the meeting a card tournament was held. On Tuesday, Jan. 16, the new officers will tender a supper to the bona fide members of the association. The following officers for 1912 were installed by Comrade James P. Lawn: President, James H. Walker; first vice president, Martin J. Kennedy; second vice-president, Smith J. Adams; treasurer, Peter A. McKenzie; financial secretary, William W. Murphy; recording secretary, Harry E. Clay; foreman, Asa Stiles; first assistant, John C. Cook; second assistant, Richard Jones; steward, Daniel D. Hickey; league delegate, John C. Cook; board of directors, James O'Brien, chairman; Fred A. Tucker, secretary; Edward Fallon, John Sutherland and Kenneth McCauley.

Good [illegible] at [illegible], tonight.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Alexander lodge, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, met Thursday night and installed officers for the ensuing year. Considerable routine business was transacted. The officers installed are:

Councilman, Gustus Cook; president, Mrs. Nellie Goodrow; vice president, Mrs. Aurore Hall; secretary, Mrs. Miriam Stevenson; treasurer, Mrs. Annie Hardy; chaplain, Mrs. Lillian Laroche; conductor, Mrs. Louisa Cook, and warden, Mrs. Mary Walsh.

Visitors from the Boston lodge were also present and made some very interesting remarks on the good of the order.

Odd Ladies

The regular meeting of Loyal Victoria lodge of Odd Ladies was held in Odd Fellows hall Thursday night. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted during the course of the meeting. The following officers were installed by P. N. G. Sister Swallow: N. G., Sister Howard; V. G., Sister N. Fowler; permanent secretary, Sister Scoble; treasurer, Sister Liddell; elected secretary, Crowther; chaplain, Sister Saxon; I. G., Sister M. Fowler; R. S. to N. G., Sister Fletcher; L. S. to N. G., Sister J. Muir; R. S. to V. G., Sister A. Neil; L. S. to V. G., Sister N. Neil.

On the good of the order, songs were given by Sister Saxon, after which ice cream and cake were served.

The Red Men

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night in Odd Fellows temple, Sachem Edward Crompton presiding. The auditors submitted a report which showed that the tribe is in a good financial condition. The chiefs elect will be raised to their respective stumps by the deputy great sachem, Joseph H. McNabb, and suite of Haverhill, at the next meeting.

Remarks on the welfare of the order by visiting brothers, from the hunting grounds of Pittsfield, Brothers Hibbart and Forrow. On the tribal affairs by K. of W. E. T. Goward, J. H. Hickey, A. W. Garland and the sachem.

Knights of Pythias

Wamesit lodge, K. of P., 25, met in regular session last evening with Chancellor Commander A. H. Abbott in the chair.

The report of the auditing committee was read and accepted. The relief committee reported Brother MacKenzie off the sick list, Brother Phillips was reported sick, and Brother Taylor was reported in about the same condition.

It was voted to hold a public installation of the newly elected officers and the uniform rank was invited to act as ushers. The entertainment committee will hold a ladies' night next Friday when whist will be in order.

PRESIDENT WARD

Names Kling Manager of Boston Nationals

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—John Kling of Kansas City will manage the Boston Nationals next season. Never for a moment has Fred Tenney been in the running since John M. Ward and Jas. E. Gaffney came into control of the club's affairs.

Kling met President Ward at the annual meeting of the National league last month in New York, and talked the matter over. Kling was willing to take the responsibility, and everything was left to Ward to work out in the most peaceful way possible.

Knowing that Tenney had a year's contract with the club, President Ward has never spoken one word to the veteran manager on the subject. From his first visit to Boston, Ward made it pretty clear, however, that Tenney would not lead his Braves next season, so that Fred was not surprised yesterday when the reporters came out of President Ward's private office and gave him the news of Kling's appointment.

President Ward displayed considerable feeling when he gave his reasons for the change in management. "I have been giving the matter serious consideration," said he, "especially as I didn't want the public to think that Fred Tenney was being disciplined. I know Tenney to be a decent fellow, and did not care to have my actions criticised. My whole thought was to do the very best I could for the club.

"I didn't rely wholly on my own judgment, but felt out every baseball man I knew in New York and Boston, both public and players, even officers of clubs, as I wanted to get the consensus of opinions.

"After weighing the matter for several days I decided that I would prefer a playing manager, and I consider the catcher of a team the best man to look after the players on the field. When a club is in hard luck the public is likely to get after the manager; but if this manager is a good, steady player the fans are inclined to let up on him.

"I had a long talk with Mr. Kling and found him temperamentally the man I wanted. He has been trained in the up-to-date school, and I believe he can get good results out of the men we have under reserve.

"Tenney didn't have a chance to show his best work last season, as the team failed to show until the close, and he might have made a much better showing next season. However, I found that the players whom I talked with were impressed with Kling; in fact Kling seemed to be the universal choice with those I talked with.

"I deeply regret having to turn down a good fellow. Tenney has a contract with the Boston club, and we will not ask him to compromise. When I return from New York next week we may talk the matter over. Tenney may have other offers to manage ball clubs, and certainly we will not stand in his way."

President Ward left for New York on the 5 o'clock train, and said that he would not be back until late next week.

Kling sent a telegram to Ward yesterday afternoon saying that he accepted his new position and will leave for Boston any time that he is called for.

BASKETBALL NOTES

Grant and Cote of the Y. M. C. A. are said to be two of the fastest forwards in this part of the state.

Clark of the Cadets has been signed by the Mysteries.

O'Brien and Flynn of last season's Sodality Five will also be seen with the Mysteries and the manager made a wise move when he secured their services.

A league will soon be started at the Boys' club.

Some fast games are being played at the Armory.

The Cambridge A. A. of Worcester would like to meet any 115 pound team in the city. William Barker, Mgr., 359 Cambridge street, Worcester, Mass.

WANT STATE AID

For the Lawrence Industrial School

LAWRENCE, Jan. 6.—Mayor Scanlon and the trustees of the local industrial school held a conference last evening with C. A. Prosser, deputy commissioner of the state board of education, relative to bringing about a restoration of the state assistance, which had been discontinued last June.

The situation involves a loss of about $5600 annually to the city from the state, as well as about $1000 due from out-of-town pupils, which is not collectable unless the schools are under state supervision. The criticism offered was that the local schools had been at the mercy of politics and the state board had finally decided to withdraw its assistance.

Financial assistance was refused until this condition was remedied. Agent Prosser agreed that further investigation would be carried out and after receiving assurances of improvement in the buildings as well as the conditions under which they were conducted he said assistance might be renewed.

MONSIGNOR BYRNE

WELL KNOWN PASTOR IS CRITICALLY ILL

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Mgr. William Byrne, rector of St. Cecilia's church, is seriously ill at the parochial residence of the church. Three years ago he had a stomach trouble, which has returned lately, accompanied by a general breakdown. The last rites of the church have been administered.

He celebrated mass on Christmas day, but since has been unable to perform that duty and took to his bed last Saturday.

Coming to this city in 1874, Mgr. Byrne has performed noteworthy work as a churchman, holding the high office of vicar-general of the Boston archdiocese and laboring as pastor of St. Joseph's church in the West End and lately in St. Cecilia's church. Before he came to Boston he was president of St. Mary's college. He was born in County Meath, Ireland, in 1835, and ordained in 1864.

LOWELL MAN

INSTALLED OFFICERS OF LAWRENCE ENCAMPMENT, I. O. O. F.

Officers of Lawrence encampment, 31, I. O. O. F., were installed last evening in Odd Fellows hall, Lawrence, by Charles A. Clough, D. D. G. P., and suite of Lowell. A banquet was held. The event was largely attended by members of the lodge and a fair delegation was present from Lowell.

DIED SUDDENLY

FREDERICK EVANS, WELL KNOWN RESIDENT, PASSED AWAY

Frederick Evans, aged 59 years, a well known resident of this city, died suddenly yesterday while shoveling the snow off the sidewalk opposite his home, 9 Blossom street.

Mr. Evans had been ill for some time, but yesterday he seemed very well. Late in the afternoon he went out with a shovel in his hands to clean off the sidewalk. He had not been at work more than five minutes when he dropped to the sidewalk. Mrs. Evans who had been watching him from a window went to his relief and found him moaning and breathing heavily. He was carried into the house and placed on a couch where he breathed his last.

Mr. Evans was a native of England, but had lived in Lowell nearly all his life, being 59 years of age. He was an expert marble cutter. He learned his trade of William Andrews, by whom he was for a long time employed. Then he worked for Andrews & Wheeler, and later for O. M. Wentworth, in Boston. His health had not been good for a few years past, but he was feeling much better of late and seemed especially well yesterday forenoon. He was an honest, quiet, industrious man, a member of the order of Pilgrim Fathers, and also of the Immanuel Baptist church, of which he was treasurer. He leaves a wife, one brother, Mr. James Evans of Methuen street, and two sisters, Mrs. George Stott of Merrill avenue, and Mrs. Elizabeth Keating of Providence, R. I.

CONFERENCE

OF BOARD OF GOVERNMENT OF THE C. T. A. U. TOMORROW

Tomorrow, in Cheverus hall, 18 Harvard street, Boston, at 3 p. m., will be held the annual conference of the board of government, the advisory council and the officers of the various societies affiliated with the C. T. A. U. of the archdiocese of Boston.

This convention should be the most important one of the year. Committees on the evening party will report progress. The legislative committee will give an encouraging report. The licensing board of the city of Boston has taken recognition of the union's stand upon liquor being served to women and since the union first took action upon this evil, the number of places with women privileges have been already reduced and the last report of the board sent to Governor Foss, devotes more attention to this evil.

"This bill, endorsed by our union and later approved by the Scranton convention to have saloons closed on Good Friday, is meeting with public favor. At the annual convention of the Middlesex County Branch of the American Federation of Catholic Societies of the Archdiocese of Boston held in Boston, Sunday, Dec. 31, the delegates unanimously voted that the executive officers write to each representative and senator in the county asking not only for his vote in favor of this measure but his assistance to secure its immediate passage.

At this conference the delegates will consider the division of the archdiocese into counties. A county committee will be appointed to establish societies in parishes where none exist.

THE TEXTILE SCHOOL

Geo. Tupper to Speak on Industrial Education

Mr. George Tupper, the well known lecturer on industrial matters, will address the students of the school Monday afternoon in the assembly hall. The subject of the lecture will be "Industrial Education." Mr. Tupper, who is considered an authority on the subject and who is the author of many industrial works, spent four months abroad during the past summer studying the conditions of the working class in England, France and Germany. He is now touring the country lecturing before the various colleges and schools to arouse the interest of the students in their less fortunate brother-men who work long hours for small salaries in factories and workshops.

Mr. Tupper is industrial secretary of the Young Men's Christian association and it is through the courtesy of the local Y. M. C. A. that he has been secured for Monday afternoon.

The semi-annual examinations of the school will be held during the two weeks following January 15th. The second term will start Monday, January 29th.

Capt. Arthur Daw '12, captain of the baseball team for the coming season, will call out candidates for the nine in a few days. Frank Brady, coach of last season's football eleven, has been secured to coach the baseball team.

Brady played first base for Dartmouth college three years ago and is well versed in the national game. Manager Crane '12 will soon have his schedule completed, which includes contests with the representative scholastic and collegiate nines in the state.

The students are rehearsing faithfully their various parts in the Textile show which is to be held in Colonial hall the 27th of March. The show this year promises to outdo any production of past years and Managers Hartshorn '12 and Gonsalo '12 are working hard for its success with this end in view.

CHORAL SOCIETY

FINE CONCERT TO BE GIVEN IN ASSOCIATE HALL

Much could be said of the coming concert by the Choral society, which is to take place Tuesday evening, Jan. 23d at Associate hall. The chorus has put in a great deal of solid, painstaking work into its rehearsals of the two compositions by Coleridge-Taylor which it will present under the leadership of Mr. E. G. Hood. Both "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "Death of Minnehaha" are remarkable dramatic musical settings of portions of Longfellow's poem. They are full of color and change in both vocal and instrumental parts, and are considered among the strongest and finest compositions before the public. With the Boston Festival orchestra to assist, the presentation of these works promises to be one of the most enjoyable events of the winter. But this is not all that the Choral society has to offer at this concert. In the solo talent which takes part in the program there is a rare treat in store. Miss Josephine Knight needs no introduction to a Lowell audience. Her voice is well suited to dramatic expression, and she sings with a spontaneity and authority that comes only from thorough mastery of text and music. Mr. Paul Althouse is the possessor of an unusually robust tenor voice. His work in the presentation of "The Messiah" at Lawrence on Wednesday evening was a revelation to those who listened. He handles his voice with superior musical intelligence, and is fast swinging toward the very front rank among American singers.

Mr. Stephen Townsend is a name familiar in Lowell, and his voice will be heard with pleasure. He took part in the first performance of "Hiawatha" by the Cecilia society in Symphony hall, Boston. In the beautiful Hiawatha's farewell he was very effective, and made this the crowning triumph of his singing. The sale of tickets has been very encouraging and a large audience is already assured.

ENGINE STRUCK CAR

Snow Blinded Sight of the Conductor

ROCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 6.—A fatal accident was narrowly averted last evening near the Gonic station, on the Boston & Maine railroad, when electric car No. 21 of the Dover, Somersworth and Rochester division of the New Hampshire Transit company, in charge of Conductor Norris Willey of Dover and Motorman Martin J. Donohue of Rochester was struck by train 816, due in this city from Dover at 6.40 p. m. and in charge of Conductor Moses Merrill and Engineer Walker.

About 20 passengers were in the electric car, en route to Dover and Somersworth among them being workmen on their way home. On arriving at the railroad crossing the car stopped and Conductor Willey being unable to see the approaching train on account of blinding snow signalled the motorman to proceed. The train was not seen by either the motorman or conductor until the car was on the railroad track and the locomotive only a few feet away.

The locomotive struck the rear vestibule of the car, removing it, but the passengers, seeing the danger rushed to the forward part of the car, panic-stricken and saved their lives. Had the conductor and passengers been in the rear vestibule, as is usually the case, they would have been killed. No one was injured in the least.

The electric car was put out of commission and passengers were transferred the rest of the evening. Word was immediately sent to headquarters and a wrecker dispatched to the scene of the accident. The passengers in the steam cars were shaken up by the sudden application of the air brakes.

SHIPPING IS TIED UP

Because of the Strike of the Longshoremen

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The strike of longshoremen for [illegible] wages [illegible] unloading the ships at the wharves [illegible] today with [illegible] resting [illegible] conference arranged between the representatives of the strikers and steamship agents. President Smith of the Chamber of Commerce [illegible] Chairman Bancroft of the [illegible] to take place at the chamber of commerce building today.

At the usual hour for beginning work at the docks today shipping was at practically a standstill and the wharves were piled high with merchandise. Steamers which were due to arrive at port here today were diverted to New York or other harbors since the steamship agents sent word of the conditions prevailing here. Although the effect of the strike has already been felt in this [illegible] the [illegible] lines what was most feared was the report that strikebreakers might be employed on one or more lines. Should this take place it was said that there would be a general strike of the freight handlers and other employes of [illegible] along the wharves. With these [illegible] there would necessarily be involved a general strike in all branches of Boston's commercial and transportation activities. Because of these fears, extended efforts were made by city and state authorities and others to effect conciliation between the strikers and steamship agents.

While insisting on the wage increase and refusing to leave the matter to the state board of arbitration the representatives of the longshoremen agreed to have a conference today with a view of deciding on a definite way to end the strike or result in plans for a settlement. It was stated that the longshoremen were not opposed to submitting the matter to arbitration by any men of standing and sufficient knowledge of the transportation business to render a fair decision. Should the strike continue it was said that the longshoremen have been promised ample financial aid.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSIONS

Were Caused by Out-of-Town Men, Says Labor Leader Meadows

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 6.—Spurgeon P. Meadows, labor leader and business agent of the business council of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, today said that out-of-town men caused the four dynamite explosions in this city at midnight on June 24, 1909. This followed the statement of former Mayor Bookwalter that local labor leaders were informed by him two years ago as to who had directed explosions against the property of Albert Von Spreckelsen, an open shop contractor. Meadows' assertion was made in connection with a report that the federal authorities were investigating whether or not other unions were interested with the ironworkers in having the Von Spreckelsen property destroyed. Conferences of men alleged to have accomplished the explosions were held in a hotel owned by John Halfman, who said today that he had testified before the county grand jury last year that Meadows attended some of these conferences. This Meadows denied, but he admitted meeting at Halfman's place walking delegates for unions that were endeavoring to persuade non-union men to quit work on one of Von Spreckelsen's contracts nearby.

"Three weeks before the Von Spreckelsen explosions," said Halfman, "two men who said they were from Chicago and whose names I do not remember rented a room from me. They were brought by the business agent here of a certain union. He told me the Chicago men were in the business of frightening 'scab' workmen and 'fixing' non-union jobs. He said they were here to 'fix' the local situation.

"Many men who came to meet the strangers I recognized as connected with the labor unions but the only one I knew by name was Meadows. The two Chicago men left here three days before the explosions and I have not seen them since."

The business agent referred to by Halfman also is charged with direct connection with the explosions in a formal statement to Mayor Bookwalter by Mrs. Hawkins, keeper of a boarding-house. She reported to the mayor, when he made the municipal investigation, that the business agent came to her house with other men in an automobile a few hours before the explosions took place, and said to her: "Keep your ears open about midnight and you will hear the damnedest noise you ever heard." Mr. Hawkins returned here from Los Angeles, where she went in response to a subpoena from the grand jury which indicted the McNamaras.

"That business agent always talked too much," said Meadows. "Union carpenters, painters, hod carriers as well as the ironworkers, were concerned in pushing the fight against Von Spreckelsen. But we did not have anything to do with the dynamiting. Neither did I meet the out of town fellows at Halfman's, but I know that imported men pulled off the explosions."

A VERY FAST BOUT

Young Boyle and Young Jasper Fought Draw

One of the best boxing exhibitions ever seen in this city was witnessed at the meeting of the Lowell Social and Athletic club last night when Young Boyle of this city and Young Jasper faced each other in a twelve round go. The clubhouse was crowded and the members were treated to the greatest bout that has been pulled off in New England for several years. Young Boyle was carded to meet Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea but the latter broke his arm in a match with Kid [illegible] and was unable to appear and so Jasper substituted. It was a real exhibition from start to finish and at its conclusion the large audience applauded and cheered each boxer to the limit. Billy Gardner the referee called it a draw and his decision was the best possible to make. Jasper had the reach on Boyle and during the early rounds appeared to have a lead on the local fellow. The latter, however, under the careful handling of "Matty" Carney and Freddie Mackin, changed his style of fighting and kept close to the Boston boy with the result that he was able to land some telling punches that the visitor felt. He worked a pretty right uppercut and his left jab reminded one of the punches that Jimmy Gardner used to worry his opponents. Boyle made his finest showing in the eleventh round when he put it all over Jasper and it looked for a time as if a knockout would be scored but the Lowell boy was too anxious. Boyle is a fellow who can stand considerable punishment and he proved that last night. He is behind, however, [illegible] because of the great amount of foot work he [illegible]. Jasper is a great fighter and when these two boys meet again one week from next Friday night the clubhouse will be crowded to the doors.

DEATHS REPORTED

As Result of the Cold Weather

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The coldest weather that this city has experienced in several years prevailed in New York today while last night was the coldest so far this winter and the mercury in some localities went below the zero point.

The city lodging houses were taxed to their capacity and in the emergency the morgue chapel was thrown open for the wanderers, of whom 150 found shelter there.

There were a number of exposure cases reported from the different hospitals. The municipal lodging house accommodated 1085 persons and sent 265 more to the charity dock building. In the host of unfortunates who applied for admission to the municipal lodging house were 25 women and four children.

Four persons died this morning as a result of the cold.

ONE MAN KILLED

Many Persons Injured in Train Collision

WRIGHT, Kan., Jan. 6.—Unable to see the station light in the blinding snowstorm, Engineer Penange of the Santa Fe passenger train number 12 ran past the station here. Before he could back into the station the train was struck by the New Orleans-Dodge City local westbound. Penange was fatally scalded, [illegible] Chalfant of the local was killed and 12 passengers were hurt.

DISTRICT MEETING

A district meeting of the French-American Foresters will be held in Putnam, Conn., on Sunday, January 14 at which time public installation of the officers of Court Tascheream, No. 52 will be held. Lawyer J. H. Guillet of this city, supreme chief ranger of the order, will preside over the installation and also at the public meeting which will follow.

A number of local Foresters will attend this meeting, and many good speakers will be heard, including Lawyer Guillet of this city and Lawyer [illegible] of Manchester, N. H., supreme vice-chief forester.

Lawyer Guillet has also accepted an invitation from the French-American [illegible] of New England to attend their [illegible] congress to be held in Lawrence on Sunday, Jan. 21, where [illegible] of the prominent speakers representing the F. A. Foresters.

Zero Weather Prevailed in This City This Morning

Today is the coldest day of the winter thus far. It is really unnecessary to make that statement, for almost everyone realizes the fact. Despite the fact that the cold was penetrating, on account of the wind, the mercury did not drop to as low a point as some persons would think.

The upper boulevard pumping station is considered one of the coldest points in the city, yet the thermometer did not show a reading below zero at any time today. It was zero at six o'clock and remained at about the same point until ten o'clock when the mercury started to rise and at noon the reading showed it to be six above zero.

Probably one of the coldest sections of the city today was Christian Hill where the thermometer showed five below zero. At six o'clock this morning the thermometer at the reservoir in Beacon street was 2 above zero, while at Merrimack square at eight o'clock it was three above zero.

Late yesterday afternoon the weather started to grow cold and when people were going home from work there was a strong wind blowing, the snow was drifting and it was biting cold. Those who were wise stayed at home last night, for it was no night to venture out unless it was really necessary.

The cold increased during the night and early hours of the morning and when people left their homes to go to work today it was cold enough to suit almost any one even the wood and coal dealers and those who are benefited by cold snaps.

About ten o'clock today the wind which accompanied the cold died down and the cold was more tolerable.

Snow Drifted

In the early evening the snow was blown in all directions by the wind and the street railway company had a force of plows out keeping the tracks clear. Towards morning the snow artillery was sent to the car barn on Middlesex street. Some of the lines were unable to keep on schedule time, but those well sheltered by houses did not have much trouble.

Eight plows were kept in operation late yesterday afternoon, last night and early this morning keeping the rails clear. In the open districts the wind blew the snow which packed down hard over the rails but the plows kept traversing the lines so rapidly that everything was in readiness for the cars this morning and comparatively little trouble was encountered.

The local division of the Bay State Street Railway Co. is well equipped with plows, having 22 on this division. Eleven are known as nose plows, there are 10 shear plows, and one rotary plow. The rotary plow cannot be used in the city owing to the manner in which it is operated. It is very effective in the suburban districts, however.

BURNED TO DEATH

Charred Body of Aged Man Found

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 6.—Michael Costello, a city employe aged 70, perished in an early morning fire in his home on Court street. His charred body was found beside the kitchen stove and it is believed that the explosion of a lamp set his clothes on fire.

PAYS HIS DEBTS

MAN SENDS $20,000 TO SETTLE HIS BILLS

SEYMOUR, Ind., Jan. 6.—Arthur DeGoyler, formerly connected with a real estate and loan company, who disappeared a few years ago and whose assets paid his creditors about six cents on the dollar, has forwarded $20,000 to pay his debts in full. The money was received here by Judge Montgomery, who refuses to tell where DeGoyler is or what he is doing. The money [illegible] the cases against DeGoyler were dismissed in the circuit court.

MORE REMOVALS

Members of Lawrence Health Board Dropped

LAWRENCE, Jan. 6.—Alderman Maloney and Alderman O'Brien assumed aggressive attitudes yesterday, the former removing Dr. J. Patrick Hughes and Henry Ralph as members of the board of health, and the other alderman [illegible] the park commissioners comprising William H. Howarth and Watkins W. Roberts, C. A. McCarthy, Daniel P. Daly and Albert [illegible].

Alderman O'Brien, in removing the park commissioners, did not wait for the city council to pass upon the status of the board, as the members had requested. "For the good of the service" was the reason assigned in each instance.

George W. Smith, who was removed by Alderman Maloney as agent of the board of health, continues to report for duty daily on advice of his counsel. He proposes to contest his removal under the Veterans Preference act.

Mayor Scanlon and Commissioner of Public Property O'Brien are at odds over the question to whose department the city messenger belongs.

Alderman Hannagan yesterday announced the removal of several employes of the water department in his policy of retrenchment.

Alderman Maloney yesterday [illegible] notice of removal of Leo Garneau and James Tierney, who have been employed as health inspectors at a salary of $18 per week. He [illegible] to retain John P. Fleming as plumbing inspector.

BALLARD DROWNED

He Was a Wealthy Somersworth Man

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—A special to The Evening Globe from Wolfeboro, N. H., says:

Charles Ballard, a wealthy overall manufacturer of Somersworth, N. H., whose home is in Portland, Me., is thought to have been drowned in Lake Winnipesaukee last night. Search is being made for the body.

Ballard arrived here from Somersworth yesterday and was driven to his camp on the lake. At the livery stable he left word that if any of his friends came up on the 7.10 train they were to be taken out to the camp and if no one came a man was to [illegible] for him this morning to [illegible] the [illegible].

There were no friends [illegible] among the arrivals last evening and this morning Perley Abbott went out to the camp to get Mr. Ballard. He was not in sight and on his [illegible] was this note: "Friend [illegible]: I have gone out to set some traps. If I am not back by eight o'clock don't worry, as I will be back later. Charles."

It is thought that Ballard ventured on the ice, which was not strong enough to hold him and perished in the waters of the lake.

DEATHS IN CHICAGO

Are Attributed to the Cold Weather

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Zero weather continued today to hold Chicago in its grasp and no relief for the present is promised. The word given out from the government weather office early today was that the mercury, which stood at eight degrees below zero at 6 a. m., might drop to 16 below before nightfall.

Suffering was intense. Four deaths were attributed directly to the weather. Scores of families were routed from their homes by fires. Yesterday firemen responded to 167 alarms and the calls continued to sound with regularity during last night.

SEN. LA FOLLETTE

HAS CLOSED HIS CAMPAIGN IN ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Senator Robert La Follette closed today his campaign in Illinois with a speech at Danville, the home of former Speaker Cannon. Later in the day Senator La Follette will go into Indiana, where he will speak at Indianapolis, Terre Haute and Evansville.

15th INFANTRY

BEING HELD IN READINESS TO PROCEED TO CHINA

MANILA, Jan. 6.—The 15th infantry which is stationed at Fort McKinley, where it arrives on Dec. 5th, is being held in readiness to proceed to China. It was brought up to war strength on its arrival.

Governor General Cameron Forbes denies that he has any intention of offering his resignation.

AGRICULTURAL TRAINING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—While much has been accomplished during recent years in agricultural training in the various agricultural schools and colleges of the country not enough attention has been paid to the training of teachers to give instruction in agriculture, according to A. C. Monahan of the bureau of agriculture.

In a report on the subject Mr. Monahan declares that there are only nine schools in the United States where a four-year course preparatory to teaching agriculture can be obtained.

ADMITS HIS GUILT

attorney did not in any way stop rumors of some escape for the self-accused clergyman.

It seemed to be the general opinion among these members of the bar that could be found this afternoon that there were three roads by which Richeson could escape death in the chair: first, by the acceptance by the court and the district attorney of a plea for a lesser degree of murder; second, by the appointment of a commission which might declare him insane, and, third, by an appeal to the governor and executive council after being sentenced to death and the granting of commutation.

The attitude of the executive council on the death sentence will be known within a few days, when the question comes up in the case of Silas N. Phelps who awaits the death penalty.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Grant Edmands, parents of Miss Violet Edmands, to whom Richeson is engaged to be married, were seen later in the day, but refused to comment upon the confession, neither would they say where their daughter was staying at the present time.

The confession was not expected by the public or by the prosecuting officials at this time, although there was a very general belief in legal and press circles that the case would collapse before it went to a jury.

Practically all of the minister's friends who believed in his innocence and those who expressed doubt as to the identity of Miss Linnell's murderer abandoned their support of the prisoner when he mutilated himself in his cell in the Suffolk county jail on Dec. 20.

This act led many to accept the theory that the minister had not been in possession of all his mental faculties for some time and his attorneys considered the advisability of applying for a commission to examine him as to his mental condition.

MRS. McLEAN SURPRISED

BROCKTON, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Edgar Linnell, mother of Avis Linnell, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. William MacLean, in this city, has returned to her home in Hyannis. Mrs. MacLean, when informed today that the Rev. Mr. Richeson had confessed, expressed surprise.

"Are you sure?" she asked.

Informed of the accuracy of the report she added that she had no statement to make. She positively refused to talk further about the case.

Her husband, who was instrumental in the prosecution of Richeson, also declined to make a statement. He said his wife, her mother and himself had been too prominently connected with the case.

HYANNIS PEOPLE SURPRISED

HYANNIS, Jan. 6.—The news that the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson had made a confession that he murdered Miss Avis Linnell of this town was received here with considerable surprise by a majority of the townspeople. While practically all of the residents of Hyannis nearly all of whom were well acquainted with the minister when he was pastor here, were of the opinion that he was responsible for Miss Linnell's death they expected that he would base his defense on the supposed inability of the state to prove that he gave Miss Linnell the cyanide of potassium which ended her life.

There was little sympathy for Richeson in Hyannis after the statement made by William Hahn, a Newton Center druggist, that he sold the poison to the minister and Richeson's effigy was hanged from a tree in the yard of his former church here. Mrs. Linnell, the mother of the murdered girl, who reached home from her daughter's house, did not care to make any comment at this time. Some sympathy is expressed here for the minister by former friends who think he has not been wholly responsible for his acts.

THE McNAMARAS

Indicted Again on the Charge of Conspiracy

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 6.—Two more blanket indictments were returned today by the federal grand jury in the nation-wide dynamite conspiracy case. Three additional charges are enumerated in the new bill against Olaf Tveitmoe, Anton Johannsen, F. A. Clancy and J. E. Munsey, the labor leaders indicted last week, together with the McNamara brothers and Ortie McManigal, and U. S. Dist. Atty. McCormick intimated that the arrests of other men might occur both in San Francisco and Los Angeles at any time.

PLENTY OF SNOW

FELL IN GREATER PART OF MISSOURI VALLEY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 6.—From two to six inches of snow fell over the greater part of the Missouri Valley last night and early today, while temperatures in some districts the lowest in ten years have prevailed since yesterday morning. In Kansas City, where thousands depend on gas for heat, there was intense suffering, the gas pressure being so low that practically no heat could be obtained from it. The mercury reached 12 degrees below zero, the lowest recorded here since 1895.

Reports of increasing damage to livestock and almost famine conditions in communities cut off from transportation continue to reach here from the southwest.

FUNERALS

QUEEN—The funeral of Mrs. Mary A. Queen took place at her home in Tyngsboro, yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. It was conducted by the Rev. C. E. Fisher, pastor of the First Universalist church, Lowell. There were many beautiful floral tributes, which attested to the esteem in which she was held by her neighbors and friends. The bearers were: Messrs. Fred A. Vinal, Myron A. Queen, Elmer E. Queen and Harold D. Collins. The funeral arrangements were in charge of George M. Eastman & Co., undertakers.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS

At the City Institution for Savings

The great increase in business at the City Institution for Savings has forced the management of this savings bank to make considerable alterations in the spacious quarters at the corner of Hurd and Central streets, and the banking rooms as they appear today are second to none in the city and the floor space is both spacious and convenient.

The City Institution for Savings was opened for business in 1845 and has since done business on a very large scale. The president and treasurer, Messrs. F. A. Buttrick and F. W. Hurd, have been in office since 1871 and 1875 respectively, and their fair deals as well as earnest work have made the institution what it is, one of the most progressive banks of Lowell.

The institution enlarged its quarters once before and at that time it was the general belief that the floor space then would be sufficient for all time, but despite the fact that the work room, or office space was quite large it was not sufficient for the increasing business, and likewise the space for the public. Therefore last July it was decided to enlarge the place and operations were at once begun.

The position of the counter in the business office was changed and the president's former room was turned into a storage safe. This room is square and spacious and is also fire proof. An addition was made to the business room, making a total floor space of 1800 square feet, the addition being built on the roof of the first story in the rear of the building. This room is daintily arranged, having a carbolith floor bordered with an 18 inch dark slate and a four inch slate base board. A large arch of pretty design has its position in the centre of the room. The walls have been repainted and the room has a very neat appearance.

The first room on the left side of the business room as one enters, is a ladies' room. This cosy corner is very attractive. The floor, as white as snow, is of the mosaic style, while the mahogany sheathing about seven feet high is of an artistic design and very pretty. This apartment is divided into lavatory and toilet. In the latter the floor and walls are of carbolith and very sanitary. The furniture is new and handsome.

Then comes the trustees' room equipped with oak furniture. The floor and walls are also of oak and the room has a fine appearance. The president's room is large, finely furnished and very attractive. The floor is of oak and has a pretty border. From this room is an exit to the business office by means of a former closet which was converted into a passageway, thus making it handy for the officials of the institution to enter the office.

The safe is still in the same place. Another place for new accounts was installed at the end of the business counter, this being done to accommodate the depositors.

Other important alterations were made in the two stairways. These were turned into one large stairway with tile steps, and in the corridor to the entrance to the banking rooms is a large skylight which affords a good steady light and the appointments are excellent.

The banking rooms are large and conveniently located and the patrons who are always treated with the utmost courtesy will undoubtedly appreciate the generous and very excellent improvements and alterations.

The quarter days of this institution come on the second Saturday of January, April, July and October.

The appended statement, an exact duplicate of the one sent the bank commissioners of the state at the close of business, October 31, 1911, gives an idea of the stability of the institution and the soundness of its investments:

BILLIARD TABLE

PRESENTED TO THE CENTRALVILLE SOCIAL CLUB

At the last meeting of the Centralville Social club the recently elected officers were installed, and the gift of a billiard table from Mrs. J. L. Chalifoux was accepted and a rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Chalifoux. The table, which is a pretty design, was given to the club through the efforts of Ex-Representative George E. Marchand, a member of the club.

The officers were installed by Severin Hebert, aided by Napoleon Larose. Those installed are as follows: Isidore Trudel, president; Edmond Traversy, vice-president; Omer Ducharme, recording secretary; Fred Lussier, financial secretary; Ludger David, treasurer; P. T. Gagnon, sentinel; Severin St. George, E. Pelletier, A. Camelle and H. Ducharme, directors.

The meeting was presided over by President Arsene Trudel.

YEOMAN MOORE

LOWELL BOY WRITES FROM NEW ORLEANS

Yeoman R. G. F. Moore, a Lowell boy, who is on the U. S. S. Petrel, has written an interesting letter to The Sun relative to his stay in New Orleans, Louisiana.

According to the letter the members of the fleet have had a very enjoyable time and they have been treated in a manner which they will long remember. Although Yeoman Moore claims to have had a good time he is anxiously awaiting the time when he can come back to Lowell. He expects to reach this city either in May or June and then he will not return to the navy.

The itinerary for the Petrel covering the period from January 2 to March 19th is as follows:

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2; Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, Jan. 6 to Jan. 11; Livingston, Guatemala, Jan. 11 to Jan. 19; Puerto Cortez, Honduras, Jan. 19 to Jan. 29; Bluefields, Nicaragua, Feb. 1 to Feb. 12; Cristobal, Canal Zone, Feb. 13 to Feb. 26; Port Limon, Costa Rica, Feb. 27 to March 4; Greytown, Nicaragua, March 4 to March 11; Kingston, Jamaica, March 14 to March 19; Guantanamo, Cuba, March 19.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Plans for Annual Meeting—Civil Service Examinations

The services of Mr. Albert Edmund Brown, music instructor at the State Normal school, have been secured by the board of trade for their annual January meeting, which will be held at Mathew hall, Dutton street, on the 15th instant. Mr. Brown, who is a great bass soloist, is worth hearing and no doubt his name will be a good drawing card on that night.

A feature of the evening, however, will be the lecture by Frederick Winslow Taylor of Philadelphia, who will deliver an important address on "Efficiency of Scientific Management."

Luncheon will be served to the members of the organization at 6.30 and at 7.30 the gallery will be thrown open for the accommodation of those interested in the topic of the discussion. Invitations are to be sent to overseers of the local manufacturing plants as well as to representatives of the labor unions, and it is expected a large attendance will be on hand.

The meetings of the different committees of the board scheduled for next week are as follows: Monday, Highway and Good Citizenship committees, 4.30 and 5 p. m. respectively; Tuesday, Educational and Executive committees, 4.30 and 6 p. m. respectively, and Wednesday the directors will meet at 4.30.

FUNERAL SERVICES

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The Episcopal burial service was read today over the body of Alfred Tennyson Dickens in Trinity church where 70 years ago, Charles Dickens, his father, attended services. Several miles through the streets of New York in biting cold and under a cloudless sky, the body was then taken to Trinity cemetery, where it was placed in a receiving vault to await its final disposition. A lot in the cemetery, donated by Trinity church, has been offered to his daughters as his burial place. Services at the church were conducted by the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity. The honorary pall bearers included Andrew Carnegie, Henry Clews, A. Barton Hepburn, former Senator Clark, Dr. John H. Finley and Courtney Bennett, the British consul general.

NAVAL DOCUMENTS STOLEN

KIEL, Germany, Jan. 6.—A safe containing secret naval regulations and documents was broken open and robbed in the cabin of the first officer of the protected cruiser Stettin today. A reward has been issued for the discovery of the thief. Naval officers declare that the stolen documents did not comprise any official military information.

ANOTHER DARING HOLD-UP

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Four men walked into the Central hotel early today, poked their revolvers in the faces of Henry Douglas, night clerk, and his assistant, looted the safe of $75, tied Douglas and his fellow clerk back to back with stout ropes and then fled. One of the hold-up men made off with a quantity of solid silver. This is the second hold-up within a week south of Fulton street, the "dead line" below which crooks are warned not to go across on peril of arrest.

STOCK MARKET

WAS FIRM AT THE CLOSING HOUR TODAY

Better Tone Infused Into the Prominent Stocks—Prices Hung Around Yesterday's Final Figures—Central Leather Stocks Depressed

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Price changes were few and relatively unimportant at the opening of the market which soon developed an irregular tone. Fractional gains were made by Lehigh Valley, American Can. pfd., Consolidated Gas and a few minor issues. The market leaders scarcely moved either way. Slight recessions were recorded in Third avenue, New York Central, Amn Smelting and Erie first pfd. Trading was extremely light.

The movement in the first hour was still irregular and the range limited. There were no aggressive operations for either account. Realizing in Lehigh Valley, American Can, pfd and Rock Island pfd. was offset by bidding up of other specialties. Interborough-Met. pfd gained over a point and there was a brisk rally in Third Avenue. Western Union was unusually active and gained 1½. By 11 o'clock the trend of the active stocks had become defined downward.

The market closed firm covering by the short interest infused a better tone into the prominent stocks during the closing hour. Prices, however, hung around yesterday's final figures and the demand was light. Central Leather stocks and bonds were depressed on reports of poor earnings. American Beet Sugar fell a large fraction and South Porto Rico Sugar 7 points.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Refuses to Discuss Political Situation

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt spent the morning in cutting down trees in the woods surrounding Sagamore Hill. When Col. Roosevelt was not wielding an axe he was giving directions. The biting cold apparently made no impression on him. To all inquirers the colonel sent word that he would say nothing. After more than a year of comparative obscurity, Oyster Bay is again achieving prominence. As a result of recent political developments, Sagamore Hill is once more in a state of seige. Despite the colonel's refusal to talk politics a squad of correspondents has camped in the village.

U. S. CARTRIDGE CO.

HELD DANCING PARTY LAST EVENING

The second annual dancing party of the employes of the U. S. Cartridge Co. was held in Lincoln hall last evening and the affair proved a grand success. An order of 20 numbers was enjoyed by the dancers, music being furnished by Miner's orchestra. The officers of the affair were: General manager, Wm. McLarney; floor director, J. Joseph McOsker; treasurer, J. Eugene Mullin.

SALEM FIREMEN

Used Milk Cans to Carry Water

SALEM, Jan. 6.—Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed three barns on Danvers street owned by Thomas C. Bryson, entailing a loss estimated at $2000. In one of the barns a horse valued at $275 was burned to death. The fire is said to have originated from an overheated stove in a harness room and there was no insurance on the property burned.

The fire department worked under great difficulty. In response to a call from box 315 Steamers 2 and 4, Hose company 2, the hook and ladder truck and a chemical arrived at the scene, which is at the extreme southern west section of Salem. The firemen suffered intensely from the cold, as the wind blew relentlessly over the wide stretch of pastures. The only way to reach the blaze was by Swampscott or Highland avenues and the distance from the city hall, owing to a long detour, is about four miles.

As soon as the apparatus arrived, Steamer 4 was put in commission by drawing water from a well. In six minutes the supply was exhausted.

At the same time the chemical engine which arrived with two large tanks of fluid exhausted its supply and the firemen were obliged to secure milk cans and draw water from Acorn brook. Finally enough water had been brought to refill the tanks, and then a geyser of chemicals was poured upon the Bryson cottage and it was saved.

So far as known the department was never before summoned into this section of the city.

THE WORST IN YEARS

Policemen, Firemen and Life-Savers Suffered Last Night

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—The first product this season of the northwestern cold wave factory reached Boston early today on the wings of a 30 knot gale, making the iceman's heart glad, the thinly clad sad and the householder with the frozen water pipe mad. A continuation of polar conditions for the next few days was the assurance given today by the weather forecaster. Temperatures in New England were not excessively low at sunrise today but the strength of the gale made the absence of heat more noticeable and those whose duties called for out of door work like policemen, firemen and the life-saving patrol on the coast said that the night was the stiffest in many years.

The temperature in Boston at 8 a. m., was four above zero, with lower readings farther north in New England and slightly higher to the south.

Something below the cipher mark is anticipated tonight throughout New England.

24 DEGREES BELOW

PITTSFIELD, Jan. 6.—Cities and towns in the Berkshire hills experienced one of the coldest days today in years. In this city at daylight, unofficial thermometers registered from 16 to 24 degrees below zero. In more exposed points even lower temperatures were reported. There was very little wind stirring.

DETECTIVE BURNS RELEASED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 6.—Federal Judge Anderson today issued a writ of habeas corpus releasing Detective William J. Burns from the custody of the county authorities. His bondsmen had surrendered him to the county criminal court, where he stands indicted on the charge of kidnapping J. J. McNamara.

NEW MEXICO A STATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—New Mexico, the forty-seventh state to enter the union, ceased to be a territory at 1.35 p. m. today when President Taft signed the proclamation of statehood.

GOOD SKATING

IS PROMISED AT SHEDD PARK TOMORROW

Charles A. Whittet, superintendent of parks, stated this forenoon that there would be good skating at the Shedd park skating rink tomorrow. He put two gangs of men at work scraping and shoveling the snow from the ice and if there are any rough places they will be flooded and made smooth. Scraping the snow from the rink was a pretty cold job and the men had to work for all they were worth in order to keep warm.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1911 was 15,442

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pottle, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1912. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

The advocates of a public bath system look forward with confidence to having something done in the matter during the present year.

One of the most pressing demands upon our city at the present time is that for a contagious hospital. The law requires every city to have one. The need of a tuberculosis hospital is equally great and both must be provided as soon as possible.

In regard to temporary loans in anticipation of taxes the municipal board [illegible] the job continuously to provide the money as it is needed so that there will probably be no need of borrowing any large amount pending the collection of taxes.

The government seems to be bringing out considerable evidence against the Chicago Packing company on the charge of criminal violation of the anti-trust law, but it remains to be seen whether any of the ten men indicted will be convicted and sent to jail.

The Atlantic fleet is to engage in another war game near the coast of Cuba, possibly to fight all over again the battle of Santiago harbor. This time two new battleships, the Florida and the Utah, will engage in the manoeuvres for the first time. The men of the navy do like to have something of this kind going on all the time.

The board of pharmacy in its annual report recommends that the law be made more specific and restrictive in regard to the sale of poisons. The board recommends that the law forbid any store to sell poisons without a special license. There has been a law to restrict the sale of firearms, and it is just as necessary that the law relative to the sale of poisons impose greater restrictions.

That was a bungling execution in which Elroy Kent was hanged. The hangman in that case should be held accountable for cruelty in using a rope that broke and necessitated the gruesome task of finishing the job in a manner similar to that in which the lynching mobs hang negroes in the south. This incident should induce the Vermont authorities to get an electric chair before they execute any more murderers.

The citizens of Lowell should show a little patience with the new government while the work of setting the machinery in motion is in progress. It is impossible to please everybody and the new commission should be allowed some latitude and some leniency during the transition period. Once all the offices shall have been filled the business of the city can be conducted without the pressure incident to the election of officials at the beginning of the year.

Governor Foss has renewed his demand for a state finance commission, and the subject will probably come up for discussion in the legislature. It is not clearly defined what the precise functions of such a commission would be, but at least one of its duties would be to prevent any municipality from getting into the straits in which the city of Lawrence finds itself at the present time. The new government, however, should be able to restore the finances of the city to a normal condition.

THE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Deputy Commissioner Prosser of the state board of education at the conference with the advisory board of the industrial school and the school board, Thursday night, gave a very comprehensive statement of the state's policy in promoting industrial education. The work is merely well begun in this city and if conducted on the lines laid down by Mr. Prosser and Principal Dooley at this conference it cannot fail to prove highly beneficial to our city. The movement is one that should be encouraged without, however, encroaching upon the important work of education in the common schools. It is gratifying to find the public schools, the industrial and the textile schools all working so harmoniously for the educational and industrial advancement of the community. It augurs well for the future of our city as affording opportunities for acquiring technical training never before available in this or any other city of the state.

ROOSEVELT ON THE JUDICIARY

Col. Roosevelt's editorial on the alleged danger arising from the "usurpation of power" by the courts in declaring unconstitutional laws which the people want and should have, is characteristic of the man. He holds that we surrender our liberties when we place such plenary powers of interpretation in the hands of men who are not responsible to us.

So far as we can judge from Col. Roosevelt's long editorial, he would either deny the judiciary the right of interpreting the constitution or else constitute the people the final judges in the matter or otherwise give the people some power by which they can override the judges who thus decide against the wishes of the people.

The Outlook editorial does not state precisely in what way he would make the judges responsible to the people or to what extent he would limit their power of interpreting the constitution. So far as we can fathom his meaning, he would not allow a case in which the court is almost equally divided to be decided against the people. It would probably meet his approval if the court were required to give a unanimous opinion in all cases in which a statute demanded by the people is declared unconstitutional. That would certainly give the people the benefit of the doubt; but it might soon make some very big rents in the constitution. Col. Roosevelt does seem to have a very pronounced antipathy to the courts and that is one reason why it is not safe to place such a man at the head of the government. When in office as president he [illegible] to the courts and denounced the courts for certain decisions. Neither the interpretation of the constitution nor the [illegible] with such a man as president of the United States.

That the mayor's private secretary is big enough for the job in every sense of the word.

That very few sleighs are in evidence though the sleighing is fairly good.

That certain members of last year's city council are constant attendants at the meetings of the municipal council.

That a vote when roll is called is worth four promises.

That the jump of the fish warden's salary from $50 to $100 a year has rendered the office attractive.

That call firemen may hear from Ald. Barrett in a way that will cause surprise.

That there are many candidates for city hall jobs whose names have not yet been voted upon.

That the new law governing the issuance of marriage licenses by the city clerk has frustrated the well laid plans of many a bachelor.

That the American Hide & Leather company's new beam house in Perry street will not be finished in February.

That business is on the increase at the Shaw hosiery.

That twelve men were engaged in shoveling out the gutters on a very short street in Belvidere yesterday morning.

That there will be some good ice races before the winter is over.

That Harry Gonzales is in line for the position of fish warden with Joe Flynn a good second.

That these are very busy days at city hall.

That Robert Van Tassell is still in Lowell and will not leave for the south, where he has accepted a new position, for a week or so.

That those holes have not been fixed in Pawtucket street near the French-American orphanage and that the light so badly needed has not yet been installed.

That the patrons of the street railway would like to see signs on the sides of the cars. At present, in many instances, the signs appear only on the front and rear ends.

That Alderman James E. Donnelly made a big hit at Keith's theatre Thursday night.

That Arthur Spero thinks it is about time that the municipal council would take up the question of public baths.

That the new city council should not indulge in any delay in the installation of a sanitary station near Merrimack square.

That Lowell has more pretty girls than any city in Massachusetts, not excepting Boston.

That a little boy or girl in furs looks just too sweet for anything when equipped with skates at Shedd park.

That the city is a little bit shy on cash but that all will be well in the near future.

That Judge Hadley wishes Gov. Foss would hurry up and appoint his successor.

That "Dan" Leary has withdrawn from the fight for the position of poundkeeper and that Orville Peabody has ceased to worry.

That the members of the Centralville Social club greatly appreciate the gift of Mrs. J. L. Chalifoux, who presented them a handsome billiard table.

That many people have not as yet dropped the habit of writing 1911.

That a local plumber is candidate for the position of inspector of buildings.

That the fellow who sleeps with the windows down from the top should wear a nightcap.

That eggs will keep just as well in the pantry as they will in the safe.

SEEN AND HEARD

A local business man had a rather novel experience the other night while attending a wedding celebration. Having received an invitation for the festivities, he called at the house in the evening and of course was well received. After putting away his hat and overcoat, he proceeded to the reception hall where a dance was in full swing. While he was looking on, an acquaintance in passing caught a lock of his hair and pulled rather hard. The man wore a toupee which was pulled from his head to his great discomfiture in the presence of the assembly.

The following from the Mechanicsburg, Pa., Journal, simply goes to show that the woman is bound to have the last word:

My wife, Mrs. Edna Rahn, having left my bed and board without cause, I hereby give notice that I will not be responsible for any debts which she may contract.

William Rahn.

My husband, William Rahn, tells an untruth when he says his wife left his bed and board. I still hold the fort. I expect him to support me, else he will know why. And as far as me making any debts for him is considered, he is not able to pay for his own debts that he makes for himself, let alone for anyone else.

Mrs. Edna Rahn.

Theatrical folks love to tell of a western manager, now prominent in the business, who made fame and fortune as proprietor of a small variety house in San Francisco.

The thrifty German had accumulated considerable money, and was about to open a new theatre. Several hours before the first performance the entrance was packed, and the manager in trying to reach the front door became hopelessly imprisoned in the crush.

"Here, here," he yelled, "peeples, peeples, it's me—it's Mr. Warner!"

As no one appeared to take any notice of him he again yelled at the top of his voice:

"Vait a minute, peeples. Vat's de use of pooshing like dis? Take your time—de first two acts is rotten."

A New York clubman who prides himself on his knowledge of things epicurean was much interested in an item he discovered in the menu laid before him on the occasion of his visit to a town of the middle west. The item was "green bluefish."

"Waiter," demanded the New Yorker, "what sort of bluefish are green blue-fish?"

"Fresh, sir," quickly responded the servitor. "Right from the water."

"How dare you try to impose upon me?" continued the clubman. "You know well enough that bluefish are not taken at this season."

Whereupon the waiter picked up the menu and gave it a careful scrutiny, as if by that action he would solve the mystery. Then, with an air of one suddenly enlightened, he added:

"Oh, that sir? That's hothouse bluefish."

VERSES WRITTEN ON MY BIRTHDAY

Ho, little Breezes, come play me a tune,
A tune of this Winter weather,
For my soul it is bubbling over with joy
And my heart is as light as a feather.
Play me a tune that is happy and free,
Of raindrops and whirling snow,
And let us frolic and merrily trip
On the light, fantastic toe.

Ho, ye chic Birdlets, come dance with me,
Upon this happy day,
Come, join the revels that make for sport,
And chant me your festive lay.
Sing me a song of joyful caprice,
Of fun in the fields far away,
And let me be happy, and shout and sing,
For I'm just Twenty-one today.

Oh, you old Father Time! You work full well,
The years seem almost to fly,
It seems a scant step from the Day of Birth
To the one on which we must die.
But, away with such thoughts on this festival gay,
And let me be light-heart and free,
For it's only once in a Life you can say,—
"I'm just Twenty-one today."

Then, ho, ye soft breezes, come, strum on your strings,
And play me a song of joy,
And let this occasion be full of mirth,
Of pleasure without alloy.
And haste ye snow Birdlets, and frolic with me,
Come, chant me your sweetest lay,
For my soul is at peace with God and men
For I'm just Twenty-one today.

—Antonio.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Boston Herald: Seldom has a public man shown so much intellectual and moral growth in a single twelvemonth as the present governor of this commonwealth. A comparison of his two inaugural messages suggests that the "General Improvement Prize" which Dartmouth college regularly awards each commencement day might well have its counterpart in Massachusetts. A year ago Mr. Foss' state paper was redolent with vindictiveness toward Senator Lodge, to whom by implication several of its passages pointed. It was throughout further tinctured with an agreeable dash of self-satisfaction. Both these elements are happily less in evidence now.

THE MISSOURI ASPIRANTS

Manchester Union: So, it appears, a state democratic convention in Missouri is deemed necessary to settle the differences between the adherents of Champ Clark and those of Joseph W. Folk for the Missouri delegation to the National convention. Perhaps, when the National convention is over, the democrats of Missouri will wonder why they put themselves to so much trouble.

TEACH THEM, NOT JAIL THEM

Boston Globe: All statistics of crime in the larger American cities show a certain percentage of offenses are committed by foreigners who have not been long in this country. A large proportion of the sins attributed to them, the district attorney of New York city says, "are due, not to malice or depravity, but to ignorance of our laws." The trouble is that most of the newcomers are absolutely unacquainted with our laws and ordinances, and in many instances they cannot speak or read the English language.

AGAINST THE HOLDING COMPANY

Boston Journal: If there is any possible kind of state regulation of activities—industrial, political or correctional—which is omitted from Governor Foss' second message, it must be because the suggestion has not been made to him.

Regulation with a crowbar is his most radical proposition, and he applies it to the Boston Holding company, which, he says, should be ripped apart in order to get the New Haven and Maine to connect the freight and passenger service through the city.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

William C. Preston, one of Belfast's stable proprietors, observed Christmas by giving his horses a holiday. The day before Christmas he told his men that under no circumstances were the horses to be let out on Christmas Day. The day was his Christmas present to the animals. Although opportunity to let them occurred many times during the day, the horses were left alone to enjoy their Christmas dinners, and it is safe to say that they appreciated their master's gift.

COULD NOT PUT HANDS IN WATER

Itching and Burning. Scratching Made Sores. Unable to Do Any Work for about 4 weeks. Tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Within 2 Months Perfectly Well.

Fort Fairfield, Me.—"About a year ago I was troubled with an itching and burning on my hands, and especially between the fingers. In a few days pimples arose, filled with water, and would pain me so as to make me miserable. The itching caused me to scratch and make sores with a crust on them, and I was unable to do any work for about four weeks. I could not put my hands in water, and they swelled, especially the backs of the hands. After suffering with it for a month and getting no relief, I was asked to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment by a friend, and must say I found almost instant relief, and within two months my hands were perfectly well.

"My little nephew when in infancy was troubled with tender burning skin especially on the lower part of the body, and would fret most all the time, his skin would blister and be so red and sore looking. We tried Cuticura Ointment after his bath, which was always taken with Cuticura Soap night and morning, and then he would rest comfortably. I cannot praise Cuticura Soap and Ointment enough for what it has done for myself and nephew." (Signed) Mrs. Blanche Daigle, Nov. 24, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have been the favorites for the treatment of eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations and other torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES GUIMOND

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guimond to Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guimond of [illegible] Merrimack street will observe their golden wedding Wednesday, Jan. 10. The happy event will be celebrated in a delightful manner. There will be a high mass of thanksgiving at St. Jean Baptiste church at 8 o'clock in the morning followed by a dinner to the children and grandchildren of the venerable couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Brastigan, [illegible] Merrimack st. A reception will be held from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and 7 to 10 in the evening. No formal invitations have been sent out, but Mr. and Mrs. Guimond will hold open house for their friends and relatives, who it is presumed will be present in large numbers.

Charles Guimond was born at Cap St. Ignace, Que., 77 years ago, while his wife, nee Helene Desjardins, saw the light at Lac Temiscouata, Que., [illegible] years ago. They were married at Cap St. Ignace, Que., on Jan. 10, 1862, the ceremony being performed in the Catholic church by the late Msgr. [illegible], who passed away last fall.

Mr. Guimond, who is a carpenter by trade, worked in Canada for 23 years, after which time he removed to this city with his family, having resided here ever since. Seventeen children were born to this aged couple, nine of whom are living, namely: Mesdames Alphonse Bernier of Cap St. Ignace, Que., William Brastigan, William Achin, Sylvester Sparks, and William [illegible], all of this city; Messrs. Adelard Guimond, an employe of the Boston & Maine; Amedee, Albert and Joseph Guimond, all of Lowell. Also 24 grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Guimond are both favorably known in this city. Mr. Guimond has been ill for a number of years, but lately his health has been improving and today he is as well as can be and is anxiously awaiting the day when he will renew his matrimonial promises. Mrs. Guimond is also enjoying the best of health and her sight is extremely good, for despite her advanced age she is still able to get along without the use of glasses, while her husband uses glasses for reading only.

For a number of years they have been making their home with their children, Mrs. William Brautigan, whose husband is janitor of the Marie building at [illegible] Merrimack street. A feature of the golden wedding is that all of Mr. and Mrs. Guimond's children and grandchildren will be present at the celebration, one of the daughters, Mrs. Alphonse Bernier of Cap St. Ignace, Que., and her husband having arrived last evening to attend the golden jubilee of their parents.

The mass at St. Jean Baptiste church will be a high mass and will be celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Henri Watelle, O. M. I., who will also deliver an appropriate sermon while special music will be rendered during the service.

M. T. I. EVENTS

Installation and 30th Anniversary to be Held

Mathew hall in Dutton street will be a very busy place tomorrow. In the forenoon the recently elected officers of the society will be installed into office and in the evening the 30th anniversary of the society will be observed with an elaborate entertainment program at which time an open house will be held for the public.

The installation of the officers will be held at the regular meeting which will take place in the assembly hall at 11 o'clock. The installing officer will be a past president of the society and the new board to be sworn in will consist of the following: James J. Gallagher, president; Rev. Dr. Keleher, chaplain; J. J. Guthrie, vice president; P. F. Brady, treasurer; George F. Brigham, recording secretary; James F. Rourke, financial secretary; George R. O'Neil, marshal; Patrick H. Crowley, Bernard A. Connors and Walter E. Powers, board of trustees; Frank H. Kelley, Henry Dangerfield and Edward A. Welch, board of examiners; Edward Harris, James Sloan and John E. O'Neil, literary committee.

President James J. Gallagher will have the distinction of being installed as president of the M. T. I. for the eighth consecutive term.

The 30th anniversary of the Mathew Temperance Institute will be observed at 8 o'clock in the evening and according to the program the event will be a notable one. Several invitations have been sent out to the charter members of the institute, or "old timers" as they are called and it is expected a large number of them will be present. The festivities will be presided over by President James J. Gallagher and the feature of the evening will be a lecture on the life of Daniel O'Connell by Prof. Hugh Molloy. Rev. Dr. Keleher, chaplain of the institute, will also deliver an interesting address and will be followed by an excellent concert on a Victor Victrola. The machine will be operated by Mr. A. L. Hiser of the Steinert Co., and the world's famous opera singers such as Caruso and several other artists will be heard in operatic selections. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to be present in the evening.

The committee in charge of the event is as follows: James J. Gallagher, James F. Rourke, Peter F. Brady, Walter E. Powers and John J. Guthrie.

Bachelor Girls

The M. T. I. Bachelor Girls, well known in local musical circles, will give a delightful entertainment in Woburn, Monday night, when they will be the guests of the St. Charles T. A. society of that city. The members of this musical organization, numbering 50, are under the direction of Mr. James F. Rourke and they have been heard to advantage in this city several times and no doubt they will be well received in the neighboring city. Tomorrow afternoon they will hold their last rehearsal at the M. T. I. hall in Dutton street. On Feb. 9, the Bachelor Girls will present their musical review at the Firemen's ball in Wakefield.

THE FREE LUNCH

PROVIDENCE LIQUOR DEALERS ASK THAT IT BE ABOLISHED

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 6. More than 100 liquor dealers petitioned the police commission yesterday to issue an edict against free lunches in the drinking places of Providence. The dealers assert they are doing a starvation business at the present time and that they want free lunches cut out altogether.

One dealer stated that the free lunch which he served daily costs more than his license fee of $500 a year and his rent included. It is also stated that some of the flourishing saloons are now serving regular dinners with a glass of beer.

As there are 100 saloons in the city and the demand is made by only one-quarter of the dealers, the commission decided last night that the lunch shall remain a while yet.

REFUSED TO SAY ANYTHING ABOUT POLITICS

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, declined to talk politics, either on the republican presidential situation or on the outlook in Indiana, after his arrival in Chicago last night.

Mr. Fairbanks, Henry Watterson, David J. Foster of Vermont and Miss Jane Adams will be guests of the Hamilton club at a reception tonight and later will address a meeting intended to promote peace treaties now pending.

YOUTH'S LESSONS OF LIFE

By EDWARD J. GALLAGHER, Editor Lowell Sun.
(Copyrighted, 1912.)

I

Children of my love to thee
These lessons I address;
Learn them, live them faithfully,
If you would win success.

There is something you can do
With ease and do it well;
Certain gifts are given you
By which you can excel.

If you can't originate
In handiwork and skill,
Early try to imitate
True excellence at will.

When your talents you divine
Success you can attain;
If you work along that line,
If mind and hand you train.

Early some good trade acquire
Support to guarantee,
While you strive for something higher—
Thus self-reliant be.

Let your aims be not too high,
Nor based upon mere chance;
One attained, another try—
Thus step by step advance.

II

WORK AND WILL.

Wondrous pow'rs that dormant lie
Can training bring to light,
As in grave emergency
Great men leap into sight.

Set no limit to your pow'r
With so much in reserve;
Difficulties yield and cow'r
To Work and Will and Nerve.

When a work you have begun,
Let naught your plan defeat;
Than a thousand things half done,
Far better one complete.

Men irresolute of will
Do little more than plan;
Halting, shifting, lagging till
They end where they began.

Man with purpose ever clear,
Ambition to inspire,
And the will to persevere,
Can win his heart's desire.

III

WHERE GENIUS LIES.

'Tis the genius of the great
By which they rise to fame,
All their pow'r to concentrate
Upon a single aim.

Oft the specialist of skill
Can fortune quickly carve,
Where with wider fields to till,
He might be left to starve.

Whether in the bloom of youth
You plant the Upas tree,
Or the seeds of worth and truth,
Such will your harvest be.

Do not trust your fate to luck,
Nor drift with any tide;
Laurels wait the man of pluck
Whom none can override.

Bode ye not an evil doom;
Man rules his destiny;
Hope and courage out of gloom
Bring final victory.

IV

HEALTH AND HYGIENE.

Would you health and life prolong?—
Of weakness find the cause,
Know the things that make you strong—
Live up to Nature's laws.

Seek the sunshine and the air,
Apply strict hygiene,
Shun extremes and keep with care
The saf'ty line between.

V

SPEECH AND REASON.

Cultivate the power of speech
And its entrancing spell,
That the highest aim may reach
And disputants repel.

Train the mind to reason out
As by unerring law
Solid truth to clear from doubt
And right conclusions draw.

Trace the cause and the effect,
Compare and analyze,
Guised error to detect
In artful sophistries.

Thus will judgment e'er decide
With foresight, wise, discreet;
Blunders fatal turn aside
And guard against deceit.

VI

TRAIN THE MEMORY

In the treasure-house of mind
The vivid will remain,
Things well classified in kind
And linked as in a chain.

Vague and jumbled slip away
Like water through a sieve
Marv'lous pow'r of memory
Will frequent effort give.

VII

POTENCY OF TACT

Tact is potent to command
Of quick resource possessed,
Prompt each point deciding and Disposing for the best.

'Tis the pow'r alert to see
And timely do things right,
Seeking opportunity
And grasping it on sight.

VIII

TO GAIN WEALTH

Industry goes hand in hand,
With thrift, to earn and hold;
Business tact is like a wand
That turneth dross to gold.

Under shrewd and skilful use
The dollar multiplies;
Then the totals reproduce,
Till mammoth fortunes rise.

IX

YOU MUST PREPARE

If a prize you're out to win
No effort you should spare,
Nor too soon can you begin
To practice and prepare.

Are you in a contest?—then
Of little things beware;
Oft are downed the greatest men
By little who prepare.

Look ahead to times adverse
When must you do and dare;
Study hard—your part rehearse
You'll rise as you prepare.

X

TIME'S APPEAL TO MEN

Life on earth is but a span,
And time forever flies,
Making this appeal to man—
"Life's golden hours prize."

Messengers of fate come they,
With blessings to endow
All who brooketh not delay
In meeting duty now.

Time's appointments no man wait,
And all they hold in store,
To the man a moment late
Is lost forevermore.

Leave not for uncertain years
The duties of today;
Age a wasted life's arrears
Can never hope to pay.

Age brings burdens of its own—
Infirmity and care;
Errors past it may bemoan
But never can repair.

XI

ALL MUST OBEY

Most of all the ills of life
Are penalties that wait
On our disobedience rife,
From laws we violate.

Laws of Nature's vital plan
Enforcing His design;
Laws of God revealed to man,
Of state, if just, divine.

All authority ordained
That justice may prevail,
Must be loyally sustained
'Gainst all who would assail.

Children parents must obey,
With reverence and love,
These, those higher up and they
The sovereign pow'rs above.

Wield we in this ruling scheme
The sceptre or the rod,
Justly under law supreme,
'Tis authorized by God.

Boys should note the time, the place
And how, without dispute;
Orders clear in every case,
With care then execute.

Always is he valued most
Who cannot shirk or lie,
Rather than desert his post
Who'd like a hero die.

XII

PENALTIES OF VICE.

Evil Habit comes with smiles
A fascinating friend,
Leading on by wanton wiles,
A tyrant in the end.

Yes! a tyrant and a curse,
His vot'ries he enslaves,
Dragging them from bad to worse—
Down to dishonored graves.

Men enslaved to appetite
Will mind and manhood sink,
When the demon they should fight
That craves for madd'ning drink.

See the libertine and sot
Devoid all pow'r of will,
Self abased and loving naught,
But vices vile that kill.

Nature vengeth wild excess
With dire insanity,—
Death or ills most pitiless
That scourge humanity.

XIII

SELF-CONTROL AND SELF-RESPECT.

Oft as well befits their shame,
The slaves of passion fare
Like the moth when lured to flame
By the deceptive glare.

Yet has every man free will
To use in self restraint,
Ample in its power, still
To ward off moral taint.

Self-control and self-respect
When linked with love divine,
From temptation will protect
And make your lives benign.

XIV

RIGHT AND HONOR.

Still let honor be your guide
And principle your shield;
Stand for right whate'er betide
And ne'er to tyrant yield.

Impulse is but instinct blind,
And if not quickly met
By the reasoning pow'r of mind
'Twill bring life-long regret.

Ever keep your conscience clear—
To your conviction true,
Never err from threat or fear
Though countless others do.

XV

STRIVE FOR THE IDEAL.

Always be of cheerful mood,
Kind, gentle and humane;
Charitable, never rude—
From selfishness refrain.

Let high motives wake your zeal
For things that will endure;
Ever strive for the ideal,
The true and good and pure.

XVI

CHARACTER.

What's the ruling power of life
Seen in the great and strong,
Tow'ring high in storm and strife

Ah! 'tis character sublime,
Nobility of soul,
Spurning baseness, wrong and crime
For virtue's highest goal.

'Tis a pow'r that ne'er can bend
From strictest rectitude,
With an ardor to defend
The cause of human good.

XVII

PATRIOTISM AND FREEDOM

To the poor and sore distressed
E'er lend a helping hand;
Help to freedom the oppressed,
And fight for fatherland.

Leaders who like beacon lights
Defy the storm's rage
In the fight for human rights,
Can winning battle wage.

They should lead the multitude
In common cause combined—
All for human brotherhood
And th' uplift of mankind.

A STRONG CABINET

Has Been Named by Pres. Sun Yat Sen of China

SHANGHAI, Jan. 6.—The republican government is assuming a very strong position and now considers that the affairs of China are in its hands. The leaders believe that the country is almost unanimously in favor of the republican movement and that the regular trained army will come over to their side almost to a man.

The cabinet formed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen has today declared the terms it will offer to the Manchus on their submission. These are much more generous than was at first believed would be the case. They include the concession of the summer palace and the forbidden city in Peking with equal civic rights and duties beside life pensions.

The cabinet nominated by President Sun Yat Sen is regarded generally as a strong one. Most of the personages named accepted the portfolios offered them, with the exception of Wang Chung Wei, who declined that of foreign affairs.

This, however, is regarded here as a form of courtesy on his part to the seniority of Dr. Wu Ting Fang, who in his turn beat Wang Chung Wei to accept the post offered him. President Sun showed some hesitation in the appointment of Cantonese, as he desires not to seem to allow too much preference to them in forming his cabinet.

Wang Chung Wei is a graduate of Yale, London, Paris and Berlin, in all of which universities he passed with honors. He is an extraordinarily brilliant lawyer. Dr. Wu Ting Fang insists that there must be no differences of opinion and that all must show unswerving loyalty to the president.

THE WEEHAWKENS

Held Annual Dancing Party Last Night

The Weehawkens held their second annual concert and dance in Associate hall last evening and the affair proved to be a pronounced success both financially and socially notwithstanding that the night was quite undesirable.

This organization is composed of prominent young men of the "flats" and it is well known throughout the city, being foremost in athletics as well as in social lines. That their friends are many was demonstrated by the large crowd that responded to the club's invitations and entered into the pleasures of the evening.

In the summer months the Weehawkens occupy a beautiful camp on the banks of the upper Concord and it is one of the most inviting of all that dot the shores of that placid stream. As campers they are unsurpassed for their hospitality, the latch string being always hung out, for as entertainers they have made an enviable reputation among the camping fraternity. The camp is fitted up with all the fixtures necessary to make it as home-like as possible and it is needless to say that many happy hours are spent in their cozy cottage during the warm weather.

ANDREW J. DOWD,
General Manager.

The club's motto is "Success is the Reward of Perseverance" and each and every member kept these words in mind while preparing for this event, the annual social effort of the organization.

The attendance was unusually large and far beyond the most sanguine expectations of those in charge of the affair.

At eight o'clock an entertainment program which was worth the price of admission, was carried out with such well known entertainers as John J. Dalton, "Babe" Rogers and Alderman James E. Donnelly.

The musical program was greatly enjoyed by those present and each number on the program was well received. John J. Dalton sang "My Hero" from the "Chocolate Soldier" and was compelled to sing it again for an encore. "Babe" Rogers sang the "Navajo Rag," and he too was unable to get away without an encore. Alderman James E. Donnelly then sang the "Harbor of Love," and the audience demanded as its encore one of the Harry Lauder songs, and got it. "When I Get Back to Bonnie Scotland," was the number he gave and he brought down the house. Ed. Shea was expected to be present and sing, but he was unable on account of illness.

After the entertainment general dancing was enjoyed until midnight, Kittredge's orchestra furnishing the music for dancing. Those who officered the pleasant affair were: General manager, Andrew J. Dowd; assistant general manager, Thomas J. Boyle; floor director, Joseph H. Fahey; assistant floor director, James J. Boland; chief aid, Arthur P. McMahon; aids, William McCartin, John Sullivan, Andrew Mullin, Thomas H. Donoghue, Paul Roane, Frederick Dougherty, Edward Johnson, Thomas Salmon, Joseph P. Donahue, Joseph A. Donahue. Treasurer, Edward L. McMahon.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

La Societe St. Jean Baptiste at its recent meeting installed the following officers who were elected for a term of one year: Hilaire Dozois, president; Absalon Gaudreau, vice-president; Wilbrod Bouthillette, recording secretary; Narcisse Asselin, assistant recording secretary; Isidore Turcotte, treasurer; Pierre A. Leclere, assistant treasurer; David Letendre, sergeant-at-arms; Rev. Fr. Brullard, O. M. I., chaplain.

VETERAN FIREMEN

Elected Officers for the Ensuing Year

The annual meeting of the Lowell Veteran Firemen's association was held Thursday night at the central fire station in Middle street. There was a good sized attendance and considerable business of importance was transacted, the most important being the election of officers for the ensuing year which resulted as follows:

President, Edwin A. Salmon; first vice president, William W. Murphy; second vice president, Amos A. Sanborn; third vice president, William A. Dolan; fourth vice president, Nat Bishop; recording secretary, Charles H. Philbrick (elected for his 27th term); financial secretary, James F. Norton; treasurer, J. F. Swett; board of directors, James F. Norton, Nat Bishop, J. C. Haywood, William H. Halstead and E. E. Smith; relief committee, E. A. Salmon, C. H. Philbrick, J. H. Swett, H. Hutchinson and T. W. Collins; steward, James F. Norton; delegate to the New England league for two years, C. H. Philbrick.

CHIMNEY FIRES

Firemen Called Out by Three This Morning

Portions of the local fire department were called out three times this morning to extinguish chimney fires which were caused by people burning big fires in either boilers or stoves.

At 7.15 o'clock this morning there was a chimney fire at 575 Broadway but the blaze was extinguished before any damage was done. At 8.35 o'clock a portion of the department was called to the residence of John C. Burke in 11th street where there was a lively blaze in progress but the fire was soon extinguished. At nine o'clock a telephone alarm was sent in for a chimney fire in a house at 30 Crosby street, the property of Michael Sheehan.

F. C. Church held the insurance on the house in Crosby street belonging to Mr. Sheehan.

$1,500,000 LIBRARY OPENED

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6.—Herbert Putnam, librarian of congress and 12 librarians from cities throughout this country and Canada came to St. Louis for the formal opening today of the $1,500,000 central public library.

One third of the total cost of the building—$500,000—was furnished by Andrew Carnegie who gave $1,000,000 to St. Louis in 1901 to be used for public libraries. The other half of his gift is to be used for branch libraries of which six have been built already.

ROOSTER WAS DRUNK

Owner Thought the "Bird" Was Dead

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Jan. 5.—Sullivan Haines of Skowhegan has a Wyandotte rooster that for the rest of the winter will be obliged to wear a red flannel suit, having Thursday been stripped entirely of his feathers as a result of having drunk some hard cider and becoming intoxicated.

Just before Christmas day Mr. Haines paid $5 for this prize rooster and intended to use it at the various poultry shows to win prizes. Wednesday morning he went into his cellar and, wanting an old cider barrel for some purpose, he turned the contents of it into a tub in the yard and then went into the woods for his day's duties. When he returned along toward night he found his prize rooster supposedly dead.

The rooster's body was still warm, and thinking that it had been killed, he hung it up and began to strip the feathers from it. When he had it nearly stripped the king of the barnyard pulled up one leg. He then saw that the bird was not dead, for it moved all the more.

He took it into the house where it was warm and soon Mr. Rooster was standing up. The trouble with him had been he had got into the cider, and the rest was all a dream to him.

Mrs. Haines thought it a shame to kill the rooster, and she immediately commenced to make him a suit. She made him a pair of red flannel trousers with suspenders and a jacket and a collar to go around his neck to keep that warm.

There is every indication that Mr. Rooster will be ready to exhibit at the coming poultry show here this month, and will probably win first prize.

THE POPULAR AND BECOMING ONE PIECE FROCK

Is a Favorite This Season

ONE of the open sartorial questions of the season is whether the long coat has popularized the one piece frock or the latter very useful garment has made the separate coat a favorite.

Whichever way one may settle this debated point the fact remains that never have long coats of a distinctively different type been more worn than at the present moment. The erstwhile long coat model was a dressy affair, often in Empire style, and was usually fashioned from [illegible] and elaborately braided. But the popular winter wrap is characterized by an uncompromising roughness of appearance—one might say mannishness.

There is no mystery, however, concerning the really charming long evening coats, but that is another story—the one piece frock is our subject now.

The present enthusiasm in favor of this form of dress is caused by the particularly lovely models which have appeared in the shops and have emanated from the hands of the dressmakers. Indeed, many of the smartest little one piece house frocks are turned out by the wearers themselves. I have in mind a delectable little gown of pale blue French challie with its surface powdered by tiny white dots. The waist is of the kimono style, and the floral border of the challie is used as a trimming down one side of the blouse, about the bottom of the straight skin fitting skirt and down the middle of the sleeves, from shoulder to end of manche. About the low, round Dutch neck is a plaiting of finest white lawn, which lingerie adornment also forms turned back cuffs on the elbow sleeves. The high waist line is finished with a belt of the floral border.

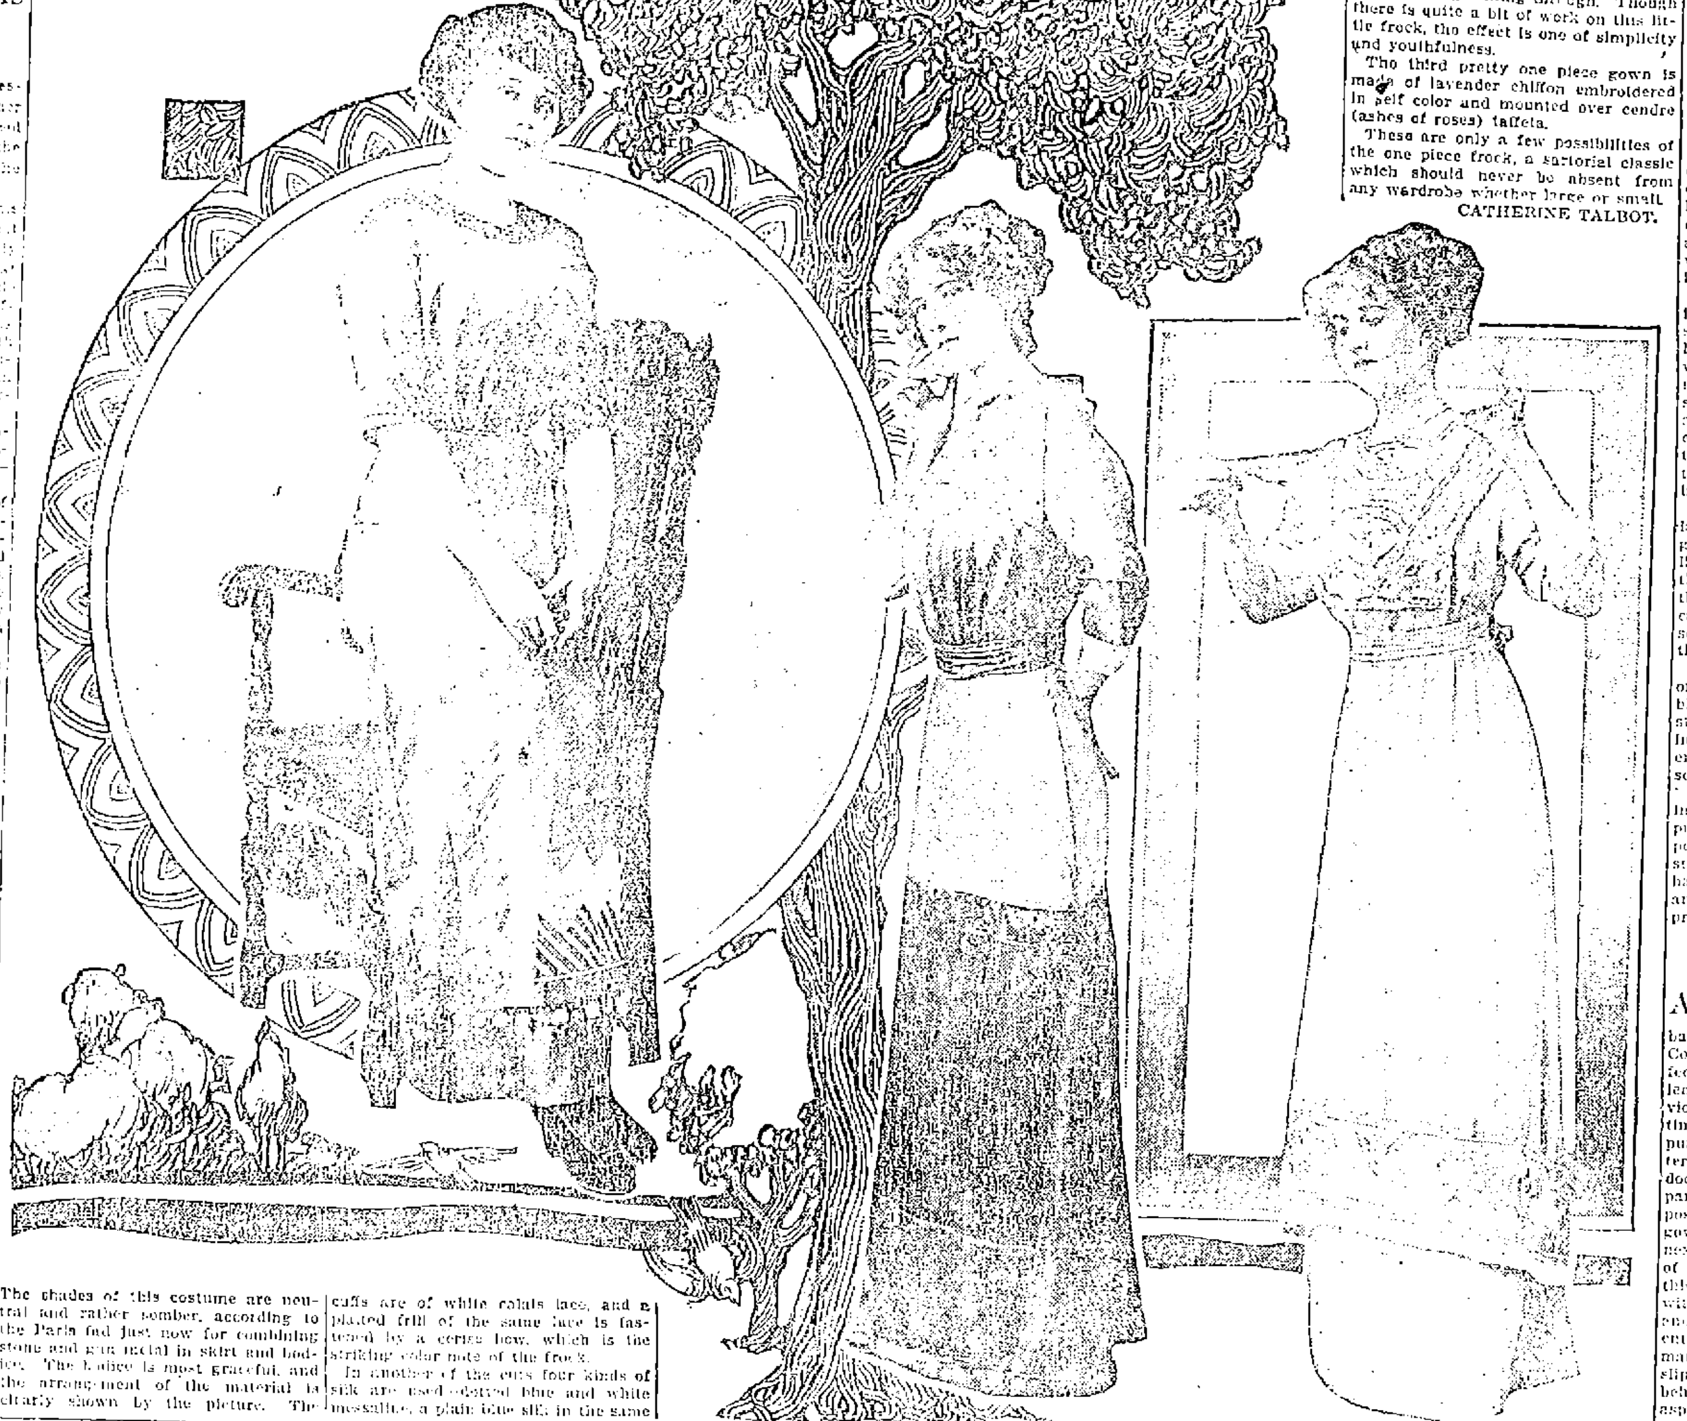
In another instance the upper part of a certain one piece frock took the guise of a veritable blouse bodice, but was redeemed from any appearance of sloppiness by the fitting of the upper part into a shapely little corselet affair, the fronts closing visibly with stunning onyx buttons below a dinky little turn down embroidered collar.

In still another model the fronts of a rose colored cashmere were thrown open with a large revers of black moire, which rested on an under revers of the cashmere of parchment tinted, needle run lace.

Round the waist there was worn a very narrow black patent leather belt. This was a wonderfully smart model, the slightly high waisted skirt molding the hips like a glove.

The one piece gowns illustrated are of a more ambitious character than the frocks just described, but charming for wear at the ever popular bridge party.

The stone gray satin dress with deep hem of gun metal satin would be particularly becoming to a slender figure.



The shades of this costume are neutral and rather somber, according to the Paris fad just now for combining stone and gun metal in skirt and bodice. The bodice is most graceful, and the arrangement of the material is clearly shown by the picture. The cuffs are of white calais lace, and a plaited frill of the same lace is fastened by a cerise bow, which is the striking color note of the frock.

In another of the cuts four kinds of silk are used—dotted blue and white messaline, a plain blue silk in the same delft shade and two kinds of blue and white striped silk cleverly arranged in border suggestion. On the waist a strip of chiffon is inserted across the shoulders and sleeve, the lining of white satin gleaming through. Though there is quite a bit of work on this little frock, the effect is one of simplicity and youthfulness.

The third pretty one piece gown is made of lavender chiffon embroidered in self color and mounted over cendre (ashes of roses) taffeta.

These are only a few possibilities of the one piece frock, a sartorial classic which should never be absent from any wardrobe whether large or small.

AN EASY WAY TO LAUNDER LACE

NOW that so much lace is used on costumes it is well for women who do not live near a reliable cleaning establishment or for those of an economical turn of mind to know an easy way to do up lace. The best results are obtained by basting the lace to a piece of cheesecloth or a strip of old muslin, being careful that all the points are securely caught. This secures the points against curling up or being torn in washing, besides lessening the labor of ironing.

Immerse the basted lace on the strip in warm, soapy water and allow to soak a half hour. Squeeze it gently between the fingers, and when as much water as will yield is squeezed out immerse it in clean, soapy water. Let it soak and continue the process as often as is necessary. Do not wring or twist even slightly or the threads will be torn. When the lace is clean rinse it twice in cold water, dissolving a little blue in the last for white lace.

Care should be taken in stiffening the lace that only the slightest body is given, just enough to counteract the limp effect. A little sugar dissolved in the water of the last rinsing will give the desired effect. This means extra care in ironing, as the iron easily scorches the fabric under these conditions.

To iron lace place it face downward on a padded ironing board or soft blanket covered with a white cloth stretched tight so there are no wrinkles in it. Iron perfectly dry with a moderately hot iron, pressing out every scallop and point.

In the case of fine laces where ironing is not desirable the lace may be pulled into shape and the scallops and points pinned down to a tightly stretched cloth to dry. Take care to have all the points pulled exactly even and pin them at the extreme edge to preserve their contour.

A Jewel of a Watch

A WATCH not larger than one's thumb nail is concealed at the back of the latest Parisian pendant. Complete in every respect and a perfect timepiece, this watch is convenient to have where one can, not too obviously, glimpse the Cinderella time in time to flee from the ball, lest the pumpkin shell peep through the glittering automobile in waiting at the door. But this is not all of the fairy part of this wonderful pendant. It is possible to match it to your varying gowns. One evening it is blue, the next it is rose, again it bears the color of the emerald. How does it attain this chameleon feat? Just glance within the box from whence it comes and you will there behold three different panels of enameled surface in as many distinct shades. These panels slip into the face of the pendant, and, behold, a neckpiece of entirely different aspect! So you see this wonder watch is also a wonder pendant.

DESSERTS FOR WINTER MENUS

LEMON JELLY.

PLAIN lemon jelly with whipped cream or a cold custard sauce is a very refreshing and acceptable dessert to serve with a roast dinner.

To an ounce of gelatin add half cup of cold water and let it stand about half an hour or until soft. Put a pint of water and a cup of sugar over the fire and stir until the sugar is dissolved, then add the gelatin and stir over the fire just long enough to dissolve that and remove at once from the fire and let cool. Have ready the juice of three lemons, strained through cheesecloth and turn into the mold. A few thin slices of lemon rind may be added to the sugar and water.

COFFEE JELLY.

Take half a box of gelatin, half a cup of cold water, a pint of boiling water, one cup sugar and three-fourths of a cup of strong, black coffee, filtered through flannel or several thicknesses of cheesecloth. Mold in a ring or in a bowl with smaller bowl placed in the middle and filled with ice. Be sure to brush the outside of the smaller bowl with the white of egg. When the jelly ring is turned out fill the center with whipped cream, plain or flavored with wine or caramel.

ORANGE JELLY.

Proceed in the same manner as in the recipe for lemon jelly, adding the juice of one lemon to a pint of orange juice, strained clear.

CHESTNUT CREAM.

Make a puree of boiled chestnuts, sweeten to taste and flavor with vanilla. To a pint of the puree add an ounce of soaked gelatin dissolved over hot water. Stand in a pan of cracked ice, and when it begins to congeal add about half a cup of stiff whipped cream. Coat a mold thinly with lemon or orange jelly, then, if you have a double mold, fill the outside with chocolate bavarian and the center with the chestnut mixture. If you do not possess a double mold you can use two bread pans of different sizes or two enameled or aluminium basins or bowls of convenient sizes.

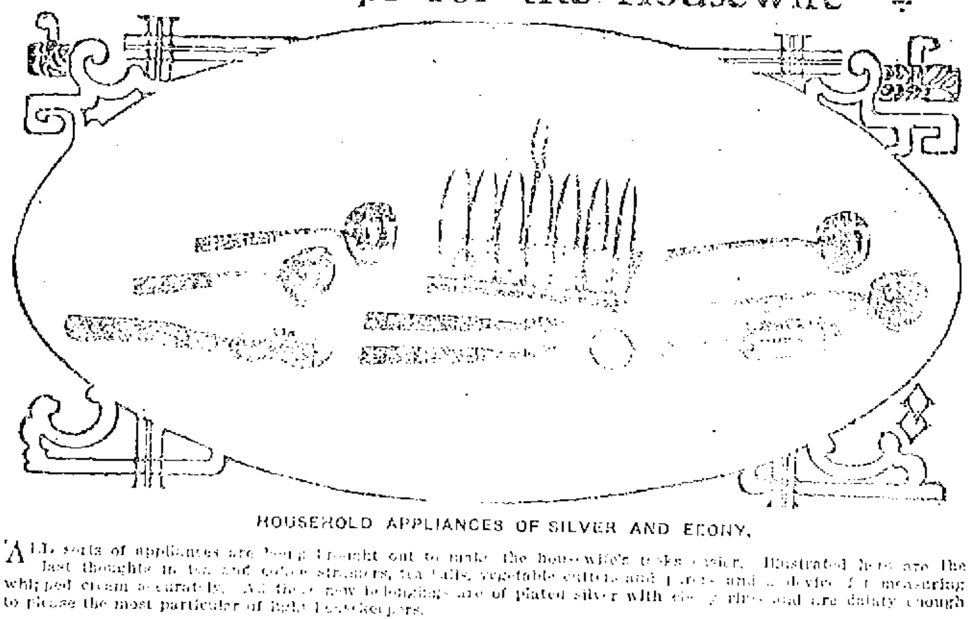
PLAIN BAVARIAN CREAM.

Soak two tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin in a quarter of a cup of cold water and dissolve it in a quarter of a cupful of hot. Put cream over hot water with half a cupful of sugar. Chill in a basin of cracked ice, and when it begins to congeal cut and fold in the whip from a pint of cream, adding a tablespoonful of vanilla.

NEAPOLITAN JELLY.

Make a plain blancmange and color a third of it pink, a third brown with a little melted sweet chocolate. Make enough lemon and orange jelly to form two layers, then fill a plain oblong mold—a tin bread pan will do—with alternate layers, the white or pink layer in the bottom, then the lemon or orange, and so on. Serve with whipped cream or a custard sauce.

New Helps For the Housewife



HOUSEHOLD APPLIANCES OF SILVER AND EBONY.

ALL sorts of appliances are being brought out to make the housewife's tasks easier. Illustrated here are the last thoughts in tea and coffee strainers, tea balls, vegetable cutters and [illegible] and a device for measuring whipped cream accurately. All these new belongings are of plated silver with ebony handles and are dainty enough to please the most particular of little housekeepers.

A KNITTED AFGHAN

THE girl who finds knitting a rest should start on a couch or bed afghan that is as easy to do as it is dainty. It is knit in stripes of two colors, and the stitch gives an effect of almost a plaited cover.

Use bone needles of moderate thickness and wool in white with any color in combination. Blue and white and pink and white are two of the favorite combinations.

The afghan may be any desired size, and the stripes can be put in as fancy dictates. A good proportion is seventy stitches on the needle and about a yard long.

The stitch is simple. Throw on the seventy stitches, then knit four stitches, throw the thread forward and knit off two stitches together, throw it back and knit four more stitches, again throw thread forward and knit off the two together. Throw it back and knit four more. That is all there is to it. It gives an openwork and closed lengthwise stripe that is novel.

For coloring, knit seven rows of the white, then three of blue, three of white, three more of blue, and so on until there are three narrow blue stripes and two white. Then knit fifteen rows of white and repeat the narrow stripes of blue and white, with fifteen more rows of white. Alternate in this way until the afghan is long enough, ending with seven rows of white as in the start.

For a finish, crochet a seven stitched shell in blue around the entire edge.

Improving Raw Eggs

PERSONS who are compelled to take raw whites of eggs may find the flavor improved somewhat by a sprinkling of minced [illegible] and a few drops of lemon. Just as the tiniest pinch of salt and pepper, sometimes a light sprinkling of nutmeg makes a change from these condiments.

A raw egg with the yolk unbroken can often be taken in a glass of wine.

Some delicate persons who do not have to abstain from their usual morning coffee can add the raw egg yolk to that and can then take it easily. It must either be swallowed quickly before the hot coffee begins to cook it or it must be beaten into the beverage, as an egg partly cooked in this way would be anything but appetizing.

Studs for the Jabot

WITH the coming of the large lacy jabot, which must often be fastened back against the blouse or coat, has come the demand for "something different" with which to hold the pretty, delicate frills in place. To meet this new problem an ingenious little lady has devised for her own use a set of jabot studs, as she calls them. For these she has called into service the ever useful wee baby Irish crochet roses—one for each stud. For the body of the studs she takes either those that one sees designed for men's shirts, to slide in point foremost, or the pearl topped ones used not long ago for shirt waists, being put through eyelets and a little back snapped on the stem.

Around the top of each stud (she allows three for a set) she either crochets or sews a covering, and when that is secure she fastens to it the little petaled white rose. This, slipped through the lace edge of the jabot frill, need not hurt it in the least, and it can be fastened in place on the under side, so that in spite of wind and weather the filmy lace and lawn keep just where the wearer decrees.

One need not be held strictly to the baby Irish roses for this purpose. Flowers can be wrought of silver or gold thread, or ribbon roses of a tint to harmonize with the gown worn might easily be fastened to the useful little studs. In fact, there is no end to the pretty devices open to the clever experimenter in this line. For a rather long jabot it would be charming to have four or even five in the set, using three to secure the center edge to the blouse and two for the loose frill edges.

Coiffure Ornaments In Barbaric Effect

GORGEOUSLY oriental is this hair ornament for evening wear. Metallic lace studded with turquoise forms the [illegible] the hair, and over the ears are huge cabochons with dangling loops of beads. The earrings of pearls, set in hoop style, increase the barbaric effect.

HAIR ORNAMENT OF TURQUOISE AND PEARLS.

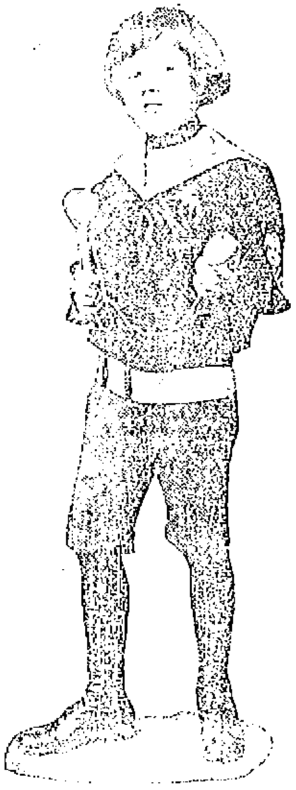
MANLY SUIT FOR A LITTLE LAD

THE short blouse and belt give this suit for a small boy a manly suggestion. Blue mohair with collar and belt of tan broadcloth is the material used. On the sleeve is embroidered a tan and red chevron. For party wear such a suit would be effective carried out in black velvet with trimmings of white broadcloth.



DANCING CLASS COSTUME.

The Clothes Peg Woman

WOMAN cynics complain that men are more interested in thin, shapeless girls than they are in healthy, well developed young women. They assert when men take brides they want clothes peg women rather than women who are undoubtedly healthy and strong. They cannot understand why the spiritual and the mental equipment of women should count for more than health and strength. In answer to those cynics, statistics are produced by both men and women to show that not even in the days of ancient Greece, when womanhood is supposed to have reached perfection, were women so well developed and healthy as they are today. Dr. Sargent, the Harvard instructor in physical culture and one of the recognized authorities on physical development, says women are stronger and have reached more nearly the ideal of perfection than at any other time in the world's history. He insists while the statues of women that have come down to us from Greece may represent an almost ideal type of physical beauty, the sculptors who carved those statues were working in the ideal rather than in the real.

COMPLEXIONS IN WINTER

THERE is nothing to equal olive oil for the face where some women are concerned. These are usually the thin people, who should live on plenty of hot milk during the winter months, drink cocoa instead of tea and bathe their faces nightly with warm olive oil.

If the skin peels easily and becomes red in patches even distilled water is too strong a measure, while soap is most injurious. Oil cleans and softens when the face is gently massaged.

Those with more hardy skins should try the effect in this weather of an oatmeal bath after washing the face in warm water. A handful of oatmeal powder sifted with pulverized orris root can be used. This will dry the skin and soften it as well.

"Eat celery to soothe the nerves," say the diet faddists of the day. "Eat celery for the complexion," adds the beauty doctor.

Modish Mourning

MODISH mourning is nowadays not the gloomy, depressing garb that it was a few years ago. It is rare in these enlightened days to see even a widow in weeds enshrouding her face.

No, the outward and visible signs of up to date trappings of woe are decidedly more cheerful in appearance. The French have always gone in for lighter and less somber effects, but Americans until recently have followed the English fashion set by Queen Victoria after her husband's death of wearing deep, unmitigated black when respect was to be paid to the passing away of a near relative.

The chic dinner gown seen in the illustration is a French model composed of crape and dull silk that is very smart and the last expression of up to date mourning attire. For the girl who is in mourning there are the smartest fichus in black brussels net finished with a narrow fringe instead of the usual ruffle. Sometimes a ruffle borders the top of the fichu, but the effect is not so good as that of the plain line.

THE OLYMPICS WON

Took Three Points From the Alpines

The Olympics won three points from the Alpines in a game in the City league series last night. The Alpines started off by winning the first string but the pace was too fast and they lost the remaining strings and the total. The bowling of Letram of the winning team was the feature of the game. In the second string he put up 118 and his total for the three strings was 359.

The Calvary bowling team and a team made up of picked men met on the alleys last night and the former team won by a wide margin. Kennedy of the winning team was high man.

In the game between Teams One and Two of the U. S. B. & S. Co. league the former team won all four points.

RAICEVICH WON

He Defeated Romanoff in Straight Falls

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Raicevich, the Italian heavyweight wrestler, although handicapped in height, weight and reach by Romanoff, won his match with the Cossack in Mechanics building last night in two straight falls. The men are two of the biggest wrestlers in the country, Romanoff weighing 280 pounds, while the Italian is 50 pounds lighter, but has a better knowledge of the game than has Romanoff.

Despite his handicap, Raicevich was the aggressor most of the time. As neither of them can speak English, and Referee Tuohey cannot speak their languages, he had to do a lot of his refereeing with the aid of a whistle.

It was very evident before the first session had gone far that Romanoff relied more on his strength than on what little he knew about the style, which was catch-as-catch-can. Several times when Raicevich was on his hands and knees, the Cossack did not appear to know how to get a hold.

A number of times the Italian had good holds, and it looked as if he would get a fall, but Romanoff would break the hold by his strength. After wrestling half an hour, Raicevich, who was quick, despite his weight, got a front nelson on the Cossack, and in quick time had the Cossack on the floor. The latter used all his strength to break the hold, but the Italian had him too firmly in his grip, and gradually the shoulders of the Cossack were forced to the mat, Raicevich winning the first in 32 minutes 10 seconds.

In the second session Raicevich did a stunt that brought the large crowd of spectators to their feet, yelling like mad. The Italian laid prone on the floor, taking a rest, and twice the Cossack threw all his weight on top of him. The third time he tried it the Italian wriggled away, and the Cossack came down with a bang on the floor.

They were working for a hold when, like a flash, the Italian seized the Cossack's left arm and threw him over his shoulder onto his back on the floor. The Italian fell on him at the same time, securing a front nelson. Amid great excitement Raicevich forced Romanoff's shoulders to the mat, winning the second fall in 7m. 55s. Raicevich was declared the winner, and the hundreds of Italians who were present gave him a great reception.

TICKET SCALPING

Both Clubs Exonerated by Commission

CINCINNATI, Jan. 6.—The final official action was taken here yesterday on the celebrated ticket-scalping scandal that ruffled the baseball world directly after the world's championship series in New York and Philadelphia last October. While the national commission gathered enough evidence to assure it that wholesale ticket scalping took place in both cities, yet this evidence indicated that neither the New York National nor the Philadelphia American League club owners, managers, players or employes were in collusion with the scalpers.

The commission holds that the charges by the press at the time were justified, but gently criticises a number of persons who at the time of the episode offered to produce proof as to the alleged collusion, but failed to furnish any evidence of value.

Besides exonerating both clubs the commission praises them for the extra precautions which were taken against scalping. State and municipal legislation against scalping is urged.

MORE MEN DROPPED

Continued

Paul Delaronde were the painters who were discharged because of no work.

"It would not be policy for us to go ahead and spend money in anticipation of our appropriation," said Mr. Cummings, "and that is why it was deemed advisable to put the carpenters on half-time. We will have to go slow until we find out what our appropriation will be." There is considerable work in the lands and buildings that ought to be done at the present time but Mr. Cummings says he doesn't believe in going ahead until there is something to go ahead with.

The Water Department

Commissioner Barrett did not put in an appearance at his headquarters in the water department at city hall this forenoon but it was said that he had visited the pumping stations. Chief Hosmer of the fire department was looking for Mr. Barrett. He understood, he said, that Mr. Barrett would make the rounds of the fire department today but he didn't show up. The chief had a talk with Alderman Barrett yesterday afternoon and the alderman told him that he was going to transfer the chief's stenographer, Miss Morrow, to his office at city hall where he has established headquarters.

The Mayor's Office

When it comes to letters Mayor O'Donnell is in a class by himself. He has received more letters during the few days that he has been in office than some chief executives in past years received in six months. One of the letters received today was from Mayor O'Connell of Worcester, so it was a case of O'Connell to O'Donnell and here's the letter:

Worcester, Jan. 5, 1912.
To His Honor the Mayor
Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I was informed a week or two ago that the city of Lowell was having some little difficulty with the Hassam Paving Co. of Worcester. I hardly understand the nature of the trouble or misunderstanding between your city and the company and would be very much pleased if you would give me some information concerning the same. The information may be of considerable assistance to me as we are having considerable work done here by the company.

Will you kindly give me the information as early as convenient and greatly oblige.

Yours very truly,
[illegible] F. O'Connell
Mayor.

The School Board

When asked by a reporter of The Sun as to when the school board would get down to real business, Chairman Farrington of the board today replied: "As soon as the board has adopted permanent rules we will start upon the transaction of business. I believe that we should have rules at the outset and Mr. John J. Rogers is at present drafting them. I feel confident that the rules as suggested by Mr. Rogers will meet with the immediate approval of the board and as soon as he is ready I will call a meeting of the board as a committee of the whole to discuss them. When they have been adopted a business meeting will be called without delay."

Chairman Farrington, meanwhile, has instructed Superintendent Whitcomb to prepare a list of the expenditures for 1911 and an estimate of the appropriation needed for the ensuing year. Mr. Farrington will confer with Commissioner Cummings at the latter's convenience relative to the matter of school repairs. Heretofore all school repairs were made exclusively by the department of the inspector of buildings, but section 51 of the new charter gives the school board certain power relative to repairs, the section reading as follows:

1. The school committee, in addition to the powers and duties pertaining by law to school committees, shall have power to provide, when they are necessary, temporary accommodations for school purposes, and shall have the control of all school buildings and of the grounds connected therewith, and the power to make all repairs, the expenditures for which are made from the regular appropriation for the school department, except as is otherwise provided herein.

"In the past it would appear," said Mr. Farrington, "that the school department has always had some difficulty in having repairs made on school furniture. Fortunately Commissioner Cummings was formerly a member of the school board and understands the needs and requirements of the school department."

Takes Optimistic View

The inspector of lands and buildings in closing his report for the year 1911 takes a very optimistic view of things and allows that Lowell is due for the greatest building boom in her history. List to his words of encouragement:

For years Lowell has shown a healthy growth, both in population and in general business, and although the past year has developed a slight depression in business as regards work of some of our larger corporations, preparations have been made by many of these to further increase their capacity for business. The outlook is therefore bright, for the reason that there is great prospect that business will increase within a short time and that the plants will again be taxed to their utmost, turning out manufactured products. When this time arrives and in my opinion it will be within a very short while, we may expect a building boom, the like of which Lowell has never known.

Notwithstanding the slight depression in business of these corporations, there has been general activity in the building line and although this year's building operations, as regards the report of the estimated cost of buildings for which permits were issued, falls off over a quarter of a million dollars from last year's figures, I feel that there has been more work for building tradesmen during the past year than for a score of years previous, for in addition to the work started during the year it must be remembered that a great many buildings were started the year previous and were only completed recently, while there are a few more that may not be finished until the middle of 1912.

For the total number of permits issued in 1911 was 561 as against 562 for 1910, showing an increase of only 2, while the estimated cost of the work for 1911 was $1,500,269 as against $1,777,651 for the previous year, showing that the value of work in 1911 was $277,385 less than in 1910.

The following table of estimated values as they appear on building permits tells the story from 1904 to 1911 inclusive:

1904	$ 677,305
1905	878,090
1906	901,745
1907	1,225,317
1908	1,016,631
1909	1,333,553
1910	1,777,654
1911	1,500,269

State Aid Inspector

State Aid Inspector Stone will come to Lowell about January 15 to inspect pension certificates and records, circumstances and general conditions. The inspector will remain three days and the different ones receiving state aid will be informed by card at what hour to appear at the state aid office at city hall. These examinations take place only once in two years.

Has Extra Clerk

Commissioner Brown has an extra clerk in his office but it was stated this morning that the new clerk, Albert Forsythe, was employed only temporarily and for the purpose of taking count of the personal property and contracts in the department. Mr. Forsythe was one of Mr. Brown's campaign managers. Mr. Brown called at the city messenger's office this forenoon and said he would like to have the big desk formerly used by Frank M. Dowling, clerk of committees, transferred to his office. The city messenger said he would have to consult Commissioner Cummings before making the transfer as he was the custodian of the building and its contents.

The Health Department

The year just passed was a pretty busy one for the health department and the expenses of the department were considerably more than the expenses of the previous year. In 1911 the department spent $73,425.97 as against $65,[illegible]11.34 in 1910.

The cost of contagious diseases for the year 1911 was [illegible]. This was considerably more than in 1910 because there were more cases to attend to. The department collected [illegible] loads of swill as against [illegible] loads in 1910. The swill sold at $2.25 a load and the money was paid into the city treasury. The number of loads of ashes dumped in 1911 was 25,272 as against 23,351 in 1910. The haul of ashes is longer now than it used to be because of the [illegible] that the [illegible] dumps are filled [illegible] and some of the [illegible] used today are quite a distance away which requires the employment of more horses and more men.

His First Opinion

City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy issued his first official opinion today. He has given an opinion [illegible] the following [illegible] council, [illegible] today, is his first written opinion since he took office as city solicitor:

Office of the City Solicitor,
[illegible], Jan. 5, 1912.
To the [illegible] of the City of [illegible]:

Gentlemen:—In response to your request for an opinion relative to the query, "To what department should petitions of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Lowell Electric Light Corporation for pole locations, etc. should be referred."

I am of opinion that such petitions may be referred to any department by the municipal council for the purpose of obtaining recommendations.

All petitions for pole locations as above mentioned shall be controlled, governed and disposed of by the municipal council, exercising its legislative function.

Therefore, I conclude that when such petitions are addressed to the municipal council there should be no reference to any department, except for the purpose of obtaining information.

The municipal council, when acting upon such petitions, is exercising a legislative function which cannot be delegated or referred to any department for action.

The granting of pole locations is the creation of a privilege, and comes under the legislative functions of the municipal council.

In case the municipal council should at any time deem it necessary and advisable to obtain information concerning the proper location of poles or wires, it seems to me that reference of such petitions may be made to the department of public property and licenses, and the department of streets and highways; and the administrative heads of such departments then in turn shall hold themselves in readiness to report to the municipal council.

Respectfully,
J. Joseph Hennessy
City Solicitor.

Always the best at [illegible].

FOUND A PURSE

JOSEPH FLANAGAN PROVED HIS HONESTY

Joseph Flanagan, of 181 East Merrimack street, is an honest man and is worthy of being commended for his honesty. As he was hurrying through Merrimack square this noon he picked up a lady's mesh bag, and without stopping to ascertain the contents, turned it over to Sergt. Ryan, and started for Belvidere, without stating who he was, but the sergeant knew his name. Upon opening the bag it was found that there were several bills of large denominations and other articles of value. The bag was taken to the police station where it awaits an owner.

CARD OF THANKS

The undersigned take this means to thank their many friends and neighbors for expressions of sympathy and the many beautiful floral offerings received during the illness and at the time of the death of a beloved husband and faithful son, William J. Duffy.

STOLE SLOT MACHINES

Three Young Men Answer to Charge in Court Today

Edward Paradis, Joseph Donohoe and Emile Rousseau were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging them with the larceny of three peanut vending machines, the property of Louis A. Weller. Rousseau entered a plea of guilty but the other two pleaded not guilty. The court after considering the evidence in the case found all three guilty and sentenced Donohoe and Rousseau to the Massachusetts reformatory inasmuch as they had records. Paradis was given a suspended sentence to the reformatory.

According to the testimony offered Mr. Weller has peanut vending machines attached to the outside of stores in different parts of the city. Of late he has found that several had either been removed or broken. On different occasions he has reported the loss to the police, but he knew nothing of the three in question having been stolen until informed by the police.

Joseph Vashue who resides in Adams street while in his cellar last Sunday suddenly came across the three young men. Inasmuch as Paradis resides in the same building Vashue thought nothing of it, but when he saw them working on the slot machines he became suspicious.

Later the matter was reported to the police and after Paradis had been questioned he implicated Donohoe and Rousseau but denied that he had anything to do with the stealing of the machines.

Sergt. Ryan told of visiting Paradis house in Adams street and finding one slot machine and the glasses of two others and Sergt. Giroux told of the arrest of Donohoe and Rousseau who were sleeping in an attic in Lilley avenue. Sergt. Giroux stated that in searching Rousseau he found a pair of pliers, wrench and screw driver.

Donohoe is just after returning from the reformatory and Rousseau is on probation, but there is no previous record of Paradis.

Sent to Jail

Dennis A. Bloom appeared in police court several weeks ago on a complaint charging him with neglecting to provide for his wife and children. He promised to do better in the future and after agreeing to pay $3 a week to his wife he was placed on probation but he did not carry out his good resolutions and as a result was brought into court this morning and sentenced to jail for four months. Under a law which was recently enacted by the legislature Bloom will have to work every day in jail and for his labor the county will pay to his wife 50 cents per day for each day he works.

Had Registered Milk Bottle

Charge of Larceny

Samuel E. Barry was charged with breaking and entering the room in Paige street occupied by Manuel Santos and the larceny therefrom of two coats, both of the value of $18. Inasmuch as the government was not ready for trial the case was continued till Wednesday.

Fine of $12 Imposed

Joseph Dufresne pleaded guilty to the larceny of $2 in money, the property of the Connors Bros.' Construction Co., and he was ordered to pay a fine of $12. It is alleged that on the 21st of November Dufresne was in the employ of the company and was given some canvas to take to a store for which he was to receive $2. He went to the store, delivered the canvas and received the money and then left the city. He was arrested in Woburn and brought to this city.

Serious Charge

Peter Bruska and Mary Pevers entered pleas of not guilty to complaints charging them with a statutory offense. At the request of the government the cases were continued till Monday.

Drunken Offenders

Simon Bue was fined $5 and several first offenders were fined $2 each.

HELD UP BY BANDITS

Italian Identified Three Men Under Arrest in Worcester

WORCESTER, Jan. 6.—Three Italians, believed to be part of a gang of highway robbers, were taken into custody last night on the complaint of Joseph Mazzamorro, an Italian laborer on the Worcester water works, who claims he was held up yesterday and robbed of $25 as he was coming home from work at the new city reservoir in Holden.

The men arrested are Paul Savastian, aged 19, Dominico Marsalle, aged 22, and Michael Notrangelo, aged 31. Mazzamorro identified the three men positively as those who held him up.

A fourth man held a gun to his head, he says, while the others took his money. The name of the fourth man he gives as Matteo Renaldo, and the police know this latter man well.

Last July Notrangelo was brought to the police station with an ugly bullet wound across his head, which he charged Renaldo with inflicting.

He was held for disturbing the peace and Renaldo charged with assault and battery. Both were fined, but appealed their cases.

Complaints of holdups among Italian residents have been frequent of late, and when Mazzamorro came to headquarters yesterday with his story he was held up and a squad of officers took him out late last night and landed the three men.

In the room supposed to be occupied by Renaldo the police found a canvas suit case with 10 recently killed chickens in it, most of which were blood warm when found, but Renaldo was missing and has not been apprehended.

Renaldo is said to be the man whom the New York police long sought on a charge of murder in killing a fellow countryman in that city. The police believe he is the leader of the alleged gang.

The fact that the others fell into the trap set for them while Renaldo disappeared, leaving the warm chickens in his room, is held to indicate that he was on the lookout for trouble and was perfectly willing to let the rest of the gang take their chances while he made his escape.

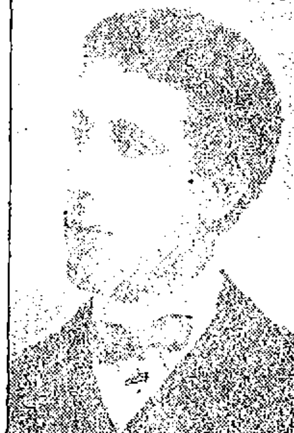
Highway robbery is the charge against the three men in custody.

HORSFALL INDICTED

Lowell Man is Held on Charge of Manslaughter

The Middlesex grand jury reported at East Cambridge yesterday afternoon before Judge McLaughlin. Frank F. Ryan of Somerville was indicted for murder in causing the death of his wife, Georgianna M. L. Ryan, at Somerville, Dec. 26, last, by shooting. Ryan pleaded guilty to the charge in Somerville court.

Demenico Beninato of Waltham was indicted on a charge of murdering Giovannina Natoli, his sweetheart, by shooting, at Waltham, Nov. 21 last.



JAMES H. HORSFALL

Paul F. Taylor, the Worcester automobilist who was indicted in November on charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Patrick Sullivan and Frank E. Downs of Boston in Marlboro, Sept. 23, 1911, was indicted on a charge of recklessly operating an automobile and for going away without stopping after injuring persons and property.

George J. Chabot, the chauffeur, whose machine killed John and Harry Rouff, boys, on Charles River road, Cambridge Thanksgiving eve, was indicted on a charge of recklessly operating an automobile.

James H. Horsfall of Lowell was indicted on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Ruth Kittredge at Wilmington, Nov. 11, 1911. He was also indicted on charges of recklessly operating an automobile, operating an automobile while intoxicated and going away without stopping after causing injury to persons and property.

CAUGHT IN GALE

Schooner Driven Ashore on Deer Island

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—In a heavy northwest gale early today the fishing schooner Hattie F. Knowlton, outward bound for the fishing grounds, was driven ashore on Deer Island near the pumping station. Her crew of five men took to the dory and succeeded in reaching shore safely. They were drenched by the water and suffered considerably from the cold.

Although the schooner lies hard and fast it is believed that she will be floated at high tide this afternoon. The tug Confidence is standing by. When the crew left the Knowlton she was not leaking.
